A DEMOCRATIC SCOOP IS SPOILED BY HANNA

A BIG MEETING WAS HELD AT YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, October 16.—Senator Hanna nipped a scheme in the bud last night by springing an advance sheet of a document about to be issued by the Democratic state committee. This contains a series of questions which he is asked to answer. The purpose is to cast them broadcast at every meeting which he addresses in order to embarrass and annoy Mr. Hanna and also to sow seeds of distrust in the minds of the voters. The questions, so far as he read them, are of a trivial character in keeping with the Democratic campaign, but in some instances of a particularly vicious kind.

The senator sprung the document at the close of his meeting here last evening, when he spoke to several thousand people in the opera house and received one of the most flattering testimonials accorded him during the present campaigning tour.

"I have here," he said, "a series of questions which it is proposed to ask me. Perhaps this is as good a time as any to take them up. The first asks whether Representative Burton, of Cleveland, is not a good Republican, even though he opposes the ship subsidy bill. Of course he is. The next is whether I think I ought to appoint 15 members of the Ohio legislature to federal jobs, who assisted me in my fight for the senate. It is wrong there. I appointed more than 15.

"I never go back on my friends. Another is, what was the amount of my bar bill at the Neil house in Columbus during the campaign of 1898. That is a hard one. I can't answer it. I did not pay any bar bill. I don't know who did."

Speaking of the Democratic platform as adopted by the state convention at Columbus, Senator Hanna declared it to be a patchwork of falsity and fancies, stripped of every element of Jeffersonianism.

"Look at it," he said. "What is there to appeal to an old-time Democrat? Jefferson taught that the functions of government were to enact and enforce law, to protect life and property of citizens and that there its functions ended. The present platform is opposed to every act of that great man. He did not believe in municipal ownership. There is no Jeffersonianism in that. Not even sense.

"The platform is absolutely antagonistic to every principle of the American government. It is opposed to Christianity. It would overthrow society and revolutionize conditions in this, the greatest country in the world."

Col. Herrick preceded the senator and discussed state issues. Rev. S. R. Frazier presided. Before coming here for the evening meeting, Herrick and Hanna spoke at Ravenna and Kent in Portage county and in both were given kind receptions. Today there is but one meeting at Wellington in the evening. This is Col. Herrick's birthplace, and he speaks there alone.

IMPRESSIVE FUNERAL OF MRS. GOODWIN

Beautiful And Appropriate Floral Emblems Came from Near And Far.

The funeral of Mrs. James H. Goodwin was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of John S. Goodwin, East Fifth street. The services conducted by Rev. M. B. Pratt, assisted by Rev. Edwin Weary, were solemnly impressive. The home was packed with sorrowing friends and all were deeply moved while the minister paid the highest earthly tributes to the beloved woman.

Though everything kind and lovable was spoken by the minister about Mrs. Goodwin's life as a whole, the oration was based more particularly on her life as a mother. "Her entire life seemed wrapped in her home," were the words of the preacher. "She was affectionate, sweet in disposition, pure in heart and all of her happiness was derived through the happiness brought upon her home by her never-tiring efforts to please. Of no woman could more be said. Not alone was this good woman the idol of her home. She was loved and adored by every acquaintance."

At the conclusion of the touching remarks a last sad view of the body, which was lying on a most beautiful bier, surrounded by a profusion of flowers, the gifts of friends both far and near, was tendered the sad concourse, after which the body was tenderly borne to the hearse by the following persons, an honored acquaintances of the dead woman: George Barnhard, William Rowe, Hal Harker, B. M. Louthan, Dr. W. A. Hobbs and B. C. Simms. The funeral cortege was then formed and started for Riverview cemetery, where the body was laid to rest after another touching service.

Among the floral offerings was one for which the members of the family were especially grateful and appreciative. It was tendered by the employes of the Goodwin pottery and a more beautiful arrangement of flowers was never designed. It was in the shape of a wreath, fully five feet in height. At the top rested the emblem of purity and within its garlands was the representation of the gates of heaven, standing ajar waiting to receive the one to whom it was given.

Impressive music was rendered at the funeral service by Mrs. J. C. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Macrum, C. L. Gray and Teddie Brookes. They sang "Some Sweet Day," "Would Not Live Alway" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

STOUTLY DENIES HER ALLEGATION

Charge of Mrs. Kenney Against Grocer Donnelly Will Be Aired in Court Tomorrow.

Owing to the prominence of the defendant in the case of Mrs. Ellen Kenney, of Pleasant Heights, versus J. F. Donnelly, a grocer and public official of Wellsville, in which the latter is charged with cutting Mrs. Kenney with intent to wound, the preliminary hearing scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Mayor Weaver will be watched with interest. Donnelly is one of the most highly respected residents of Wellsville and stoutly denies the allegation made by Mrs. Kenney. Attorney W. F. Lones has been retained by Donnelly and the case will be bitterly fought.

The particulars of the case, it will be recalled, were exclusively reported in the News Review on last Saturday. According to Mrs. Kenney, Donnelly cut her while she was attempting to get him off her premises. He was there to collect a store bill and while arguing the matter got into an altercation with a brother of the woman and in the melee, it is said, cut the plaintiff.

DIVORCE CASE GIVEN A HEARING

Lisbon, October 16.—(Special.)—The divorce case of Leonidas L. Wilson, of Unity township, versus Olive L. Wilson was heard by the court yesterday afternoon, but on the conclusion of the evidence, the case was continued for the reason that the residence of the defendant is known and she has not been personally served with summons.

They were married at Beaver, Pa., December 27, 1899, and on July 15, 1900, the wife left her home and has not returned. At last accounts she was living at Darlington, Pa. There was no prayer in the petition as to the custody of the one child born to them.

PATROL SYSTEM ON NEW PLAN

REPORTS MADE HOURLY

By adopting a new patrol system—in fact the only one that was ever instituted in the city—the board of public safety expects in a short time to have the members of the local police force working as they do in cities of the first class. The new plan was presented at the regular meeting last evening and it met the approval of every member.

The board has divided the city into a different order of beats and the patrol system will mean that each officer while on duty must report at given points at designated intervals. The officers patrolling in the vicinity of the Diamond will be compelled to report more often than in other parts of the city, that being a center of at least four of the total number of eight beats. At this point an officer will report every 20 minutes. Central fire station will be the headquarters for receiving reports from the policemen. At the station will be a signal which will drop when the officers make their report. Through this the fire department or any other person who wishes to know where a policeman is can easily find out. The cost of inaugurating this system will be small considering its effect and the board is being commended on every hand for its wise move.

Charles Ashbaugh, of the West End pottery, appeared before the board and complained of the size of the water plug located near the plant. He said that it is only a 4-inch plug and that a 6-inch plug is badly needed. His request was superinduced by a notification of an insurance company to the effect that if the pottery company does not see that it has better fire protection it cannot expect to get a full rate of insurance. Mr. Ashbaugh was told that the board had absolutely no money at its command for such improvements and he volunteered to furnish the money providing the board agrees to reimburse him at some future date. The question was in debate for some time and was finally disposed of by the appointing of a committee to investigate.

Chief Wyman presented a full report of the work that has been done by the police department. It was accepted after which the board adjourned.

Work on New Postoffice.

Lisbon, October 16.—(Special)—Work was commenced today on George B. Harvey's new brick block on the public square, to be occupied by the postoffice. A. J. Smith will supervise its construction.

FAMILY ESCAPED IN NIGHT CLOTHES

Was Very Great, But Mr. Johnson Aroused Them and All Got Out in Safety—Contents All Destroyed. Partly Covered By Insurance.

An early morning fire destroyed the home and household effects of James R. Johnson, the well known expressman. Members of the family were compelled to flee in their night clothes from the burning structure. Had the warning of the blaze been delayed a few minutes longer the occupants would have been in great peril, as the flames were almost at the stairway when the alarm reached them. The house, valued at $1,500, is almost a total loss, and practically nothing was saved from the household effects. Mr. Johnson was partly insured through the agency of T. V. Thompson & Co.

The Johnson home was located at the Ross Meadows, about two and one-half miles north of town. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and five children were the occupants. The former arose at the usual hour this morning and after lighting a fire in the kitchen stove, went to the barn to care for his horses. Returning a short time later he was horrified to discover the kitchen a mass of flames. He aroused the sleeping members of the family and by the time they were in a place of safety the flames had covered the entire lower floor making it impossible to rescue anything of value from the structure.

Miss Mollie Johnson, a daughter who clerks at the Leader store and boards in town, was seized with a nervous attack when told of the occurrence. A physician was called and she was under his care during the day.

TOOK HORSE AND WINE

Lisbon Youths Landed in Jail for Appropriating Another Man's Property.

Lisbon, October 16.—(Special.)—Ralph and Dever Duell and Reuben Wallace, the youths who took Dr. F. P. Moore's horse and buggy from his stable and 16 quarts of wine from his cellar and drove to Leetonia, were brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Officer John Costello.

Mayor Farrell will give them a hearing this evening on a charge of unlawfully taking and using the horse and buggy and stealing the wine. The horse suffered greatly from the hard drive.

ONE THEORY

The police have formed an opinion regarding the shooting of John Bailey, which is being accepted by all as the fact of the case. It is a well known fact that Bailey is a frequenter and good customer of C. B. Bowers, the Franklin street saloonist. The police think that Bailey went to the saloon to get a drink and after arousing Bowers failed to tell him his name. Bowers then concluded it was a burglar and commenced pumping lead in the direction of the noise. As a result Bailey got a chunk in his arm.

RAIN NEEDED TO MAINTAIN THE STAGE

Unless additional rain comes to the rescue, the river will fall to below the navigation stage within the next few days. The rain last night put a temporary stop to the decline, and all day there has been a stationary stage. The lighter packets are out and making fairly good time. The Lorena, up last night at 11 o'clock, had a good trip. She will be the down boat Saturday evening. The Ben Hur is due down at 8 o'clock tonight and the Greenwood will pass down Saturday morning.

The Hornet and the G. W. Thompson, tow boats, are reported in a bad way at Sewickley, where they have grounded at the trap. They are hard aground and cannot be pulled off until a rise comes.

FORAKER MEETING LAST OF MONTH

Chairman Dick Wanted to Change the Date, But the Plan Did Not Suit.

28TH THE DATE SELECTED

Preparations are going steadily forward for the big Republican rally to be held in this city some time during the latter part of the month. One speaker has signified his wilingness to address the people of East Liverpool, and it is hoped favorable replies will be received to the requests for the other men wanted.

Secretary James McGarry, of the city committee, received word this afternoon from the county secretary to the effect that Hon. J. J. Sullivan, of Warren, had acceped the invitation to speak here during the last week of the campaign, and a reply was at once dispatched that he would be counted upon by the local party men. Mr. Sullivan, it is hoped, will assist at the meeting being arranged for October 27 or 28, at which time it is thought Senator J. B. Foraker will be present.

Chairman W. L. Smith had Senator Foraker's assurance some time ago that he would address a meeting here during the present campaign, and it is believed he will certainly keep his promise. Last evening Mr. Smith received a message from State Chairman Dick in which it was proposed to send Senator Foraker to this city next Monday night. The situation was canvassed by several of the local leaders, and it was deemed inexpedient for several reasons to have the meeting arranged for that night. For one thing no suitable hall could be secured, and then the time was too short to give the rally sufficient publicity.

It was finally decided that the city committee ought to insist upon the carrying out of the original plan, which was for a demonstration on the evening of the 28th. A reply to that effect was sent to Chairman Dick, and it is likely he will act upon the wish of the East Liverpool Republicans for a meeting later in the month. An effort is being made to secure the Grand opera house for the occasion.

Extending the Car Line.

Track laying on the Little Beaver extension of the East Liverpool railway started today. Regular cars will soon run about 300 yards above the present terminus. The grading opposite the Dawson place has been seriously damaged by landslides, owing to the clay in the earth there, and measures will have to be taken to make the track more stable. About two miles of grading has been done.

Buchhagen-Croft.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart was the officiating minister at the marriage of Joseph M. Croft and Miss Catherine Buchhagen last evening at 8 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian parsonage. The young couple are popular and well known here, Mr. Croft being one of the Croft Bros.' grocery firm. They will make their home on Sheridan avenue, where last evening a large number of their friends were present to extend congratulations.

New Local at Cameron.

President Thomas J. Duffy, of the N. B. of O. P., returned this afternoon from Wheeling and Cameron. At the latter place he organized the operatives at the Benedum plant into a local union, to be known as No. 74.

NUZUM'S LAST WORDS PRODUCED AS EVIDENCE

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENCE BEGUN

Lisbon, October 16.—(Special.)—In the Clunk murder trial the state rested its case at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and several witnesses for the defense were examined before adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock until 9 o'clock this morning.

One of the interesting features of the testimony yesterday afternoon was the introduction of the dying declaration of the murdered man, Frank P. Nuzum, in which he brands his slayer, Anthony M. Cunk, as a wanton murderer. Clunk and his wife were expected to be star witnesses today, as both were sworn yesterday afternoon among the witnesses for the defense.

Nearly three hours were taken up yesterday afternoon with the expert testimony of Drs. T. B. Marquis, George H. Albright and W. C. Nevin, the three Lisbon physicians who attended Nuzum on the morning of the shooting, Dr. Albright continuing to attend him until his death. The testimony of the doctors related to the nature of the wound, its condition at different times and the course of the charge of shot after it had penetrated Nuzum's groin. The charge had passed backward, outward and downward, but as to whether its general course was due to the position of the gun or whether it had been deflected, the witnesses agreed that they were unable to say. Between 20 and 30 shots were removed from the wound.

At the conclusion of the doctors' testimony the ante-mortem statement of Frank P. Nuzum was read to the jury by Prosecutor Brookes. It follows:

"Lisbon, O., July 17, 1903. I, Frank P. Nuzum, believing that I am about to die, and that I cannot recover, do make the following statement: I am 50 years of age and a resident of Elkton, Columbiana county, O. On the 20th day of May, 1903, I was at my home in said village of Elkton and at about 7 or 8 o'clock a. m. the small step-daughter of Anthony Clunk came to my house and said that her mother wanted me to go up to their house to repair the burner on an oil stove. Anthony Clunk lives in the old Crook property in Elkton, O., near the P., L. & W. railroad, so I went up to the house.

"The oil stove stood on the east porch. When I went up I stopped on the porch and examined the stove. I twisted one of the valves on it and the oil squirted down on my hands. I talked with Mrs. Clunk some little time about the stove, after which Mrs. Clunk got a pan of water for me to wash my hands, which I did and then walked to the towel, which was nearby, and was wiping my hands when I heard some one coming in and saw that it was Anthony Clunk. He seemed mad when he saw me. I was in the kitchen wiping my hands.

"As soon as he came in he began to swear and said: 'I'll kill you, you dirty ——. I said I would if I ever found you alone with my wife. I'll kill you, —— you.'

"I said: 'Why, Tony, you have no

The Police Busily Engaged in Carrying Out an Order of the Safety Board.

The members of the police department were busy today carrying out an order issued by Chief Wyman yesterday afternoon. The chief instructed them to get the names of every saloon keeper and their bartenders and also the names and locations of every supposed disorderly house on their beats. The order was issued as a result of the following rule appearing in the rule book compiled and accepted by the board of public safety:

"The chief shall, from time to time, cause to be made a report of all gambling rooms, saloons, suspected houses of ill-fame, resorts of thieves, receivers of stolen property, disorderly houses and all suspicious persons, and furnish the same to the board of public safety."

Cook-Neiger.

A wedding of interest to many local people was that of Miss Ida M. Cook and Mr. William H. Neiger, of Steubenville, which occurred on Wednesday at the First M. E. church. The bride is well known in this city, having been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Little, on a number of occasions. The wedding was an auspicious event in the social circles of Steubenville. The groom is employed with the Armour Packing company of Greensburg, Pa., where Mr. and Mrs. Neiger will reside after a wedding tour.

No Alaskan Boundary Agreement.

London, October 16.—(Special)—The Alaskan boundary commission has reached no decision, no vote having been taken. The story to the contrary is denied. It is admitted that there is pessimism in Canadian circles.

THE JUSTICES' BUSINESS IS MOST FLOURISHING

The local justices are up in arms over a story in a morning publication, written supposedly by some one for the purpose of putting a "black eye" on their very flourishing business. To a News Review reporter, a 'squire said this morning:

"Dip your pen in gall and in the most scathing words at your command denounce the man who wrote that story as one prone to misrepresent and not one that seeks to give the public the facts."

It was stated by the irresponsible scribe that non-support, assault and battery, family quarrels and other cases which formerly furnished local magistrates with material upon which the wheels of justice might grind are known no more in the offices of the 'squires. This the justices deny, styling the statement as an absolute fabrication. They contend that business was never better, and that they were never better satisfied. One of them stated that he has six non-support cases now pending.

The story is also denied at the mayor's office, the chief executive having entertained but one case since his regime. He has been pestered with numerous family quarrels, but in the most of the cases he has referred them to a 'squire.

TWO WEEKS' TICK

All That the Butchers And Grocers Propose to Allow Hereafter.

The Butchers' and Grocers' association met last evening and established a rule that accounts must be settled every two weeks. The association as a body will employ but one collector. The new system will be put in effect at once.

The movement is receiving favorable commendation among other business men. Numerous men and firms engaged in other lines of business have made application to join the association, and a business men's association to include all mercantile and other establishments is likely to be the outgrowth.

News and Notes About The Potteries

TRENTON'S CERAMIC SCHOOL.

Trenton, N. J., October 16.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made by the officials of the Trenton School of Industrial Arts to place on exhibition the Alice Maddock collection of rare and costly china which was exhibited by the latter in this city several months ago. The collection is perhaps one of the most valuable in the world, containing specimens of old antique patterns manufactured by the Chinese down to the finer grades of modern times. The china has all been received at the school and now awaits the construction of suitable cases before being offered for public inspection. The completion of the cases, which are to be handsome so as to correspond with the artistic value of their contents, will be completed about the first of next week.

The purpose of Miss Maddock in giving to the school her collection was that students might obtain a knowledge which would be beneficial in their practical work. A large majority of the students at the school, especially those in the art department, are employed in the local potteries. The school is supported largely by contributions of local pottery manufacturers who feel that it has proven the greatest value to them in the production of highly decorated ware in instances where some of their employes go there for instruction. Charles Howell Cook has frequntly made this statement and above all other has contributed much toward the advancement of the school. Mr. Cook is a member of the board of trustees and frequently designs originated by the students have been used in adorning the decorative product of his plants.

In addition to the art department there is a department where modeling is taught. The shelves about the building are adorned with specimens of the students' work, most of which is modeled in clay from life models. This department has had a particular influence upon the product of the Trent and Providential Tile companies output, as their modelers, who attend there, have frequently modeled designs on tile which have come from the students of the art school.

The local potteries have recovered from the effects of the Inter-State fair and have again settled down to business. All the plants are busy and large shipments are being made of winter and holiday goods. Most of them are consigned to the large department stores and to stores that deal in crockery exclusively. The general ware plants for the first time this year report an abundance of business. Current demands are keeping the majority of the plants well supplied with orders, aside from the requests for holiday specials. Even in this city the stores report that the demand has increased. At the beginning of the year most of the potteries were compelled to shut down owing to the scarcity of business. Since then the orders have been coming in in such large quantities that they feel that this season will equal that of 1902, which was the greatest financially in the history of the local trade. Very noticeable is the falling off in the demand for scheme goods, which was so large last spring. It seems that summer is the best time for canvassing, and this was the time for which most all the crockery was needed.

Word has been received here of the death of Samuel Scherratt at Washington, where he conducted an art studio for many years. His widow and nephew, Thomas Baines, will continue the business. Scherratt was 45 years old and was formerly a decorator in Jesse Dean's factory in this city. He left here 12 years ago for Washington, where he opened a studio for instruction in amateur china painting. Scherratt operated two kilns for the firing of amateur products.

WHEELING DISPUTE SETTLED.

The dispute between the warehouse girls and the management of the Wheeling Potteries company, which President T. J. Duffy, of the N. B. of O. P., was called upon to take in hand, has been settled. The new scale for the warehouse girls has caused considerable trouble at several plants, but the greatest difficulty was experienced at Wheeling. It is evident that the girls there have been very poorly paid, the rate for inexperienced girls being but 50 cents per day. A year's apprenticeship entitles them to an increase of 10 cents per day. In this city the lowest wages paid are 87½ cents per day, the 10 per cent increase bringing the rate here up to 96 cents. The girls at the LaBelle plant went on a strike last Friday, but soon returned to work pending a settlement. They asked that the same scale be adopted as is in force here, but the firm refused. Then President Duffy was called into the controversy. He attended a meeting of the local a few nights ago and as a result the girls have returned to work. As Mr. Duffy is still absent from the city the terms of the settlement could not be learned, but it is to be supposed that the firm agreed to pay the full rate as provided in the new scale, which is operative in the entire western section. The firm has refused to make any statement.

FOR THE WEST ONLY.

Considerable has been said about the final details of settling the pottery wage scale for the next two years. This interesting document is now in the hands of Secretary Ed Menge, of the N. B. of O. P., and the only thing required to make it complete is the signature of President T. J. Duffy, he being absent from the city when the document, bearing the signatures of Joseph G. Lee, president, and W. E. Wells, secretary, of the Western Manufacturers' association, was sent to headquarters for the signatures of the Brotherhood officials. While the final negotiations were carried on with the United States Potters' association, an organization of potting firms from all over the country, the new scale is binding only on the western manufacturers and operatives. The eastern manufacturers claim that the uniform lists of the west are acceptable to them if they can be enforced without trouble. The objection of the eastern jiggermen and others, however, has so far prevented their adoption.

The agreement embodies the amendments and changes agreed to by the two committees and states that it is to remain effective for two years, from the first of October, 1903, to the first of October, 1905.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

In conversation with a member of the firm of the Spear Clay Manufacturing company of Vanport, it was stated that a very complete system of improvements has been put into the works there, consisting of new pans, new crushers and a 40,000 daily capacity Frease brick machine. The company is giving special attention to building brick and paving block, and Col. James M. Porter takes the entire output of the factory. Clarence Fairfield, of Pittsburg, is the superintendent and is meeting with the very best success.

GIRLS GAIN A POINT.

The girls employed in the biscuit warehouse at the china works will not lose their lunch hour, but they will have but 15 minutes instead of the half hour, as was the case before the new wage agreement abolished the lunch hour entirely for those working at day wage. The girls claimed a differential owing to the flint which they encounter. Their strike has been on for about a week, but they will return to work at the rate of wages provided in the uniform scale, but they gain the quarter hour for lunch. The strike was of rather serious consequences, as several other departments at the plants suffered because of it.

POTTERY NOTES.

J. W. Elliott has moved to Crooksville, where he has a situation with the china company.

The trial of the New Castle Pottery company, for the alleged importation of workmen, will take place in Pittsburg November 9.

Ed Messer, formerly of this city, who has been working at Minerva, has moved his family to Crooksville, where he has taken a position.

Manager McCarron, of the Shenango plant, is making an excellent record. It is said he recently captured the largest order the firm has had during the year.

THE LOCAL BANKS MOURN HIS ABSENCE

Moundsville Man Missing, Leaving $10,000 or $15,000 of Worthless Paper Behind.

Moundsville, W. Va., October 16.—John K. Bowen, one of the most prominent citizens of Moundsville, is missing from his home, and three local banks have discovered that his paper to the aggregate amount of between $10,000 and $15,000 is worthless. B. E. Hiatt, cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, has sworn out a warrant for his arrest, charging him with obtaining money on false pretense. The investigation made by officials of this bank has already disclosed the fact that $460 worth of paper held by it is absolutely worthless.

Bowen's credit was considered excellent, and he had no difficulty in securing money. It was only when the paper matured, and Bowen was confronted with the certainty of exposure that he took safety in flight. Descriptions of Bowen have been sent to the police of other cities. Men who worked as salesmen for the Range & Implement company, which he organized, are being asked to identify the signatures to many of the notes, and some of them are already pronounced fraudulent.

Cruiser Denver on Trial Trip.

Philadelphia, Oct. 15. — The new cruiser Denver, in command of Captain Silman G. Chase, with a crew of picked men, sailed for the New England coast on her trial trip. The Denver is an unarmored steel-protected twin-screw cruiser and one of the smallest fighting vessels in the United States navy. CLAIMS THE TITLE OF MARRYING 'SQUIRE

The title and honor of being the "marrying 'squire" has long been in dispute among the three down town justices of the peace and now there is a fourth contestant in the person of Justice L. W. Carman, of the East End. It is not often that Justice Carman claims distinction for his deeds, but in this case he is certainly justifiable and must be heard. Because of his location in the East End it should not be taken for granted that the opportunities for tying nuptial knots are limited.

During the past 30 days Justice Carman has been called upon just 19 times to unite the lives and fortunes of young couples, and the end is not yet. He has been spoken to by several prospective grooms and before the week is out will officiate at other weddings. Last night he officiated for a well known widower who married a handsome young widow.

Justice Carman has served as justice for several years and has married couples of such tender ages that the consent of the parents was necessarry and couples who were old enough to know better. His office has been a veritable Gretna Green and he has earned a reputation of being as silent as the grave when the couple desired to escape publicity. Not one of the many knots has been untied or sought to be broken, a record that is truly wonderful. Most of the couples have settled in or near the East End and have prospered.

Justice Carman expects to remain in the contest for the title of the marrying 'squire to the finish and will let his record of weddings solemnized speak in support of his claim.

DEFENDANTS HAVE BEEN HARD TO LOCATE

Two Cases Set for Today Postponed Owing to Delay in Securing Service.

The two suits set for hearing this morning in the court of Justice L. W Carman were not taken up owing to the delay in one case of obtaining service and the failure to do so in the other. At the time the action was commenced in the case of William and Kate Might against P. R. Woolam, on a promissory note, amounting to about $28, the hearing was set a week in advance so that service could be had on the defendant. Constable Powell, to whom the papers were entrusted, searched for Woolam for several days, but failed to find him in the city. When he had about given up hopes of locating him he heard that he was in Wellsville and later found him there. It was too late, however, to permit of the hearing today.

Mack Marshall, who was made defendant by W. L. Bennett in a suit to recover a small grocery bill, has not been located and in consequence the hearing of the case has been postponed. The constable has searched the entire city for Marshall, but evidently he has disappeared. No person has been found who knows his whereabouts.

MRS. ALTER DELIGHTED A LARGE AUDIENCE

Mrs. Jeannette C. Alter, the missionary, delighted a large audience with her lecture at the Second U. P. church last night. Mrs. Alter talked of the humorous side of Indian life and related many amusing experiences of her work among the Warm Springs Indians of Oregon and the Sax and Foxes of Iowa. She also gave many interesting facts concerning the characteristics of the red men.

Miss Jeannette McConnell, in full Indian costume, assisted the lecturer and many thought the young lady a real Indian. She took the part nicely and even her closest friends failed to recognize her.

Those who attended the lecture will be interested to learn how Mrs. Alter was prevented from making a mistake that would have kept her from reaching the church in time. There was some confusion as to the date of her appearance here and at Calcutta, and Mrs. Alter had been told that she was to be at Calcutta last night. Arriving at the station she attempted to board a car for uptown, on her way to Calcutta, when D. Frank White recognized her and asked her destination. The necessary explanation followed and instead of going to Calcutta Mrs. Alter took a car for the East End, arriving just at the hour appointed.

"Johnson is neither a Democrat nor a Republican, therefore no Democrat or Republican should vote for him," says a Cleveland man who knows Johnson's weak points and tells them.

"Democratic references to what Mark Hanna did in 1896, with accompanying declarations that he can't do it again, are fatal admissions that it is the same old Democracy and the same old attack on national prosperity." In this sentence the Pittsburg Gazette sizes up the situation in a way that apeals to every voter.

Johnson's orders to drive Democrats off the ticket for the legislature in Lucas county have been obeyed, and now there are none but Jones nonpartisans to vote for, for senator or representative in Toledo. Where would Clarke come in should they be elected? They have repudiated the resolutions of the Johnson state convention to begin with and are not obligated to Clarke in any way.

Two years ago in a careful, studied argument, John H. Clarke answered absolutely every assertion in all the Tom Johnson talk about railroad taxation in Ohio. He showed that Johnson's statements were false as to fact by irrefutable evidence and baseless as to law, citing the unanswerable authority of the supreme court of the United States. Last year at a public meeting where Johnson made false statements about the railroads for which Clarke is general solicitor, Clarke had manhood enough to correct him then and there. In all these two years, however, Johnson has kept right on with the same false statements of fact and law. He makes them now on the same platform with Clarke. They are as false as ever, but Clarke says never a word. Nothing has changed but Clarke. What ails him?

JOHN DENNIN HELD FOR COURT

THE CHILD'S STORY TOLD

In the Court of Mayor Fogo And Other Witnesses Relate Their Story—The Accused Man Enters a Plea of Not Guilty.

The hearing of John Dennin, better known as "Pittsburg Jack," who was arrested early Wednesday evening charged with having assaulted little 14-year-old Sadie Chloe Fishburn on the previous evening, was held at 6 o'clock last evening before Mayor Fogo, in the presence of a large crowd of interested listeners.

A number of witnesses had been called, among whom were Harry Rinestein, Mrs. Dennin, Andrew Fishburn, Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Mann and little Miss Fishburn, Dennin's victim.

The girl was the first witness examined. Her testimony, after identifying Dennin, was of a sensational order. She explained just how Dennin had approached her and how he had treated her up to the time that she cried for help.

The child said that she had first seen Dennin at the foot of the Wells Hollow hill, and at that time he was talking to Mrs. Andrew Freeman. He turned to her as she was passing and asked her if he could carry her basket of groceries for her, and she gave him no reply. As she was nearing the Adams home, where she was living, Dennin approached her coming up the hill, and after Dennin had laid his hands on her she screamed for help. Her cries were heard by Mrs. Adams, Ida Adams, Mrs. Mann, who resides in the neighborhood, and Harry Rinestein, who was working on the Adams farm.

Mrs. Mann at once ran to her door and saw a man run down over the hillside. She could not therefore identify Dennin as the man. She did not see the girl.

Harry Rinstein said that as soon as he heard the girl's screams he ran in the direction from where they came. He said that the child's cries were most pitiful. He had a good look at Dennin, but did not attempt to catch him.

Mr. Mann at about this time happened down the road with his horse and wagon. He asked the girl what was the matter, and, pointing to Dennin, who was disappearing over the hillside, she said: "I wish that you would kill that man." Dennin was gone, however, before Mr. Mann could make an effort to get him, and Rinestein was unable to find him.

According to the testimony given by Mrs. Dennin her husband arrived home at 5:30 in the evening, one hour after the assault. He had left the house at 8 o'clock in the morning to go to work. She said he remarked to her and to a neighbor, Mrs. Freeman, that the local authorities were after him and that he had better go in hiding. This all happened long before the warrant was sworn out.

Dennin had nothing to say other than to plead not guilty. The mayor bound Dennin over to court in the sum of $500.

Chief Houser said he simply told Denning that the mayor wished to see him and did not mention anything regarding the case. Dennin at once protested and said that he did not touch the girl, thereby almost confessing his guilt.

FOUR MEN AT WORK

A large gang of Italian laborers who are employed on the excavation of the pump pit for the new water works pumping station, and who have been working under the employment of the Duquesne Engineering company of Pittsburg, who have the contract for the work, have gone on strike for higher wages.

These men have been receiving $1.50 per day and claim that they were promised a raise of $1.75 per day. This amount they did not receive on the last pay day and now the men want either $1.75 per day and rubber boots for working in the pit, or $2 per day and they will furnish the boots themselves. The contractors will not give in to this demand, and as a consequence only four American laborers are now working on the excavation and the work is progressing very slowly. An effort is being made to secure men to fill the places of the Italians, but the contractors have been thus far unsuccessful.

BOWLING CONTESTS

Are Being Arranged Between Wellsville and East Liverpool Teams.

A bowling contest which was scheduled to have been held last evening at the Arlington alleys, did not come off on account of the failure of the East Liverpool team to show up. It was to be a game among the junior bowlers, between Wellsville and East Liverpool teams. An effort will again be made to hold this contest next week.

The bowling alleys have been newly remodeled, the alleys planed and shelacked and new sets of pins installed and everything is now in good shape for the winter's sport, as all of the big contests are to be held at these alleys.

The old bowling team, composed of Messrs. Shingler, Hall, Harsha, Dennis, Atep and Karr will soon get together again and it is expected that a contest with the Imperial team of East Liverpool will be held here at an early date.

Foot Ball Gossip.

The Bruno, Jr., foot ball team, of this city, will go to Alliance Saturday morning, and on Saturday afternoon will do battle with one of the junior teams of that city with whom they have made satisfactory arrangements. Several of the younger enthusiasts of the city will accompany the team. An effort is being made by the management of the Wellsville Athletic association for a game to be played in East Liverpool tomorrow afternoon with the West End Rovers of that city and if satisfactory arrangements are made the two teams will meet at the time stated.

Out in Indiana an electric railway system and the Clover Leaf steam railway are working together, instead of fighting each other. The traction company gathers up the crowds that fill up the railroad excursion trains. The alliance for the excursions is sent broadcast as a new step in transportation service. The tacit agreement between the two companies is a new step, but, in fact, the electric roads are all the time delivering to the steam roads much traffic, and steam railroad men in Indiana, admitting that the electric lines are taking practically all of the short-haul local business, say that the electric lines are largely responsible for a marvelous increase, not only in long-distance hauls, but also in the bulk of travel, and for doubling the patronage of excursions. The electric lines are growing in extent and importance all the time and the railroad company that seeks to put them out of business is pursuing a policy of ludicrous folly. Co-operation will be better for both, for both are here to stay.

"The most successful governments are those in which the average public servant possesses that variant of loyalty which we call patriotism, together with common sense and honesty. We can as little afford to tolerate a dishonest man in the public service as a coward in the army. The murderer takes a single life; the corruptionist in public life, whether he be bribe giver or bribe taker, strikes at the heart of the commonwealth." These are the words of President Roosevelt. Actions speak louder than words, and the president by his official acts is demonstrating that the above are his true sentiments.

The acquittal of Jim Tillman, while not unexpected, is a disgrace to the state he lives in. Had he been a negro he would probably have been lynched without ceremony. Certainly he would have been hanged. But because his skin happens to be white he goes unpunished, though he murdered a man in cold blood. Until the people of South Carolina adopt and act up to the principle that killing a man is as much a crime when an intelligent white man is the offender as when an ignorant negro transgresses the law, they cannot expect the rest of the world to have a high opinion of their civilization.

The state board of health of Ohio has adopted a regulation by which its secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 500 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day. It is a commendable and humane step, and the effort should be warmly seconded everywhere.

Ex-Senator Pettigrew, a name once familiar in congress and political circles, is colonizing Boers in Mexico. Mr. Pettigrew found so little to please him in his own country that his change of base might have been anticipated.

Uncle Joe Cannon says he would be willing to walk to Ohio to speak for Foraker. It won't be necessary. Let him arrange to come on. Transportation can be provided.

Grover Cleveland says it is the duty of every good citizen to interest himself in politics. True enough, but not in Grover's kind.

Russia and Japan each want to revise the map of Asia, but each prefers that the other should begin the work.

Bryan is going to speak at Woodsfield. What is the matter? Is Monroe county doubtful this year?

Senator Platt manages his love affairs with the same shrewdness that he has shown in politics.

AT THE THEATER

A radical departure will be made from repertoire usages by the Himmelein Ideals at the Grand next Wednesday night, when "The Sultan's Daughter," a screaming funny comedy, will be the offering. From time to which the memory of man runneth not it has been the custom of popular priced companies to present nothing but melodramas. This play will be found to be an agreeable deviation from the established custom. It is intended for laughing purposes only, and will furnish more good, clean, genuine fun and wholesome amusement than any three farce comedies of modern times.

The true heroism of women is often shown by their self-sacrifice and abnegation. Man, by his physical superiority, publicly displays his heroics leeds to greater advantage than the weaker sex, but it is to the latter that mankind must admit his inferiority. Nowhere is this phase of feminine self-sacrifice so strongly shown as in the beautiful, romantic play, "When the Bell Tolls," which will be produced at the Grand tonight. The plot is as uncommon as the title and scene succeeds scene in power and intensity. The comedy interwoven is of a high character and the auditor is held spell bound with the stirring situations.

The story of the Russian melodrama, "For Her Sake, which comes to the Grand Saturday night, leads the spectator through the lights and shadows of a life's journey whose ultimate destination is peace and happiness, but whose intermediary stages offer some thrilling scenes of trial and tribulation. There is one scene showing the road to Siberia which is said to be of intense human interest and thrilling effect. There is a ball room scene which is described as being a sumptuous and accurate reproduction of life among the Russion nobility. The piece throughout is handsomely staged and the company an adequate one.

Not Very Far Wrong.

In one of the public schools on one occasion, while an examination was in progress in one of the eighth grade classes, the teacher inquired of one of the sweet girl pupils:

"What form of government have we in the District of Columbia?"

The pupil hesitated an instant. Recalling that the district commissioners had been busy making addresses at the several commencements then in progress, she explained in true schoolgirl style:

"In the District of Columbia we have an oratorical form of government."—Philadelphia Press.

A Feeling of Security.

"I'm so surprised to hear your wife likes the house so much; it's so small."

"Yes, but there are lots of closets in it."

"True, but they're extremely small too."

Used the Whole Book.

"That count," said Miss Baltimore, "will never do for me. He is too wasteful and profligate in his habits."

"Why, what has he done now?" asked her friend.

How Trees Are Like Human Beings.

Nature has many peculiar laws governing the organism of trees. One is that every individual twig, spray, all the foliage, every fiber, takes precisely its own thickness of wood from the parent stem. This same law is manifested in the proportions of the human organism. The length of the arms from finger tip to finger tip (arms extended) is the precise measurement of the length of the legs of a human being, and other measurements are the same in proportion.

MAKING COAL CARS

The Davis-Price Machine company, of New Cumberland, has recently equipped its factory with new and up-todate machinery adapted especially for the manufacture of coal cars. It took a contract for 20 cars, to be built right away for the Verner Coal company, of Bulger, Pa., also a like contract for the Brilliant Coal company, of Brilliant, O. It has just completed and shipped out an order for 300 cars for the Pittsburg Block Coal company at Unionvale, O.

This factory employs quite a lot of skilled workmen in its several branches and runs almost night and day to meet its demands. This branch of the business but recently added, has called for quite a number of additional men. Pending the action of the city council it will, if given a permit, lay a siding into the factory that will be a great saving in the way of receiving and shipping.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Captured No Game.

A party composed of Watt Allison, Dick Simms, Poney Moore and Andrew Hutchinson visited the vicinity of Chester yesterday in search of game. They were all armed with shotguns and their object was to capture a groundhog for a sick friend. They scoured the country, and were energetic in their efforts, but failed to bag any of the coveted game. Their friends in Hancock county assert there is not a man in the crowd who could hit the side of a barn with any sort of a gun.

ON THE GEER FARM

The First of a Number of Test Wells Will Be Put Down.

The men interested in the development of a vast amount of oil territory in and about Chester have wound up the deal for the last of a number of leases, and active operations will begin at once.

John Webster and Albert McDonald were out in the territory this morning and located the first of a number of test wells on the farm of Bert Geer. The land under lease to the new oil and gas company covers a wide area and it will be several months before the tests are completed.

The company has closed a contract with a Mr. Hyte to do the drilling, and he will start within a few days on the Geer well. Messrs. Webster and McDonald authorized the drillers to begin work at soon as it is possible to get the apparatus on the ground.

Very Ill of Pneumonia.

Word was received in Chester yesterday that Earl Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Stewart, was very ill with pneumonia at the home of his aunt in Pittsburg. The mother of the boy left last evening for Pittsburg, and will remain until he recovers. Young Stewart has been in Pittsburg in the employ of the Westinghouse company for some time, and was attacked with the dread disease only a few days ago. His condition was reported as dangerous.

Bank Equipment.

The remainder of the books and stationery for the new First National bank of Chester were received by the officers this morning and the institution was able to begin the second day's business under the most favorable circumstances. The business of yesterday was very gratifying to the directors, and was even better than the officials had anticipated.

CHESTER NOTES.

The oil well which was being drilled on the Sam Stewart farm came in a duster yesterday.

John Marshall, who has been in the south for several weeks, returned to his home in Chester today.

Lawrence Baxter, who has been in the country for a week, has returned to his home on Adolphus street.

Mrs. James Chambers, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McCoy, has returned to her home at New Cumberland.

The first month's salary of the school teachers in Grant district is due and is being paid by Secretary A. G. Pugh, of the board of education.

An application will be made to the Chester council this evening by Beebout & Marquet for permission to erect a scale in the vicinity of the firm's new coal yard.

NEW CUMBERLAND NEWS.

Judge Campbell, F. W. Stewart and Mark Miller were Chester visitors yesterday, attending the opening of the new bank.

The well drilled by Meldrum on the Stewart Brothers farm in Grant district came in a duster. A well will now be put down by the same party on G. A. Geer's farm.

The steamer John Moren, with a large dredge boat, is at the foot of Baker's Island, taking the coal out of the sunken barge there. The coal belongs to the new combine.

The Black Horse Works of the American Fire Clay company have shipped in the last three days 61 cars of brick. They are very nearly cleaned up of the entire summer's product.

The Marquet Coal company is not running near full time, owing to the scarcity of cars. It is prepared to mine and ship out about 20 cars per day, but the output has been very much decreased for the reason stated.

O. S. Marshall was over at Washington, Pa., looking up some titles and securing abstracts on some farms lying in Washington county, owing to the coal deal that has been pending with eastern parties and McElfresh & Cooper.

A number of citizens who have been following the stock markets in their gradual scaling down have been called upon very recently to duff up the cold cash to meet the slump in margins. It is said that several thousand dollars will not make some ambitious investors whole. One man said he had had enough and his next deal would be plain poker. He has some chance of getting to handle the cards occasionally in that game, but in the stock market the other fellow dealt all the time.

right to kill me; your wife and I have done nothing wrong, and she will tell you so. I have not wronged you in any way.' He got a shot gun; I did not notice where he got it. I was sort of backing away from him and got near or in the door from the kitchen to the sitting room. Clunk said: 'Lie down, ——— you, lie down,' and drew the gun up and fired.

"The charge struck me in the right groin. I did not fall when he shot me, but caught the door facing and held myself up by that. Mrs. Clunk asked her husband not to shoot. She screamed I believe, but not until after the shot was fired.

"I had been at Clunk's but a few minutes until Anthony shot me; I would say not more than about 20 minutes. Clunk said after he shot me that he did not intend to do it, but it looked as though he did, for he drew the gun up rather deliberately. He said that it was an accident.

"As soon as Clunk got the gun and was getting ready to shoot, Mrs. Clunk ran into another room and hid; at least, was out of sight. After I was shot, I dragged myself out onto the porch and laid there until the men carried me down home. I had no conversation with Mrs. Clunk after I was shot and none with Anthony Clunk, except what I stated above, and I said to him that it was awful for him to shoot me.

"The foregoing statement is made by me believing that I am about to die from the aforesaid wound, and said statement was written by L. T. Farr at my request.

"FRANK P. NUZUM,
"His X Mark.

"[Attest.] G. H. Albright, Stella Hoffie."

At the time the statement was made Nuzum was too weak to sign his name.

The state rested its case after the introduction of Nuzum's dying declaration and the examination of witness for the defense commenced. W. S. Potts and Judge Firestone, both of Lisbon, were introduced as character witnesses for Clunk.

Charles McCord, who was a witness for the prosecution yesterday, was called by the defense and said that as he passed close to the open door of Clunk's home the morning of the shooting he saw a half emptied glass of whisky on the kitchen table.

Kim Hawkins was also recalled and said that when he arrived at the Clunk home soon after the shooting and found Nuzum lying on the porch Nuzum said to him: "I ought not to have been here, but Tony ought not to have shot me."

John Dowler, a near neighbor of Clunk, heard the shot on the morning of May 20 and hastened to investigate. He met Clunk coming out on his way to Reynolds', his nearest neighbor, to call a doctor. Clunk told him what he had done and why, saying: "I expect they'll hang me for it, but I had to do it."

Dowler said that Clunk appeared much worried and excited. The witness went to Clunk's house and found Nuzum lying on the floor of the kitchen. He could not see the wound and fearing that Nuzum might be in danger of bleeding to death before the doctor came, went down town for assistance. Returning with Kim Hawkins he found that Nuzum had crawled out onto the porch, where they placed under his head a pillow which Mrs. Clunk brought out. Nuzum remarked that it was "——— hot inside." Clunk returned then and Nuzum held up his hand to him, saying: "Tony, shake; I had no business here, but you ought not to have shot me."

Clunk replied that he could not help it. The witness said he had known Clunk for 20 years and said he would contribute with others to a fund for Clunk's defense.

Court opened promptly at 9 a. m. today and the examination of witnesses for the defense was resumed. Rather slow progress was made and it is clear that the case will not reach the jury before tomorrow or Monday.

Joseph W. Reynolds was called and was questioned as to Nuzum's religion or lack of it, and said he had heard Nuzum call the Elkton M. E. church "Hell's Half Acre" and heard him say all the trouble in Elkton started from it. He further said that he had seen Nuzum several times after the shooting and that he seemed to be somewhat delirious at times, after the doctor's had commenced to give him morphine. The witness said Clunk had a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen and that Nuzum was honest but very profane.

Mrs. Nancy Adams said she had heard Nuzum say with reference to the Creator that he did not care for Him and he would do as he pleased. He called church members hypocrites.

W. F. Kemble, a Lisbon gunsmith, who extracted the charge from the left barrel of Clunk's shot gun at Sheriff Leonard's request, testified to that fact. He said a light pressure on the hammer of the right barrel, the one fired by Clunk, would send the hammer down without any pressure on the trigger. The spring was very weak but it required some force to raise the hammer.

Charities Conference.

Columbus, October 16.—(Special)—The thirteenth annual state conference of Charities and Corrections will be held at Akron, October 27, 28 and 29, 1903. A program has been arranged treating the numerous problems of public and private care of dependent, delinquent and defective classes. Specialists in several lines of charitable work will be present to participate in discussions. Reduced railroad rates have been secured. Further information may be secured by addressing H. H. Shirer, secretary, Columbus.

English Servants and Caste.

Between the two classes of upper and under servitors in England the line of demarcation is drawn with even greater sharpness than between those of master and mistress. Often for the meat course these two classes dine together in the servants' hall. When this is the case absolute silence is preserved during the time, as it is a point of honor with the upper class, composed of butler, lady's maid, groom of chambers, valet, housekeeper, etc., not to share household secrets with those below the salt, and also they have no mind to listen to the prattle of their inferiors. For subsequent courses the upper servants repair to the "housekeeper's room," where are spread relishes and desserts superior to those provided for the others, and conversation goes on unchecked. At the present day this "housekeeper's room" is the scene of regular late dinners, at which visiting servants, if of the "upper class," are present. At the servants' parties, in order to avoid confusion, it is customary for them to adopt the names of their masters, so that while real dukes and duchesses feast above stairs their duplicates or doubles masquerade below.

A Widespread Vanity.

In these days there seem to be as many writers as there are readers. The spread of authorship and its egregious pride is hit off in this dialogue from the Fliegende Blatter:

A guest at a hotel table reading the bill of fare says, "Your bill of fare is great!"

"I am glad to hear it," replies the head waiter. "I am its author."

No Temptation.

Mrs. Farmer—Wouldn't you like to to do a little work just to see how it feels?

After all, happiness isn't a question of riches, pie, a good complexion or love and power, but of contentment.—Atchison Globe.

"The Store That Saves You Money"

Mi-o-na Makes Thin People Fat—Will Reed Will Return Money If It Fails.

Everyone needs real nourishment; then comes good health, strength and endurance. Without it, you waste away. Nearly every one eats food enough to furnish the necessary nourishment for the perfect support of life, but the food is not assimilated and there follows indigestion, weakness and emaciation.

A few days' use of Mi-o-na, the wonderful flesh-forming food, will demonstrate its power to furnish real nourishment and restore health. Mi-o-na mingles with the food you eat, aids assimilation, tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and puts the whole system into proper physical condition.

By its use, the elements needed to increase flesh are assimilated from the daily food and each week will show a noticeable gain in weight.

Will Reed knows personally of many cases of long standing stomach troubles, some of them very bad, that were entirely cured with Mi-o-na. The thin and scrawny have used this preparation and by its aid have gained real nourishment.

Will Reed feels that he can honestly recommend Mi-o-na and as an evidence of his faith in the merit of the article, offers to sell it with the distinct understanding that the money is to be refunded in every case where it fails to do all that is claimed for it. You risk nothing in buying Mi-o-na, and if it gives the desired health, the cost is trifling, only 50 cents a box. If it fails, Will Reed will pay for the remedy himself.

WILL GIVE GUARANTEE BOND

Will Reed Gives Signed Agreement That Mi-o-na Costs Nothing Unless It Cures.

Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food and cure for dyspepsia, has won immense popularity by the unusual way in which it is sold.

GUARANTEE BOND.

I hereby agree to refund the price paid for Mi-o-na if the purchaser tells me that it has not increased flesh and given freedom from stomach troubles. WILL REED.

This guarantee bond is plain and simple and it positively assures you that when you commence the Mi-o-na treatment you run absolutely no risk. You simply deposit 50 cents for a box of this flesh-forming food with Will Reed and if after using it you do not feel that you have been benefited, you go back to his store and he will return your money without any question or argument.

It is a true flesh-forming food combined with elements that regulate the digestive organs and remove congestion and irritation from the stomach, liver and intestines. Mi-o-na will restore firm, healthy flesh, fill in the outlines, and give a pleasing plumpness and symmetry.

THE MI-O-NA TREATMENT

Flesh-Forming Food in Tablet Form That Increases Flesh—Guaranteed By Will Reed.

The discovery of Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food that builds up good, healthy, solid flesh and makes thinness and scrawniness a thing of the past, has revolutionized medical practice in certain lines.

Its power to do all that is claimed for it was so clearly proven to Will Reed that he has sold Mi-o-na with the understanding that if it fails the purchase price will be refunded.

Will Reed certainly exhibited courage in taking up this method of selling Mi-o-na, but the results have fully proven his judgment that the Mi-o-na treatment for stomach troubles, emaciation, general weakness and run down condition is the only efficacious and reliable cure.

Mi-o-na possesses healing and soothing qualities that make it especially valuable in cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia. Two or three tablets taken each day in connection with the regular food prove it a true flesh-former.

All that many a woman lacks to be positively pretty is a little more flesh on her face. To look haggard or not fat is never becoming. The use of Mi-o-na will cure this defect.

With every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na that Will Reed sells, he will give a written guarantee to refund the money if it does not give an increase in flesh and restore strength. What a trifling cost this is if it makes you well; if it fails, the expense is absolutely nothing.

REALM OF SPORTS

Safety Board's Ruling to the Contrary Causes Censure Among Lovers of Sport.

The action of the board of public safety in refusing to permit policemen, in uniform and while on duty, to attend athletic contests at West End park, is meeting with condemnation from lovers of sports. The interurban high school contest, played Wednesday, was delayed at least an hour because of the absence of a policeman, the crowd swarming onto the field despite the protests of the players and the officials. Had there been one policeman present the crowd could have been held in check.

"These out of door games, that provide healthy exercise and innocent amusement for so many people, should be encouraged," said a prominent citizen who witnessed the game, to a News Review reporter. "The action of the board will do much to discourage it, I'm afraid, as the people will not care to go to the park when the spectators are permitted to crowd upon the field. The delays are most annoying and then one has to join the crowd to see the plays. One member of the board used to play foot ball and I'm surprised that he would deal such a blow to the sport. Had he seen the last game, I'm sure he would alter his decision and send two policemen down to keep the crowds in check."

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TO PLAY LISBON

Having defeated Wellsville in two games the East Liverpool high school eleven will seek other fields to conquer. Captain Geon is now trying to arrange a game for Saturday week with the Lisbon high school eleven, and should he be successful it will prove a gala day for the high school. The eleven will make the trip overland, starting from this city some time during the morning and returning after the game. A large party of rooters will accompany them.

Captain Geon will probably ask that the Lisbon eleven post a forfeit as a guarantee that none but bona fide members of the high school are to play in the game. There is not a ringer on his team and he wants to keep the sport clean, so that a victory will be worth rejoicing over and a defeat not disgraceful.

The great improvement shown in the second game with Wellsville proves that the high school has an exceptionally fast eleven, competent to do battle with any similar team in this section.

EXCITING MATCH AT BOWLING

Two Local Teams Played an Interesting Series on Williams-McDonald Alleys.

Another interesting bowling match was played on the Williams-McDonald alleys last evening, the competing teams being under the captaincy of Woods and Kearns. The Woods aggregation won two out of the three games. The individual scores follow:

A great deal of dissatisfaction has been expressed among certain citizens within the past few days at the neglect of some of the city officials in allowing the Diamond fountain to remain out of order. The men who had formerly attended to the pumping apparatus have been refused the sanction of certain of the officials, and for that reason it has been impossible to make some slight repairs. Thus one of the most universally patronized public conveniences is denied the citizens, all because of the red tape of the new code, too rigidly observed by municipal officers. A prominent business man said this morning:

"East Liverpool has fewer public institutions than any city of like size in the country. Our Diamond pump is one of these, and it is a shame that our people are denied the privilege of patronizing it. The older citizens can remember that the fountain was maintained for a good many years by the business men and merchants, and through their efforts was made a blessing to our own people and visitors to the city as well. When the city took up the task of caring for the pump the matter was turned over to the firemen, and they have performed their task well and faithfully. The apparatus became useless a few days ago by reason of some slight break, and the usual plan was followed out in the matter of making repairs. No trouble has ever been encountered in having bills for supplies honored by the authorities. Imagine the surprise of the firemen when they sought to obtain authority to proceed with the repairs in learning that there was not an official or board in the makeup of the city administration who would assume the responsibility of authorizing an expenditure, however small. Fireman Rose made application to one source and was referred to another department, and so on until he had made the rounds without succeeding in accomplishing the desired end. Now, red tape is all right in the army, and it is not out of place in several municipal departments, but I think this is going too far.

"Thousands of citizens had been accustomed to drinking the water many times a day. Many of them imbibed the water as a tonic, owing to the peculiar qualities of the liquid, while others have become so accustomed to the beverage that they find it extremely hard to do without it. For the sake of these people and in order to avoid being made the laughing stock of sensible men, let some one of the departments take up the matter and order the pump started."

WHY THE BUCKEYES ARE INFLUENTIAL

Over a Million Ohio Natives Are Living in Other States Than Ohio.

Columbus, October 16.—(Special.)—The Ohio man at the present time, like the Ohio fall campaign, is a sort of a national issue, according to reports just filed in this city. He manifests his beneficial activity in all walks of life, including the political arena. Why Ohio is such a nation power is shown by the appended report which indicates that there are over 1,000,000 native born Ohioans in other states throughout the union. Only in South Carolina and Maine is the number of Ohioans so few that these states have been placed in the scattering list. The table follows:

Good Resolution Adopted.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—The state board of health adopted a resolution by which their secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 600 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of the health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Bellville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

"HOME-RULE" TICKET.

Initiative and Referendum In Operation In Cincinnati.

The Most Overwhelming Defeat Ever Administered There to Any Candidate of Any Party in Any Election—Why Not Heed the People Interested?

The initiative and the referendum are doctrines of the Johnson Democracy approved in his platform and borrowed from the Socialists. It has been exploited as an essential element in the Johnson "home rule" program, about which he makes such an everlasting outcry. If either of these innovations is to amount to anything in practice, there needs to be acceptance of the verdict of the people at the polls by all parties to any controversy.

The referendum has recently had a trial in the second county in this state in a matter wherein the initiative has largely been promoted by the campaign zeal and activity of one Tom L. Johnson. This gentleman is mayor of Cleveland, Cuyahoga county. He seems to have in some way or other obtained the impression that it devolved upon him to look after the welfare of all the other cities and counties in the state of Ohio. Advocating what he calls "home rule" every day in the week, every hour in the day, even snoring "home rule," he persists in pushing upon other counties his own notions in regard to their affairs. This led to the referendum vote mentioned. This was taken last Novmeber at Cincinnati, Hamilton county; about as big as Mayor Johnson's own city and quite able to take care of itself.

The question in issue was one concerning the street railroad system of Cincinnati. The people there had received a number of valuable improvements in their street car service in recent years as a direct consideration for an extension of the franchise period granted to the local company. It was found that the state law authorizing this extension was invalid because it was a special act, but the Cincinnati people having value received according to their bargain and being honest men, stood ready to make good their agreement. Accordingly the Ohio legislature enacted the curative act so-called, for the purpose of protecting the contract mutually entered into. Mr. Johnson has taken it upon himself to attack this act. In fact he is trying to capture the political control of the entire state upon this purely local question. Being mayor of Cleveland and this being a Cincinnati matter, as he always puts it, the "home rule" is somewhat absurd that makes his decision about it final as to the whole state.

Particularly is this true, since the people of Cincinnati have themselves voted upon the question. Mr. Johnson exercised his initiative whether he had any right to do so or not. He nominated the Cincinnati man at the head of his state ticket last year and both of them campaigned in Cincinnati upon this matter. The referendum resulted in the defeat of Johnson's man on Johnson's platform by the people of Cincinnati with 24,000 majority against him, the most overwhelming defeat ever administered there to any candidate of any party at any time. That was the "home rule" verdict on the curative act. Every time that Johnson has opened his mouth about it since, it has been in flagrant defiance of his own "home rule."

DEFEATED BY LABOR.

Railroaders Resisted Two-Cent Fares For Fear of Wages.

Never has there been any partisanship about the two-cent fare bills. They have been introduced in the legislature and supported by members of both parties, and opposed regardless of party lines. The railroad labor organizations have come up against them every time and have caused their defeat. Johnson is playing with fire when he makes a party question out of this matter.

As for Clarke's sudden conversion to the cause, what has he ever done for it as general counsel for a big railroad, where his advice might help it? If he believed in it, why did his nearest friend vote against it in the legislature? W. F. Maag, the Mahoning county Democratic member of the house, was a member of the committee on railroads and telegraphs, which smothered these bills. On a test vote in the house April 28, 1902, Mr. Maag voted against even considering a two-cent fare bill. That showed where he stood. Maag is so close to Clarke that he refused a re-nomination until after Johnson nominated Clarke, making the race now only on Clarke's account.

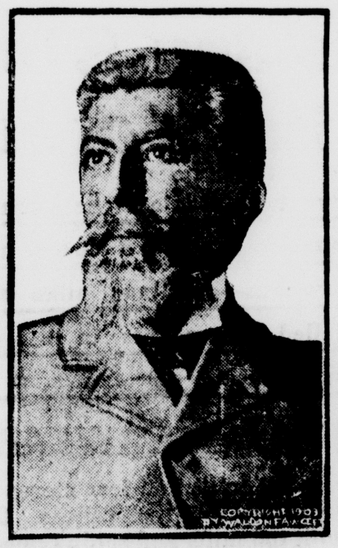

Another case showing how Democrats stood on this question was that of the Franklin county Democratic delegation. Representative Bracken tried to get such a bill through, and was refused a renomination. Senator Thompson and Representative McNamee helped to defeat it, and were renominated. Johnson hopes for their re-election, too, just as at Youngstown in his speech he specially praised Maag and ignored the other Democratic candidate for representative. This is consistency in chunks.

"EL MOCHO," DIPLOMAT.

Famous Venezuelan Fighter Now Minister to the United States.

General Jose Manuel Hernandez, who, as minister plenipotentiary, will re-establish the Venezuelan legation at Washington, is called by his countrymen "El Mocho" ("The Maimed"). The nickname is a term of endearment and indicates the popularity of the battle scarred veteran, who in thirty-three years has fought in over a dozen rebellions, sometimes for, sometimes against the government. It was in one of these rebellions, in a battle at Ciudad Bolivar, that one of his fingers and part of another on the right hand were shot away; hence the nickname.

first under fire in 1868, when he took part in the revolution which overthrew General Falcon. He fought against Guzman Blanco and was sent several times to prison.

Some years later he was in the United States, where he remained, studying and traveling, until 1896. Returning to Venezuela he became in 1897 the candidate of the Conservative party for president. The government declared his opponent, Andrade, elected. Hernandez appealed to the supreme court and was thrown into prison by Crespo. He was released in February, 1898, and in ten days had raised an army and led a revolt against Crespo, who was slain in battle.

In October, 1899, General Hernandez started a revolt against General Castro. After many battles he was defeated and imprisoned. He was in and out of prison several times until Dec. 12, 1902, when he was released upon his declaration of a desire to aid his country in the troubles which threatened with England and Germany. Appreciation of this action of the old warrior and revolutionist was shown by his appointment as minister to the United States.

ELOPING WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

COUPLE WERE HERE LATELY

Prominent West Virginia Business Man Deserted the Woman Who Accompanied Him West And She Took Carbolic Acid—A Sad Story.

The culmination of the eloping of John M. Stone and Miss Mattie Reeves, two prominent residents of Parkersburg, who stopped in this city for two days and nights, making themselves quite conspicuous during their visit, the particulars of which were exclusively published in the News Review, has caused one of the greatest sensations Parkersburg people have ever experienced. Miss Reeves lies a suicide in Salt Lake City, Utah. Stone has returned to his home and is now suffering the scorn and contempt of his every acquaintance, all of whom at one time held him only in the highest esteem.

The pair, after leaving East Liverpool, evidently headed immediately for Salt Lake City. After living there as man and wife for a few weeks, under the name of Stout, Stone deserted the woman after a violent quarrel, without giving her the least idea of where he was going. Worry over her desertion and other conditions caused the poor woman to take her own life. After leaving the woman, Stone nerved himself and returned to Parkersburg, where he left a wife and several small children.

The story of the tragedy at Salt Lake City is given in a dispatch to a Parkersburg paper and shows that the couple lived together under assumed names:

"Fearful lest her husband had deserted her, Mrs. Mattie J. Stout, living at 151 East Tenth street, committed suicide last night by taking carbolic acid. For a time it was thought that the woman would recover, but she passed away at the Holy Cross hospital shortly before noon, despite the efforts of the doctors to make it otherwise. There is an air of mystery surrounding the whole thing. The Stouts, it appears, came here about a month ago, moving into a neat little cottage at the address given. The house was comfortably furnished and the husband and wife seemed to be much devoted to each other.

"Saturday morning Mr. Stout, who is said to be about 45 years of age, left the city, stating to his wife, according to her story, that he was about to look afer some mining propery. That evening, it is said, Mrs. Stout was seen at one of the depots in search of him. She is also stated to have told that her husband, prior to his departure, had written her a letter, in which he said that he loved her, but that he had left her for another woman. These stories, however, are so contradictory, that little credit can be given either of them.

"Sunday night Mrs. Stout went to the police station and told the officers that her husband had deserted her and had taken all her money, amounting to $5,000. Refusing to go home unless accompanied by an officer, she was taken home, stating on the way, that she intended to commit suicide. This she did later on by swallowing carbolic acid. The note left by her read:

"'I must tell you, Mr. Stout has left me with all the money I had. He has taken all I have. He has left me alone. Write to me about Mr. Stout. I am taking carbolic acid and will die tonight. I will give this world up forever.

(Signed) 'MRS. STOUT.'

"There were also found in the house a large number of letters, some of them addressed to Mrs. Mattie Stout and others to Miss Mattie Reeves at Rutherford, W. Va. These were in the nature of love letters and were signed by James Stone. Stout bought twelve thousand dollars worth of real estate lately."

Stout told a Parkersburg reporter in the course of an interview, during which he wept like a child, that he had returned to the scenes of his former success and expected to become a man among men. It was evident from his conversation that he had decided to turn the course of his life and would do all he could to repair the damage he had done to his trusting relatives and friends. He denied emphatically that he went away with Mattie Reeves, alias Miller, and branded as false all that had been said about him having gone with any woman. He arrived Tuesday and was much broken physically and in spirits.

A later dispatch says that Mrs. Stout, when she killed herself, had nearly $600 in cash in her trunk. She was 22 years old and a strikingly beautiful woman. The body is unclaimed.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

CLEMENS WRITES A LETTER.

Tells Woman's Municipal League His Opinion of Tammany.

New York, Oct. 16. — Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) has written a letter to the Woman's Municipal league on the subject of the coming election, in which he says:

"I should think that any humane and honest person would rather be convicted of one robbery and one murder than become a cold and deliberate confederate in wholesale robbery and wholesale murder by voting a Tammany ticket.

"Certainly, if anything is proven up to the hilt, Tammany's financial history and health statistics of 1901 prove that Tammany's especial and remorseless trade is wholesale pillage and wholesale destruction of health and life."

Boris Sarafoff Reported Killed.

Salonica, Oct. 16.—The military operations in Macedonia are slackening, although there are occasional reports of fighting at various points. Instructions have been received to cease making Salonica the base of operations against the insurgents and the orders to send more Anatolian troops to Salonica have been countermanded. A large insurgent band was dispersed Oct. 13, near Marhovu, after eight hours' skirmishing. The Turks lost 40 killed and wounded, while the losses of the insurgents reached 250. Circumstantial reports have been received here that Boris Sarafoff was killed Oct. 12, in a skirmish at Pruva, near Florina.

Relief Fund for Flood Sufferers.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 16.—The relief fund for the sufferers from the recent flood in this city now amounts to about $10,000. It will be used in supplying clothing and household effects for the persons who are most in need. A bill is to be introduced in the special session of the legislature, now in session at Trenton, to authorize Paterson to issue bonds to the amount of $300,000, the money to be used in repairing public bridges and highways and other damage caused by the floods.

SOLDIERS SCORNED.

Veterans of the Union Army and of the Spanish War.

Mayor Johnson's Repeated Insults to the Defenders of the Flag Cause Indignation Wherever the Facts Have Become Known—Astonishing Conduct.

"I have no use for the soldier anyway," was Tom L. Johnson's response to Mrs. Isabella Alexander of Cleveland, at that time senior vice president of the Woman's National Auxiliary of Spanish War Veterans' now president general. This characteris- speech was made by him on April 22, 1902, when the lady asked him if he surely would be present as his secretary had promised to make the address of welcome as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet to be given the next evening in honor of the returning Cleveland veterans from the war in the Philippines. At that time medals were presented to 289 soldiers who fought for their country in the Orient. When Mrs. Alexander asked Mayor Johnson to deliver the address of welcome, he said he did not want to have anything to do with the affair. She said she thought it was his place to welcome the city's returning soldiers, especially as his name had been printed on the program and it would be too late to make the change. It was then that Mayor Johnson cut off all further discussion by saying: "Well, you can have any one of my directors, but I won't be there, because you know I have no use for the soldier anyway."

"I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags." This was another speech by Mayor Johnson of the same sort. He made it to Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 268, Grand Army of the Republic, who resided then at No. 22 Orchard place, Cleveland. Mr. Allen was out with a subscription paper to raise funds for a new flag for their post. When he called on Mayor Johnson and handed him the subscription paper, he threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor, with the speech that we have quoted.

Something may have suddenly angered Mr. Johnson on both of these occasions, but it is a strange coincidence that in each case his wrath should spend itself upon the soldiers of the nation.

Another instance of the kind with no spite shown by him in connection with it occurred in 1901, when the G. A. R. men asked him for a contribution toward defraying the expenses at the Grand Army national encampment held in Cleveland that year. In this case the multi-millionaire mayor of Cleveland did not contribute, a single cent and was about the only man with any prominence in Cleveland who failed to give to that fund.

Another explanation for these things is current among the soldiers both of the Union army and of the Spanish-American war. That is that Mayor Johnson is not friendly to the boys who wore the blue. Their evidence of it is in the fact that not once since he has been mayor has he complied with the custom by which the chief magistrate of the city has reviewed the Memorial day parade of the soldiers and their friends. In 1901, right after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York city on Memorial day. In 1902 and 1903 he declined to review the parade, although on the latter occasion he sat in his red devil on Wood street instead of in the reviewing stand in front of the city hall.

The soldiers in Cleveland of both the wars do not forget these slights and wrongs put upon them by Mayor Johnson. They naturally expect their comrades throughout the state to treat him as he deserves for such detestable conduct toward the defenders of the flag.

PERTINENT POINTS.

No land will be sold for taxes under the Tom Johnson-Henry George plan. The scheme is to make the single land tax high enough to begin with to take the land outright for the state without any sale about it.

Toledo Jones goes away ahead of Tom Johnson on street car fares. He wants free fares, just like riding in an elevator, and the people to pay the bills out of the taxes.

"The two-cent fare or walk," says Johnson's personal newspaper organ in Cleveland. It would certainly do away with all manner of excursion rates, and the trains that carry thousands every week in Ohio for a cent a mile or less would be taken off. What gain would there be in that for the multitudes who now ride much cheaper than two cents a mile?

What did Bryan mean at Napoleon when he said: "My friends, I wish that Mr. Clarke agreed with every plank in both these platforms?" Doesn't that mean trouble for Clarke on the senatorship should the Democrats get the legislature, and the Silverites or the Jones men should hold the balance of power? Isn't it a hint that Clarke is good enough to do the talking and capture what voters he can, but needn't expect to be elected senator?

LORENZO PEROSI.

The Talented Priest-Composer Discovered by Pius X.

Among the notable deeds of Pope Pius X. was his discovery some years ago of a rare musical genius among the priests of Venice. Lorenzo Perosi sprang into fame in 1899 and was hailed as "the Wagner of church music." His "Resurrection of Christ," the fourth of his oratorios, was heard at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in 1899 and had already delighted the critical audiences of the continent.

Perosi was born at Fortuna in 1872. He inherited musical talent and as a youth won distinction as a pianist, organist and composer. His own preferences led him to the priesthood, and he put aside a musical professorship to assume the ecclesiastical habit at Venice.

LORENZO PEROSI.

Cardinal Sarto interested himself in the priest-composer and when he had produced his first oratorio, "The Passion of Christ," launched him among the music lovers of Venice as a new star in the firmament of song. Perosi is small of stature and insignificant in appearance except when inspired by music. As a conductor he becomes very excited and is more acceptable to the audience in that role than to the musicians he leads.

Mouth Filling Microscopy.

"Microscopist" is usually pronounced mi-cros-co-pist, is a horror of articulation, besides concealing the plain meaning and derivation of the word. But if we first say "micro" and then "scopist," taking care to place the stress on the first syllable, we get easiness, pleasantness and common sense. There are hosts of others, but none quite so terrible as "microscopist" as it is commonly pronounced or tried to be pronounced, for it reigns in a sort of pinched, rheumatic, splendid isolation, "high on a throne of royal state, by merit raised to that bad eminence."—Verax in London News.

TO PLAY LOVEY MARY.

Pretty Mabel Taliaferro, Who Will Appear In "Mrs. Wiggs."

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, who will play the part of Lovey Mary in the forthcoming production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is one of the best known of the younger actresses on the American stage. When but three years old she made her debut in "Blue Jeans" and since that time has developed from the sweetest of child actresses into a young woman whose knowledge and mastery of her art presage for her a future of brilliant success.

Miss Taliaferro has appeared in many plays. She made a decided hit in Zangwill's "The Children of the Ghetto," and in London a critic epitomized her as "a Duse in temperament and a Maude Adams in appearance." In this dismal play, in which she was the one bright spot, Miss Taliaferro enacted the role of the little mother-sister with a grace and sympathy that endeared her to the hearts of her audiences.

When but thirteen years old she received a salary of $75 a week. Among the plays in which she has appeared are "The Prince of Peace," "Patent Applied For," "Killarney," "Mavourneen," "Fair Virginia," "The Ensign," "Human Hearts," "Minstrel Claire," "Sweet Inniscarra," "The Silver King," "The Banker's Daughter," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Lost River" and "A Ride For Life." She has played Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and as a member of the old Lyceum theater stock company in New York played all the children's parts in its repertory.

Of Miss Taliaferro the late James A Herne once said, "She is the greatest child actress in the world," and other high estimates of her ability in the past as well as the present are numerous.

Three years ago Miss Taliaferro left the stage temporarily through the advice of her manager, George Tyler, to go to school in Massachusetts. Mr. Tyler believed that "infant prodigies grow up to be mediocre if their talents are continually forced," and it is the belief of those who have watched Miss Taliaferro's development that her short cessation from stage work has been of decided benefit to her in many ways, and they confidently expect to see her make the "hit of her life" as Lovey Mary.

Why He Carries a Cane.

The man from London who always carries a cane in fair weather gives his reason for doing so:

"You see, carrying a stick is not only very proper, but it is also a very useful accomplishment. Why, don't you know, a man who always carries a stick never loses an umbrella. By carrying a cane I get so accustomed to having something in my hand that if I start away without it I miss it before I have gone half a dozen steps. Now, when I carry my umbrella it is just the same. There is nothing like habit. Try it, and you will never lose an umbrella."

The Ubiquitous Mosquito.

The mosquito wanders pretty much all over the world, and is found from the tropics to Lapland, where it is also a great pest. So numerous are mosquitoes in some localities in South America that the wretched inhabitants sleep with their bodies covered over with sand three or four inches deep, the head only being left out, which they cover with a handkerchief. Even thick clothes afford at best a very partial protection, being readily penetrated by the proboscis.

TALKING OF MEN'S GOOD CLOTHES.

Good Clothes moderately priced, we mean, do you know that the productions of Stein-Bloch & Co., and Garson Meyer & Co., and A. B. Kirschbaum & Co., surpass the merchant tailors' makes, though the merchant tailors' cost you double the price? There has been quite an evolution in the manufacturing of men's fine clothing in the past few years. The merchant tailor is relegated to the back ground—pays more for a single suit pattern than these clothing kings charge for an entire finished suit. We are just frank enough to acknowledge it. Our tailoring department would charge you—must charge you $25, $30 and $40, For no better suits than you can find in our ready-to-wear department

AT $15 AND UP.

A WORD MORE ON THIS SUBJECT—you try on a ready-to-wear suit and you see its finished effect—there is no disappointment—if there is a slight alteration necessary, we will make it without extra charge.

THE AUTUMN TRIP OF THE FISH CAR BUCKEYE STOCKING OHIO STREAMS

Columbus, October 16.—Laden with small fish by the thousand, the only piece of railway rolling stock owned by the state of Ohio is now out on its annual mission. There is but a brief season in each year when the car is called into service, but its work is important. Baby bass, cat fish and crappies are the passengers who ride at the state's expense, destined to be placed in the various streams that the finny tribes may not become extinct.

Hurrying over the state goes the "Buckeye," for so is the fish car named. Haste is necessary, as the cargo is perishable, and there is a keen anxiety to get it properly disposed of. The results of the work are not immediate, but within a few years—from two to four—there will be many a fine catch from the fry that is just now being placed in favored nooks. Gamey fish are the kind propagated, those of value as food. The sportsman enters into the plan with enthusiasm, while he who uses a net secretly at night thinks of the good times coming.

The work of distribution is all planned from the office of the state commission at Columbus. Applications have been sent in by person who desire to stock certain streams, the kind of fish wanted being designated, together with the name of the waters in which it is proposed to plant them. The route for the car to traverse in making the distribution is then prepared. Explicit instructions are sent to applicants, telling just what must be done to receive the fish. The state keeps its part of the agreement and woe to the man who does not keep his.

All the applications received this year with two exceptions will be filled. In those instances the points are so remote from the route of the car that it would not be possible to successfully forward the fish. The commission endeavors to keep within the appropriation made by the state so that expenses must be kept to a minimum.

No private waters are stocked. Applications are plenty from clubs and people controlling ponds, but they are denied. Only public waters, is the motto.

When a station is reached where a consignment is to be delivered Colonel Porterfield quickly locates the persons who are to place the fish. The transfer is quickly made, the fry being poured from the state cans into those brought by the recipient for the purpose. It takes but a moment to empty a can. Then as the car goes on its way the fish left behind are at once loaded into wagons and hauled to the stream. There in the spot chosen the cans are emptied and the little fish begin to shift for themselves. Deep holes are selected, so that winter may cause no bad results. There are other enemies than mankind to be avoided, but nature makes the fish wary and they care for themselves.

In rare instances the chief warden is able personally to supervise the planting. An occasional accommodating railway official is encountered who, when there is time, attaches an engine to the car and takes it to the stream, where the transfer to the water is made direct from the state tanks.

On part of the trips Colonel Porterfield has with him the superintendent of the state hatchery, George Morcher, whose experience in the care of fish makes him valuable on the car.

The car is an object of unending curiosity during its travels and rarely does it stop but that it is besieged with visitors. It is the dyed-in-the-wool fisherman who fully appreciates the work. He looks at the great schools in the tanks and grows enthusiastic. The seiners and netters are "toasted" and predictions made about the future of "Red creek" when the little fellows attain maturity. The sportsmen give way to a party of ladies, who look and admire, and ask innumerable questions. Then come the children, anxious to see what many of them cannot understand. One little fellow lingered long under the impression that the car was the abiding place of a theatrical troupe. His disgust was apparent when he was enlightened.

Many of the visitors come aboard with the evident idea that they are to see a display of whales. Frequent requests are made for a sight of the big fish. But they are disappointed, for the car carries only the small fry. A standing joke on the car is to point out the "land sturgeon" which find their way occasional into the tanks. Interest is quickly aroused in the uninitiated, but it is lost when the "sturgeon" is recognized as a common, though well-fed tad-pole.

The crew this year is composed of three persons, Col. J. C. Porterfield, the chief warden, who is in charge; William Buck, the attendant, and Seymour Gibbs, the chef. The latter has accompanied the car on all its tours for the past six or seven years. He is thoroughly familiar with the work and an invaluable aid to Col. Porterfield. With the limited force carried there is work for all, and frequently it is quick work.

The fish are scooped from the tanks with a small net and placed in cans just before a delivery is to be made, from one to three and four thousand being placed in each receptacle. When the train stops there is a great hurry to locate the men who are to receive the fish, to transfer the fry from the state cans, to reload and be ready to move with the train.

The care of the fish is an important duty. Constant attention must be given. The temperature of the water in the tanks is watched and if it goes up ice is resorted to. The air pump is also used to keep the water in good condition. At any long stops the tanks are thrown open and kept so until the train is ready to move. Despite the utmost caution a small per cent are lost.

In this connection a strange state of affairs is revealed. It is a well known fact that "the big fish eat up the little ones," but in the tanks where few are to be found more than an inch or two long it would be supposed that all would be safe. But numerous instances are found of little fellows trying to swallow others as large as themselves, or nearly so. The result in such cases is fatal to both, one being killed and the other choked by the one it tried to eat.

The state maintains the fish hatchery near London and there each year an increasing number of small fish are raised. It is the rule that a commonwealth does not appreciate the value of the fish in the streams until they are gone. That is not quite true in Ohio, but from the amount of illegal fishing in many sections it is certain that a considerable number of the population either do not appreciate the effects of their nefarious work, or do not care. Despite these discouraging conditions the work of stocking the streams goes on, and with it an effort to secure proper observation of the laws.

Only natural methods of propagation are followed. Carefully tended, the small fry grow until fall, when they are ready to be transported to the streams. It is impossible to count their number, but the most reliable estimate places this year's production at a half million. These are now being distributed. Half have already found homes in the clear waters of streams far and near, and before the week is ended the work will be completed for the year.

Experience demonstrated that only by having a car suitably equipped could the small fish be transported over the state. The need is supplied by the "Buckeye," purchased some eight years ago. It stands untenanted in a shed at London during 11 months of the year, but the work done the twelfth month fully pays for its keep. It is not a luxurious car, nor is there extravagance aboard it. It is arranged for work only. It has accommodations for the working force, but there is no inclination to prolong the work for the sake of living on the car. It is quickly deserted at the end of its trips.

The general lines of the car are those of an ordinary day coach, from which in fact it was remodeled. At one end is a snug little office where Colonel J. C. Porterfield, the chief fish and game warden, holds forth and directs the work of distribution. In the other end is a well equipped kitchen. The middle section is given up to the fish tanks below, above being the berths for the crew. There are accommodations for only five persons, so that the tours not only do not, but cannot assume the form of a junket. The meals served are plain and substantial without frills.

From place to place the car journeys, traveling over many railroads, with a fixed route and purpose, until the work mapped out is completed. Then the "Buckeye" is returned to its quarters and the chief warden takes up the work of protecting the streams, in the hope that they may again be filled with the finny tribe.

ROMANTIC COURTSHIP ENDS IN MARRIAGE

Rev. George W. Way Weds the Woman Whom He First Saw in a Vision Months Ago.

Wheeling, October 16.—Rev. George W. Way, the idol and medium of the local Spiritualists, was married yesterday to the girl whose face he saw in a prophetic vision before ever he had seen her in person or become acquainted with her. The young woman is Miss Mamie S. Helling, the daughter of a wealthy farmer residing near Martin's Ferry.

The marriage is the culmination of a romantic courtship beginning with the day Rev. Mr. Way first met Miss Helling, being a case of love at first sight, since the medium had previously seen the face whom God had destined to be his wife in a vision.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the groom on South Main street and was witnessed by only a few friends and relatives of the principals. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. M. Francis, of Washington, Pa., a Spiritualist minister. Mr. Francis was authorized by County Cerk Robertson some weeks ago to perform the marriage ceremony. Rev. Mr. Way is the only minister of the cult he professes in this city and it became necessary to have another authorized to perform the ceremony, inasmuch as he could not marry himself. Mr. Way is 30 years of age and his bride is 20.

DENIES BEING DUMMY

HADN'T PAID FOR STOCK HELD

Thought Bethlehem Plant Was Located at Homestead—Hearing in Shipbuilding Company Investigation Is Postponed Till Wednesday.

New York, Oct. 16.—The entire time at the hearing of the United States Shipbuilding company investigation before Referee Oliphant was given up to the taking of testimony covering the incorporation and organization of the company in New Jersey. Frederic Seward, Horace Gould and Kenneth McLaren, young men connected with the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, who acted either as incorporators or directors of the shipbuilding combination, were called to the stand and examined at length as to the circumstances under which they served the promotors of the enterprise.

Frederic Seward, who had served as a director, was questioned for three hours, the inquiry covering his connection with the company from the time Alexander & Green asked him to serve as a director until he resigned when the permanent officers were elected. His stay on the stand was prolonged because he would not admit that he was a mere "dummy," acting under the orders of the counsel of the company. He held that he had used his independent judgment in voting on the many important questions determined by the directorate when he, Louis Daily and Harold Newman, of the Corporation Trust company, were the three members of it.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the bondholders, questioned him at length with the object of showing that he had not paid for the share of stock that he held; that he knew nothing of the value of the properties acquired by the votes of himself and his associates, and that everything done by the directorate was at the instance of counsel and the mere formal carrying out of orders.

Seward admitted that he did not know the location of the plant nor the character of the business of the Harlan Hollingsworth company, Moore & Sons, and the Canda company, and said that he was under the impression that the Bethlehem plant was located at Homestead. Seward and the other temporary directors acted upon the increase in the capital stock of the company from $3,000 to $45,000,000, voted for the issuance of securities to the amount of $71,000,000, and decided other matters of importance, and the testimony indicates an intention to attack the validity of all those transactions.

It is claimed that the original directors were simply "dummies," and that while the forms of the law were closely followed at all of the meetings, none of the directors were properly a holder of stock and that none of their acts was of legal value.

The hearing went over until next Wednesday, Oct. 21, when Lewis Nixon will take the stand. He was sworn at the close of the hearing, but did not give any testimony.

THE "OPEN" SHOP QUESTION.

Freedom of Employment Discussed by National Civic Federation.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Discussion of the question of the "open" shop by representatives of labor and capital took up the greater part of the first session of the National Civic Federation conference, which is endeavoring to establish more rightful relations between employers and employes, and to end strife.

Various phases of the matter of freedom of employment, which is now agitating the industrial world, were presented by interested persons. The discussion will be continued to-day, when it will become general.

During his talk on the "open" shop, John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, strongly denounced the non-unionist and the strike breaker, whom he likened to a criminal.

Henry C. Hunter, of New York, it is announced, will be among the speakers on the "open" shop at today's session, at which Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to preside. Senator Hanna it was said, would be in charge of Saturday's meeting.

SHERMAN STATUE UNVEILED.

Official Washington Present at Ceremony—President Makes Address.

Washington, Oct. 16.—With impressive ceremonies an equestrian statue of William Tecumseh Sherman was unveiled here in the presence of official Washington, the president at its head, and thousands of veterans, members of the societies of the armies of the Tennessee, Cumberland, Ohio and Potomac. As the two large flags enveloping the statue were drawn aside by William Tecumseh Sherman Thorndyke, the 9-year-old grandson of the dead chieftain, the cannon of the Fourth artillery boomed a salute and the Marine band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." Sucess marked every detail of the ceremonies, which were in charge of Colonel T. W. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds.

Before the unveiling of the statue the president and Lieutenant General Young, chief of the general staff of the army, reviewed the troops participating in the dedication parade from the stand opposite the statue. The president delivered the address of the day. A representative from each of the societies of the four armies followed in eulogies of General Sherman.

Indians Threaten Vengence.

Decatur, Neb., Oct. 16.—A series of depredations, alleged to have been committed by a gang of white men, on the Omaha reservation, has brought the Indians of the Skunk and Wolf lodges to a high state of excitement. United States Marshal Sloan has sent a number of deputies to quiet the Indians and arrest the guilty ones. The braves threaten disaster to the men if caught, and an effort is being made to capture them and take them to Omaha.

ECZEMA SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, and burns like Eczema. Beginning often with a slight redness of the skin it gradually spreads, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs and face, and is a veritable torment at times, especially at night or when overheated.

In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. As time went by it grew worse, and I was convinced that I was afflicted with Eczema. I consulted several physicians and a number of specialists, and used several external applications, receiving but slight temporary relief. In February I decided to try S. S. S., and in less than a month I experienced a change for the better, and by May all symptoms had disappeared, and I found myself entirely cured, and have had no return of the disease since. W. P. BRUSH, Manager Stockman's Advertising Agency. Station A, Kansas City, Mo.

The cause of Eczema is a too acid and general unhealthy condition of the blood. The terrifying itching and burning is produced by the overflow through the glands and pores of the skin of the fiery poisons with which the blood-current is overloaded. While external applications, such as washes, soaps, salves and powders aresoot hing and cooling they do not enter into the blood itself or touch the real cause of the disease, but S. S. S. does, and purifies, enriches, and strengthens the thin acid blood and cleanses and builds up the general system, when the skin clears off and Eczema with all its terrifying symptoms disappears.

JAPAN AND THE EAST

CHINESE STUDENTS IN TOKIO

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The Eastern Missionary convention of the Methodist Episcopal church came to an end when a monster meeting was held in the Academy of Music. The convention, which began Tuesday, was a success in point of numbers attending its session and in the interest arouse1 for the Christianizing of the heathen world. Delegates were prominent clergymen and laymen from all parts of the country. Missionaries from Africa, Siberia, Japan, Korea, China, Malay peninsula, India, Liberia, Chile, Argentine Republic and Porto Rico also took part in the proceedings.

Because of the present course of events in the far east the address of Dr. Spencer on Japan was particularly interesting to the delegates. He has spent 20 years in Japan and told of the progress of mission work in that country. Dr. Spencer, among other things, said:

"In saving Japan you save the orient. Japan is already in practical control of Korea. She owns strategic railroads, telegraphs, banks, large commercial interests. Japan is sending hundreds of her picked men into China. They are reorganizing her army; are advisers to her government; are police organizers and teachers; are putting her schools into shape; are heads of business enterprises; are drafting her new code of civil law; are managing her imperial university. Little Japan leading old China!

"Why, 2,000 Chinese students are in the schools of Tokio, and among them are the sons of Chinese nobles; and of these students more than 100 are Chinese girls. Over 100 Chinese noncommissioned military officers are in Japanese barracks getting their training for war. And if these Chinese students and these Japanese can be Christianized what does this mean to the orient? Remember the trumpet call of Bishop Moore, 'as Japan goes, so goes the orient.'

"I would help Japan save China. I would hepl her build a wall so high and strong that the Russian bear could neither scale it nor crawl through it, for be it known unto you that wherever that bear places his paw there is an end to Protestant missions and ultimately to American commerce."

ENDURANCE RUN FINISHED.

Twenty-one Machines Reach Pittsburg —Visitors Attend Smoker.

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The automobile endurance run to Pittsburg from New York came to a close with 21 machines in at the finish. The cars of Thomas, Garther and Whitman were the last to arrive. The machines began to arrive at Allegheny City about noon, and the first five were taken in charge by the reception committee of the Pittsburg Automobile club in machines. They were driven past the Hotel Schenley, which is the headquarters of the visitors, and thence to the garage. During the afternoon the cars kept coming in at frequent intervals. They were photographed as they pulled up at the door of the hotel.

The visitors attended a theater in the evening as the guests of the Pittsburg Automobile club, and afterwards there was a smoker. A telegram of congratulation was received from President Shattuck, of the Automobile Club of America, and there were numerous other telegrams of a like character from prominent automobilists. Mrs. A. L. Riker, the only woman who made the run, was presented with a massive bouquet by the survivors.

AMERICANS WIN.

Decision of Alaskan Boundary Tribunal Concedes Case.

London, Oct. 16.—The Morning Advertiser announces that it regrets to learn from a source which it regards as beyond question that the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal virtually concedes the American case.

The Advertiser, which appears to be thoroughly satisfied with the reliability of its statement, says the news will be received in Canada with consternation. It gives a map and a detailed explanation showing how the decision will affect Canada and adds that those who have followed the arguments have been thoroughly satisfied with Hon. Clifford Sifton's preparation and presentation of the case.

SHOT BY FORMER LOVER.

Lady Student Killed on Street—Murderer Then Suicides.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—Josephine Meade, a student of the University of California, was shot and killed by Paul Schmidt, aged 25 years, who afterward committed suicide.

Miss Meade was formerly a resident of Los Angeles, where she was employed as a teacher in the public schools. Schmidt was also a resident of Los Angeles, where he is said to have been prominently connected.

The tragedy ocured at 1819 Laguna street, where Miss Meade lodged. On leaving the house Miss Meade was met by Schmidt, who had been waiting in the neighborhood for some time.

Miss Meade and Schmidt adjourned to a nearby doorway, where they stood for a few minutes, Schmidt talking earnestly and with many gestures.

Miss Meade stepped away from him and approached a passerby, to whom she said:

"I beg your pardon, but this man—"

At that moment Schmidt began shooting. He sent four bullets into the girl's body. When she fell dead he calmly looked at her for a few moments, and walked down the street removing the empty shells from his revolver. He then reloaded the pistol, and after firing in the air to test the cartridge, placed the pistol against his forehead and fired. He died instantly.

Schmidt and Miss Meade have been acquainted several years and were engaged to be married. His attentions became distasteful to her, however, and she, becoming alarmed at his threats against her life, gave up her position in Los Angeles and went to Boston to escape him, afterward returning to this city, where Schmidt followed.

Miss Meade was a niece of Vicar General Hartnott of the Southern California diocese, and was of an excellent reputation.

MANDAMUS SUIT DECIDED.

Independent Companies Benefit by Judge's Ruling.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 16.—In the circuit court of the United States here Judge Nathan Goff decided the mandamus suit of the Kingwood Coal company against the West Virginia Northern Railroad company and others in favor of the plaintiff company, and an order was entered directing the railroad company to cease its practice of discrimination of the distribution of coal cars among the collieries along its line. The decision was based on the working capacities of mines and not on rating given them by railroad companies, and upon the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

The decision is far-reaching, as it effects the relations between railroad companies and coal operators and especially accords to independent operators rights not heretofore observed by railroad companies. The Kingwood company was getting only 13 per cent of the cars and the decree directs that it be given 31 per cent.

Boy Tries to Exterminate Family.

NO MONEY FOR FLAGS

"I Don't Take Any Stock In That Kind of Business."

Tom L. Johnson's Repeated Refusals to Review the Memorial Day Parades as Mayor of Cleveland—Spanish War Soldiers, as Well as Union Veterans, Insulted.

What motive inspired Mayor Johnson's evident ill-will against the American soldiers? Some suppose that it is because his father was a Confederate soldier and he was brought up in a secession atmosphere, but the real fighting Confederates have shown no sympathy with such spiteful acts as are credited to Johnson. It is unjust to them to blame them for his pettiness.

The most significant illustration of Johnson's conduct along this line has been his systematic snub of the soldiers on Memorial day, three times repeated. In 1901, just after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York on Memorial day instead of reviewing the soldiers' parade, as should have been his pleasant duty as mayor of Cleveland. In 1902 he declined to have anything to do with the parade, and in 1903 he declined again, and then added to the insult of his refusal to appear in the reviewing stand at the city hall by sitting in his automobile in a street a short distance away. Not even in his public place as mayor was he able to shed his spite against the Union soldiers for a single occasion.

Whatever moved Johnson in this matter no one can know, but they may surmise from his treatment of the Grand Army of the Republic on two occasions. Although mayor of Cleveland at the time, and one of its wealthiest citizens, he was about the only prominent man in the city who refused to contribute toward the expenses of entertaining the national encampment of the Grand Army in Cleveland, and the rally of the surviving Union veterans of the Civil War in 1901. Some time after this he expressed his sentiment on this subject with his accustomed vigor. Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 368, G. A. R., while raising funds for a new flag for the post from Cleveland friends, was advised to ask Mayor Johnson for a contribution. When he saw Johnson and handed him the subscription paper the latter threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor as he said: "I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags."

Somewhat similar was his speech, "I have no use for soldiers, anyhow," made when he refused to make the welcoming address as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet given to the returning Cleveland soldiers of the Philippine service, when 289 of them were given medals in recognition of their brave fight for their country in the Orient. Mr. Johnson said that he was going to be out of town, but it was stated when the matter became public that he stayed at his house that evening and no correction has ever been offered.

With this kind of a record, the soldiers of Ohio, more numerous than those of any other state, should see to it that their comrades and their friends should take care of Mr. Johnson at the polls. He has slighted and insulted the Union soldiers of the Civil war and the younger soldiers of the Spanish-American war without reason or excuse. It is their turn now.

STRAY SHOTS.

What use have the people of Ohio for a man who gets on a platform he has opposed and supports principles he has denounced, in return for a nomination for office? Clarke is that kind of a candidate, and now no one knows whether he is sincere about anything.

Every Ohio Democrat of whatever past or present shade of opinion has at stake in this campaign the one question nearest to him of all, whether Tom Johnson's orders must be obeyed at all hazards under penalty of expulsion from the party. They must smash Johnson or he will rule them with an iron hand.

Every Democrat in the Ohio legislature in 1902, in both senate and house, voted against the bills introduced and passed by Republicans that have relieved the general taxpayers of the state of over $3,000,000 this year by drawing that much more from the corporations. The Democrats did this under Tom Johnson's personal leadership, and he declared vehemently that the Republican laws would cause a smash in state affairs. He predicted failure for them, but instead they are working smoothly and successfully.

Turnipseed's attempt to dictate to the Democratic editors of Ohio would be comical except that it had the direct personal endorsement of Tom Johnson. The editors present were told by Johnson that he would approve what Turnipseed would do. And then Turnipseed told them that they must put out of the party even the oldest Ohio Democratic editors who might speak or even think otherwise than as Johnson permitted them to do. It was Turnipseed and Johnson that the Columbus Citizen, Dem., had in mind when it said: "Some people cannot understand why the Democratic editors of Ohio believe that they belong to themselves."

STRAY SHOTS.

Sunday stump speeches are the kind with Toledo Jones. Should he boost Johnson in making them, Tom's tender conscience would not squirm over it.

"Like master, like man." Mayor Johnson's city and county officials are tax dodgers like himself, and are dodging their duties just as he does, but every last man of them draws full pay every time.

Hanna is hated because he overthrew Bryanism and led the McKinley hosts. That is the very reason he ought to have the sterling support of every believer in prosperity.

In spite of every challenge to name a single Ohio industry employing a single man in any labor that benefits the community at large that is supported by Johnson's capital, not a case of the kind has been brought to light. Herrick and Hanna keep their money busy in concerns that give good employment at satisfactory wages to many thousands of men right here in Ohio. But not so Johnson.

From every part of Ohio comes the report of the strongest and best and most conscientious Democrats refusing to have anything to do with Johnson and Clarke and their crusade against the public peace and prosperity. Both for the general welfare and for the genuine good of their own party in the long run, these Democrats are determined to defeat Johnsonism. But all of their votes should only swell the overwhelming tide of defeat for the single taxer.

Some one has said, by way of excuse for Johnson's tax dodging, that he has immense industries and enterprises outside of Ohio. Where they are and what they are has been kept carefully concealed. For him to confess the existence of such investments would be to put their stocks and bonds that he owns upon the tax duplicate at its "selling value" or openly disobey the laws of Ohio. As mayor of Cleveland he has taken an oath to enforce those laws. As governor of Ohio it would be his duty above all others to enforce the laws of this state, but as a tax-dodger he is a law-breaker.

BASED ON RESULTS.

Peactice Compared With Pretense, Appeals to All.

Rural Free Mail Delivery and Road Improvement Are Both Republican Achievements, and the People Appreciate the Great Good Done.

Practice compared with pretense, the real results rather than empty promises, is the record of the Republican party as compared with the opposition over and over again, year after year. Two marked illustrations of this are afforded by the sharp contrast between the platforms of the two parties in the present campaign and their achievements are two great matters of universal concern.

The Democratic platform is silent as the grave upon both of these great subjects and yet they come close home to scores of thousands of homes all over the state of Ohio. The Republican resolutions include this comprehensive declaration: "Better roads save Ohio's citizens millions of dollars yearly and should be systematically established by the state and federal governments. They are especially needed on account of the rural free mail delivery, for which the demand is now well nigh universal. INAUGURATED BY REPUBLICANS, A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION REFUSED IT A TRIAL, AND REPUBLICANS HAVE NOW PROVED ITS VALUE. We favor the extension of the system as rapidly as possible wherever desired."

The value of these declarations is that they are founded upon results actually accomplished. Laws enacted by the Republican legislature have recently stimulated a movement for better roads all over the state, because they have provided ways for securing such roads. An Ohio man who was largely influential as a member of the state senate in securing such laws, was put by President McKinley at the head of a national bureau of good roads and is accomplishing results of positive benefit in many parts of the country as well as in Ohio. Wherever these better roads have been built, they have proved money-makers to the farmers and a benefit to the towns. The Republicans rightly claim credit for what has been accomplished.

As to the rural free delivery, the resolution rightly claims all the credit for the Republican party. The original experiments in this line were made in President Harrison's term, but when Cleveland came in, his officials refused to have anything to do with rural free delivery and killed it off until McKinley became president. All the vast results already accomplished, with their incalculable benefits in making country life more attractive and desirable, are directly due, therefore, to Republican legislation and administration. No feature ever introduced in the government service has grown so rapidly and in such manifest response to the popular demand. The Republican platform, therefore, rightly stands by both of these great improvements so full of benefit to the farmer, and pledges itself for their further extension, while Democracy says nothing and does nothing.

Mrs. Rosa Adams, niece of the late General Roger Hanson, C. S. A., wants every woman to know of the wonders accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

The Anthem.

The rustic choir's greatest show was always made in the anthem, in which some bumpkin had generally a solo to exhibit his "fusty voice." It was a splendid musical display—of its kind. People came from a long distance to hear it and felt so satiated that they left without the sermon. No wonder Shakespeare made Sir John Falstaff lose his voice with "hallooing and singing of anthems." To be sure, he was guilty of an anachronism, for there were no anthems in the fat knight's time, but it may reasonably be supposed that he had become an impressed with this part of the service on his own day that he dropped into the nod which even Homer is privileged occasionally to enjoy.

The Jack Tar who explained a "hanthem" to his mate on the simple principles of verbal elongation was not so far out after all. "If I was to say to you," he began, "'Ere, Bill, give me that handspike,' that wouldn't be a hanthem, but if I was to say to you, 'Bill, Bill, Bill, give, give, give me, give me that, that, that handspike, spike, spike, spike,' why, that would be a hanthem." Just after this fashion did the old village choirs tear and toss their anthem texts.

LAWYER THORNDIKE

What You Ought To Know About Ohio Tax Laws

FARMER PERKINS

LAWYER THORNDIKE AND FARMER PERKINS

THE RETURN OF MONEYS AND CREDITS FOR TAXATION.

FARMER PERKINS—You promised me you would inform me as to the return of moneys and credits for taxation, and I am now ready to hear about it.

Lawyer Thorndike—The taxbearer is required to return, for taxation, all the money he has in possession, or subject to draft, or check, on grand levy day each year. This duty the state imposes upon him and requires him to make oath that he has done it. I have taken all the money on deposit in the national banks in Ohio, at their report nearest April 8, in each year; all the moneys on deposit in the building associations each year, back to and including 1892; all the moneys on deposit in the state banks, trust companies, private and savings banks each year, back to and including 1883, and give you the results of my investigation.

These figures are made up from the state auditor's reports, the reports of the comptrollers of the currency of the United States and the "Ohio Statistics," made up each year by the secretary of state, and I have grouped the years from 1902 back to 1883, in a decade. The moneys of the state in 1902 as gathered from these sources, not returned for taxation, were $344,-263,571. The sum of $55,089,511 was returned for taxation and the two sums represent the total moneys in the state that year.

The per cent of moneys returned in 1902 was 16. If any taxbearer in Ohio returned over 16 per cent of his money for taxation in 1902, he returned more than his proportion.

In 1901 the money in the state in banks not returned for taxation was $375,156,146.19. The sum of $50,950,012 went on the tax duplicate, or 20 per cent and the two sums represent the whole moneys in the state that year. In 1900 and 1899 only 20 per cent of the moneys shown to be in the banks was returned for taxation, and in 1898 the amount went down to 16 per cent. In 1897 it rose to 25 per cent. In 1896 and 1895 it was 20 per cent, and in 1894 it was 33 per cent. In 1893 it was 21 per cent. In the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, the total moneys in the state, by the printed reports of the banks, not returned for taxation, was $2,056,012,231.69, and the total returned for taxation was $413,-655,944. In the last decade of the 56 years of the Kelley law only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state went on to the tax duplicate, and this with the Morganthaler tax-torturing machine in full force. From 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, only 40 per cent of the moneys in the state were returned for taxation. The whole amount in the state for this decade not returned for taxation was $791,500,224. The sum of $366,527,926 was returned for taxation in the same decade.

In the third decade, going back from 1882 to 1873, both years inclusive, the total money returned was $368,058,754, and that not returned was $370,380,116, a difference of only two-thirds of 1 per cent, or the amount returned was 49 1-3 per cent. But these figures remain to be explained. In 1875 and 1874 there was no report of deposits in the private banks in Ohio, and in 1873 there was no report from any private banks in Ohio.

The more fully statistics have been preserved, the greater the disparity between moneys in the banks and the moneys returned for taxation.

Farmer Perkins—Is there no way people can be compelled to return all their moneys for taxation?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 57 years the system of taxing moneys has failed more signally each year.

In 1846 the bank deposits in the state were $3,038,747 and moneys and credits returned were $27,265,210. In 1902 the bank deposits were $400,353,-102.73 and the moneys and credits returned $135,117,922. The owners of moneys want that class of property as favorably treated as personal chattels, and hence return their moneys at 20 per cent. In Iowa all property is returned for taxation at 25 per cent of the full value.

Farmer Perkins—If only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state are returned for taxation, how is it with the credits?

Lawyer Thorndike—In my study as to credits I have taken the list of mortgages recorded each year, from 1902 back as far as 1883, from the annual report of the secretary of state, and assumed this to represent one-third of the credits in that year, as I am justified in doing, from the statistics of 1888, of all the mortgages in the state. The mortgages recorded each year for the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, amounted to $895,059,713.20.

Three times this sum is $2,685,170,-139.60, which represents all the mortgages in the state from 1893 to 1902, both years inclusive. The credits returned in the same 10 years were $964,-095,944, leaving the credits not returned in the same decade $1,721,073,336, or 35 per cent of the total credits in the same years.

In the decade from 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, the mortgages recorded were $775,153,249.81. Three times this sum is $2,325,459,749.43, which represents the credits in the same decade. The credits returned in the same decade were $1,103,968,684, or about 50 per centum of the total credits.

From 1893 to 1902 there was a steady decrease of credits, which I will express in millions, though I could give the exact figures: 1893, one hundred and eleven; 1894, one hundred and ten; 1895, one hundred and six; 1896, one hundred and two; 1897, ninety-nine; 1898, ninety-three; 1899, ninety; 1900, eighty-six; 1901, eighty-two; 1902, eighty.

Now let some believer in the Alfred Kelley system explain this. From 1893 to 1902 Ohio has been growing richer each year, and yet in the same period its returns of credits have regularly and steadily diminished from one hundred and eleven millions to eighty millions. No doubt the thirty-one millions of a decrease has been driven out of the state by tax inquisitors. From 1883 to 1892 the increase in credits was only slightly over six millions, and in 1885, 1886, 1890 and 1892, four years out of the six, the returns dropped back.

Farmer Perkins—What can be done to compel the people of Ohio to make a full return of their credits?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 1866 the credits returned in the state were $79,860,-944. In 1902, 36 years later, they were $80,028,411, only an increase of $167,467 in 36 years, or an increase of $4,651.-86 per year. The year 1902 witnessed the largest return of moneys ever made in Ohio by about five millions. The return was $55,089,511 in a year, when there was on deposit in the banks and monetary institutions in the state $400,353,102.73.

I leave these matters to these gentlemen who are so busy writing letters to the newspapers defending the Kelley system of taxation. To a man who reasons, the statement of these facts carries its own conclusions. A system which does and will produce such results is, and can only be, a failure.

In 1890 the real estate in Ohio was valued for taxation at 40 per cent of what it was returned to the census officers, while the general average in the United States was 41 per cent. In the same year the personal property on the tax duplicate was 38 2-10 per cent of the same property returned to the census enumerators, while in the whole country personal property assessed for taxation was 22 5-10 per cent of its real value. Our careful Ohio people got 15 per cent above the general average in the whole country, which is a very serious reflection upon them.

Farmer Perkins—In looking over your statistics of moneys and credits returned in Ohio, I noticed that in 1855 moneys and credits returned were $104,014,619, and in 1902 the aggregate of the same two items returned in Ohio was $135,117,922 or a gain of $31,013,-303 in 47 years, or $647,093.68 per year, and that $1,659,357 was gained in 1902 from the year 1901. I had thought the people of the state were more thrifty than these figures would indicate. How do you account for this slow growth of wealth in the state?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 47 years the sentiments of the people were in favor of ad valorem taxation because the theory was noble and because they had not tried it. Now intelligent public sentiment everywhere is opposed to the taxation of moneys and credits, and the taxbearer returns some of them, for form's sake, and enough to keep the tax officers quiet.

Farmer Perkins—How are the people to get rid of the taxation of moneys and credits and of a system they despise?

Lawyer Thorndike—There is only one way, and that is for a majority of all the voters in the state to vote in favor of the taxation amendment to the constitution, now before the people. If that becomes the organic law the taxation of moneys and credits can be done away with.

Farmer Perkins—I have a case I wish to submit to you. William McGlone had a farm worth $10,000, valued for taxation at $5,000. He borrowed $5,000 of Abel Jones on a mortgage. Jones sold $5,000 in United States bonds to give him the money, which was delivered the day before grand tax levy day. The rate of taxation was 2 per cent. Jones lived in the same taxing district with McGlone, and the latter held the money on deposit over tax levy day. McGlone paid $100 taxes on his land and $100 taxes on the money he borrowed of Jones, and the latter paid $100 taxes on his mortgage. The state got $300 taxes where, if the transaction had not been made when it was, it would have had but $100. What do you think of that transaction?

Lawyer Thorndike—It is a fine on McGlone for going in debt, a penalty assessed on him for living in the state, and he and Jones could have easily avoided the payment of the extra $200 taxes had they been so disposed and agreed to do so. The return and payment of the $200 tax on their part was purely voluntary.

Kidney Disease Kills.

Its Victims Numbered by the Hundreds of Thousands.

Kidney diseases should be attended to at once, for almost 90 per cent. of our unexpected deaths of to-day are from that cause. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the only sure cure known for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation. It is marvelous how it stops that pain in the back, relieves the necessity of urinating so often at night, drives away that scalding pain in passing water, corrects the bad effects of whiskey and beer and shows its beneficial effects on the system in an incredibly short time.

"I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with the most beneficial results. I was troubled with gravel and kidney complaint very severely, it bothered me a great deal, and have found great relief from its use, and cheerfully recommend it."

"Favorite Remedy" is the most successful medicine ever discovered for kidney, bladder, liver and blood diseases. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere. It is recognized as a specific. It purifies the blood and dissolves the excess of uric acid in it, clears up the urine, restores the kidneys and bladder to their normal condition, and gently moves the bowels.

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

HOW BANKS INCREASE BUSINESS

Des Moines bankers are learning to advertise. This is the great reason that Des Moines banks are growing so rapidly. Advertising in the banking business is a new departure, but it is accomplishing wonderful results. A local banker who has been using page after page of display advertising in the local newspapers recently said:

"Through our advertising I believe we have increased our number of depositors one-third in the past few months."

Pittsburg banks are spending about a million dollars every year in display advertising. The big newspapers of that city contain more advertising from the banks in town than from the department stores. The success that has followed their efforts has led Des Moines men to follow in their wake. The enterprising bankers of the city are quick to see the possibilities of advertising in educating the people to save. The others will soon be forced to follow in their footsteps or suspend. — Des Moines (Ia.) Capital.

STATE TAKES ALL LAND

Secret Work Going on Over the State By Hired Agents Preaching the Single Land Tax, Though Johnson Dodges It In Platform and Campaign—Its Advocates Define the Idea.

"Vote the straight Republican ticket, and brand the brazen dragon of single tax with everlasting defeat." This emphatic language of the Caldwell Journal is the growing sentiment of the people of Ohio as fast as they find out just the taxation that Johnson's false cry of "just taxation" actually means for them. Its real purpose has been enveloped in a cloud of words, but there has been a most conspicuous lack of any precise statement of the Johnson program. This of itself is enough to condemn it to every judicious mind. Mere fine words will not answer, where all of the most precious property rights of every home owner in town and country alike, are imperiled.

That this peril is imminent and unmistakable, is made plain by the statement of the Johnson program from those best qualified to speak on the subject. While Johnson's platform says nothing this year about the single land tax, although written by the editor of the single land tax organ at Chicago, brought to Ohio by Johnson to help his campaign, yet it is only cowardice that keeps out of the platform actual mention of the subject that underlies the document, and is its vital spirit. With equal cowardice Johnson himself has never dared to say single tax in this campaign thus far, although last year he repeatedly referred to it as his most precious principle, as the sovereign remedy for all political ills. Why should so great a thing, in fact the greatest thing in political affairs one short year ago, according to Johnson, be shoved into the background by Johnson?

And yet all is not silence on the subject. Johnson's political preacher at Cincinnati had a sermon about it, that was really a stump speech, the other Sunday, showing what he called the success of the scheme. Other men hired by Johnson, or someone for him, have been operating all over the state, like soap sellers and street fakers, peddling single tax doctrine, and trying to manufacture votes for Johnson. There has been some campaigning, too, of the kind that was used against McKinley when he was given the defeat for congress that nominated him for governor and president. Holmes county in that campaign was over-run with glib talkers with a pack of lies about McKinley, that cost him enough votes to cause his defeat. These men had various pretenses of occupation, but their real business was to defeat McKinley.

Thus this year Johnson emissaries are reported as surreptitiously scattering over the state with false stories about the single tax. One misstatement that has been worked because of its plausibility, while untrue, is that the single tax means only that the double tax of both land and the mortgage upon it required by the Ohio constitution would be taken off by Tom Johnson. Every one agreed to this long before Johnson was heard of in Ohio, but the puzzle has been how to do it with the constitution as it is, or how to change the constitution safely. This, though, is not the single tax that Johnson has talked about. The nature of that is clearly shown in the adopted official statement of the single tax principle by its advocates, as accredited to Henry George himself as follows:

"We assure that no tax should be levied on the products of labor. We are in favor of raising all public revenues for National, State, County and Municipal purposes by a single tax upon land values, irrespective of improvements, and all the obligations of all forms of direct and indirect taxation. The single tax can be instituted by the single and easy way of abolishing, one after another, all other taxes now levied, and commensurately increasing the tax on land values until we draw upon that one source for all expenses of government, the revenue being divided between local governments, state government and the general government. In assessment under the single tax all valuaes created by individual use or improvement would be excluded, and the only value taken into consideration would be the value attaching to the bare land."

Every property owner can see for himself how he likes such a program, but even this is not all of it. This official declaration makes perfectly plain that land alone, and nothing but land, is to pay every penny of expense in the cost of government from the entire United States down to the road districts, and that every dollar of the immense investments in stocks and bonds, and so on, such as make up all of Tom Johnson's millions on which he dodges taxes, is to be absolutely exempt from any kind of tax. This makes plain, too, that every improvement upon the land is to escape taxation.

One point that it does not state is Henry George's repeated declaration that all these taxes upon land are to be made so heavy as to take away the land entirely from its owners, because all private ownership is nothing but robbery, as he calls it. This is to be done so that the state shall own all the land forever, and use all its revenue for society.

This is pure socialism, and no Johnson denial can make it anything but socialism. To vote for Johnson is to vote for it. He declares he don't want your vote if you don't believe with him. Don't give it to him, then, but bury him and his schemes in the same grave.

LABOR SUFFERED.

A Painful Page of Past Experience Recalled.

Lower Wages, Fewer Days and Shorter Hours Were the Result of the Tom Johnson Legislation, Which He and Clarke Would Bring If They Could.

David Armstrong, long known widely as one of the most active members of Cataract Lodge No. 2, A. A. I. and S. W., scores these points on Johnsonism in a communication to the Cleveland Leader:

It has come to my notice through the columns of your paper that on Sept. 12, 1903, Hon. T. L. Johnson spoke to a large audience in Youngstown. After exhausting his vocabulary of vituperation and slander on Senator M. A. Hanna, he, knowing Youngstown to be the hotbed of unionism, turned his attention to the subject, winding up with the remark that never would the evils of which the unions complained be wiped out until they aim deeper than they do and strike at the root by voting the Democratic party into power. Oh, folls and slow of heart, to believe all the reformers have told you! I am of the opinion that T. L. J. struck the wrong town. The union men of the A. A. of I. & S. W. in Youngstown remember that T. L. Johnson, W. J. Bryan and W. L. Wilson were members of congress and drafted a bill which became a law that did more to cripple unionism than anything that has occurred since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in 1620.

Union men know that in 1892 jobs were plenty and there was work for all. The base of wages was $5.50 per ton. The bill above mentioned when put into execution by T. L. J., W. J. B., and W. L. W. reduced the opportunity to work over one-half and reduced wages of labor 50 per cent. The unionist of Youngstown well remembers the all-night session in 1896, from 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon until 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when they were glad to settle for $4 per ton. Perhaps Tom L. Johnson thinks that was a good way to settle complaints against the Democracy in every branch of the government. We had free trade, "free soup," and shorter hours from six days a week to one, two, and never more than three, at a reduction in pay of $1.50 per ton. Cataract Lodge No. 2, A. A., was not in a thriving condition. The writer, with a few others, got up an entertainment. We concluded to send four tickets to each local under the jurisdiction of the A. A. On Feb. 16, 1897, I sent out 145. Seventy-five came back, 14 contained $1.

"Yours of 16th recevied. I presented to our lodge your tickets, and after due consideration, owing to the deplorable condition we are in, it would be impossible for us to help you. Times are hard and work scarce, with little prospect for the future.

"J. C. JONES,

Here is another:

"Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20, 1897—Hall of Iron City Lodge, No. 1:

"Your communication received with four tickets. Sorry to say, our lodge instructed me to return them to you from the fact that our mill has not averaged more than one day and a half or two a week for the last five months. I can assure you that it has been the greatest effort on my part to keep our lodge together.

"JAMES L. MARKS,

"No. 85 Crawford street, Pittsburg, Pa."

McKinley was inaugurated March 4, 1897, and since that time we have been climbing up, with plenty of work for everybody, and a raise of wages from $4 to $6. Union men should look at this question fairly, without partiality or prejudice, and be governed by good common sense. Now you hear nothing of a "soup house." All we have to do is to look at the years—1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, and from July, 1897 to the present time.

And as the advocates of the free, unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, means union men to be paid in money worth 40 cents on the dollar. Again we heard that this was a state campaign. National issues should not be discussed. They never mentioned Hon. M. T. Herrick, but the tirade upon Senator Hanna knew no bounds, charging him with everything but the disaster at crib No. 3. Let it be known Senator Hanna never voted for a measure or introduced one that would reduce the wages of labor one cent. Tom L. Johnson did. While he, as a national official, votes to take from union laboring men their jobs, the Democratic way of remedying the evils union labor complains of.

Shall Ohio's November verdict cheer or discourage President Roosevelt?

MESSENGER MISSING

Police Notified and General Alarm Sent Out—Comes from Prominent Family—Supposition Is That Couple Eloped—Bank Discovers Forgery.

New York, Oct. 16. — Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, asked the local police to send out a general alarm for Clarence H. Leonard, 18 years old, of East Orange, N. J., a messenger employed by the firm. It is alleged that Leonard forged two checks, one for $7,500, and the other for $2,576, using the firm name, on two local banks, presented them at the banks and collected the money. He is said to have secured the money last Tuesday at noon, and to have disappeared immediately afterward. It is also said that a young woman living in East Orange disappeared at the same time. Leonard had been attentive to her and the supposition of the bank officials and the police is that they have eloped. Leonard comes from a prominent family of East Orange and had the full confidence of his employers.

It was part of Leonard's duties as messenger to make deposits and to draw money for current uses of the firm from the banks. He was well known at the banks and there was no question when the checks were presented for payment.

The forgery is considered to be clever work and the bank officials say was undoubtedly traced. The discovery was made, however, in one of the banks almost immediately after the check had been cashed there. The suspicion of the cashier was aroused because Leonard, he said, seemed nervous, and because the check called for $7,500—a larger amount than he had ever presented a check for before. Haskins & Sells were communicated with and a member of the firm hurried to the bank, examined the check and pronounced it a forgery. Inquiry at another bank where the firm had an account disclosed the fact that Leonard had cashed a check for $2,576 there.

The police were informed and detectives hurried to East Orange, but found no trace of Leonard. When the young man left home Tuesday morning he told his parents he intended to stay in New York that night.

A description of Leonard has been telegraphed to all the principal cities of the country and all steamship lines and railroads have been watched. A detective agency has also sent out a description of the young woman in the case.

PLATT ON HONEYMOON.

Marriage Took Place Sunday—Ceremony Was Private.

New York, Oct. 16.—Announcement was made that the marriage of United States Senator Thomas C. Platt and Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway took place at the Holland house on Sunday last. The Rev. Dr. Barrell performed the ceremony in the presence of the intimate members of Mr. Platt's and Mrs. Janeway's families. The senator said that he chose a private ceremony to avoid the crush and annoyance of a public wedding. Senator and Mrs. Platt left the city for a short trip.

Lakewood, N. J., Oct. 16.—Senator Platt and his bride arrived here from New York. The senator refuses to say how long they intend to remain.

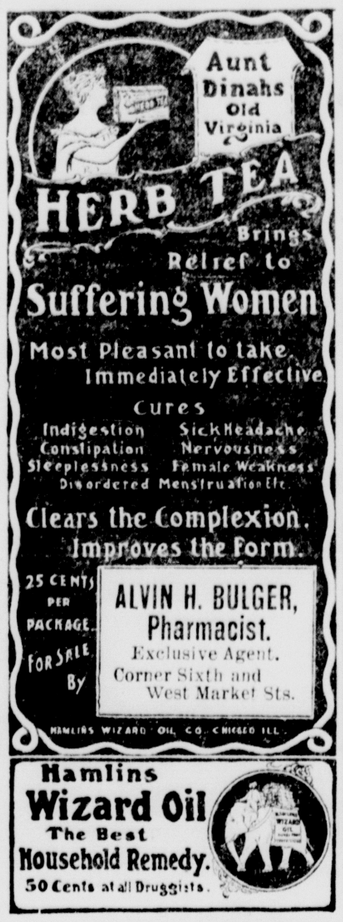

TILLMAN NOT GUILTY.

After Being Out Twenty Hours Jury Acquit Him of Murder.

Lexington, S. C., Oct. 16.—The trial of James H. Tillman, charged with the murder of N. G. Gonzales, editor of the State, in Columbia, on Jan. 15 last, ended in an acquittal. The jury before which Tillman has been on trial since Sep. 28 brought in a verdict of not guilty, thus ending a judical hearing which has engrossed the attention of the public of South Carolina as none other has in the last quarter of a century. The jury was out for 20 hours before arriving at a verdict.

Never was a case in South Carolina courts more vigorously contested than this. The solicitor was assisted in the prosecution by four other lawyers, while the accused was defended by seven lawyers, an exceptional array of counsel. More than a hundred witnesses gave testimony, about as many on one side as the other, and nine lawyers argued before the jury.

Mr. Tillman left for his home in Edgefield, accompanied by his wife and friends from his home county.

Pacific Express Messengers Walk Out When Demands Are Refused.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—A strike was declared by the Pacific express messengers in St. Louis. Last Tuesday the members of the local Brotherhood of Railway Expressmen submitted a demand for an increase of 10 per cent in wages. They stopped work, and only returned upon the assurance that their demands would be considered. Notification was sent to the express messengers that the increase could not be granted, and the walkout resulted.

The employes in Wichita, Kan.; Kansas City, Texarkana, Ark., and San Antonio, Tex., are out on strike. Portland, Ore., employes did not go out.

Advises Day of Rest.

Kansas City, Oct. 16. — Addressing the convention of Roadmasters and Maintenance of Way association here A. Morrison, of Pittsburg, Pa., advised his hearers to treat their men with consideration. "Give your men one day in seven to rest," said Mr. Morrison, "and let that day be Sunday. The company loses money on every man who does not rest one day in seven. Let the men spend Sundays with their families at home and you will have better men. It is economy for the company and a kindness to the men. I have proved that it is possible, and you can devise means to accomplish it if you will only try it." The convention adjourned to meet at St. Louis next September.

Motions for Nonsuit Overruled.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16.—In the trial of Miller and Johns for alleged conspiracy and bribery under the recent postal indictments the government rested and the defense introduced evidence for three hours. One of the defendants was still on the stand when court adjourned, and it is thought that most of the time will be taken up today with these two defendants as witnesses, so that the arguments will not be made until Saturday. After the government rested council for both Johns and Miller filed motions for a nonsuit. Both motions were promptly overruled by Judge Thompson.

Dynamite Failed to Explode.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 16.—Six sticks of dynamite were found on the Northern Pacific track near Birdseye, eight miles west of Helena. An extra freight, eastbound, passed over the powder during the night without exploding it. The dynamite was discovered by section men. It had been placed under the rail, the fish plates of which had been removed. Chief of Detectives McEldridge, of St. Paul, in charge of the Northern Pacific train and officers, left with a pack of bloodhounds soon after the finding of the powder was reported.

Fellow Convict Murderously Assaulted.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 16.—M. A. Crocraft, convict, sentenced from Rock Island a year ago, made a murderous attack on George McCormick, a convict sent from Chicago last spring. The assault took place in the shoe shop at the state penitentiary. Crocraft used a knife, plunging it into McCormick's head and drawing it down across the cheek and neck. Other convicts became greatly excited, but the guards checked the threatened outbreak and disarmed Crocroft. He was sent to the dungeon. McCormick probably will recover.

Notable Assemblage.

London, Oct. 16.—The dinner given by the Pilgrims society to the Alaskan boundary commission at Claridge's hotel proved the most notable assemblage of Englishmen, Americans and Canadians ever brought together in London. In addition to the members of the commission the British cabinet ministers, the American ambassadors and most prominent representatives of English public life were present.

Appointed Bishop in Philippines.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16. — Information was received that Father M. P. McSorley, of the convent of the Good Shepherd, in this city, has been appointed a bishop in the Philippine Islands. Father McSorley has been a missionary for many years and lately has been priest at the convent. He was born at Phillipsburg, N. J., 39 years ago.

HOW TO GAIN FLESH

The life of food is the fat within it—the more fat the more real benefit from the food; that is why cod liver oil is a powerful builder of flesh.

Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil solves the problem of how to take cod liver oil. That is one reason why doctors have been prescribing Scott's Emulsion for all wasting diseases, coughs, colds and bronchitis for almost thirty years.

Origin of the Turban.

The origin of the turban must be looked for not, as commonly believed, among Moslems, but as a sign of authority and honor dating back to the earliest periods of Jewish history. The term used in the Hebrew Bible for putting on the bonnet of the high priest is from a root meaning "to bind round." The words miter, hood, diadem, as used in the Old Testament, are only variations of the word turban.

Jerome tells us that the turban has a place in the most ancient records of history. The variations as adopted by Mohammedans are many. Their own authorities hint at a thousand methods of arranging the turban, which shows not only the tribe and religious distinction, but even the personal peculiarities of the wearer.

An old legend traces the turban to an act of desperate courage recorded of the ancient Levantines. A brave band of warriors are said to have wrapped their winding sheets round their heads as they devoted themselves to certain death to save their comrades on the battlefield.

The Gopher Snake.

It has long been a question in our minds as to how the gopher snake caught the gophers on which he lives, but H. C. Heitzer tells how it was done, having witnessed a catch. Mr. Snake coiled his tail over the gopher hole, setting a snare for him. When the gopher had crawled out of the hole sufficiently to permit the snake's tail to be drawn about the body of the gopher the coil was fastened about Mr. Gopher as quick as a flash.

It was gradually drawn tighter and tighter until the gopher fell over dead, the life having been completely squeezed out of him. After the gopher is dead the snake swallows him whole, and it is not an unusual thing to find one of these snakes with a number of gophers in him. The gopher is a great fighter, and if he was not caught in a snare as the one mentioned he would doubtless make a hard fight for life even with a snake.—Tulare Advance.

The Lowest Form of Bird.

There is a peculiar bird commonly known as the "kiwi." Its scientific name being Apteryx mantelli. It is the lowest form of bird which exists, but is so scarce that scientists are hard to get a specimen in any condition. It is absolutely without wings or tail. Its legs are short, stubby, but very strong and are used by this bird for digging. The body covering is a cross between hair and feathers, a material which is very coarse. They can develop great speed and make a desperate fight when attacked. Breeding them in captivity has utterly failed, and only a few museums can boast of a specimen. They are now very rarely found in the forests and swamps in the north of New Zealand.

A DEMOCRATIC SCOOP IS SPOILED BY HANNA

A BIG MEETING WAS HELD AT YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, October 16.—Senator Hanna nipped a scheme in the bud last night by springing an advance sheet of a document about to be issued by the Democratic state committee. This contains a series of questions which he is asked to answer. The purpose is to cast them broadcast at every meeting which he addresses in order to embarrass and annoy Mr. Hanna and also to sow seeds of distrust in the minds of the voters. The questions, so far as he read them, are of a trivial character in keeping with the Democratic campaign, but in some instances of a particularly vicious kind.

The senator sprung the document at the close of his meeting here last evening, when he spoke to several thousand people in the opera house and received one of the most flattering testimonials accorded him during the present campaigning tour.

"I have here," he said, "a series of questions which it is proposed to ask me. Perhaps this is as good a time as any to take them up. The first asks whether Representative Burton, of Cleveland, is not a good Republican, even though he opposes the ship subsidy bill. Of course he is. The next is whether I think I ought to appoint 15 members of the Ohio legislature to federal jobs, who assisted me in my fight for the senate. It is wrong there. I appointed more than 15.

"I never go back on my friends. Another is, what was the amount of my bar bill at the Neil house in Columbus during the campaign of 1898. That is a hard one. I can't answer it. I did not pay any bar bill. I don't know who did."

Speaking of the Democratic platform as adopted by the state convention at Columbus, Senator Hanna declared it to be a patchwork of falsity and fancies, stripped of every element of Jeffersonianism.

"Look at it," he said. "What is there to appeal to an old-time Democrat? Jefferson taught that the functions of government were to enact and enforce law, to protect life and property of citizens and that there its functions ended. The present platform is opposed to every act of that great man. He did not believe in municipal ownership. There is no Jeffersonianism in that. Not even sense.

"The platform is absolutely antagonistic to every principle of the American government. It is opposed to Christianity. It would overthrow society and revolutionize conditions in this, the greatest country in the world."

Col. Herrick preceded the senator and discussed state issues. Rev. S. R. Frazier presided. Before coming here for the evening meeting, Herrick and Hanna spoke at Ravenna and Kent in Portage county and in both were given kind receptions. Today there is but one meeting at Wellington in the evening. This is Col. Herrick's birthplace, and he speaks there alone.

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—The divorce case of Leonidas L. Wilson, of Unity township, versus Olive L. Wilson was heard by the court yesterday afternoon, but on the conclusion of the evidence, the case was continued for the reason that the residence of the defendant is known and she has not been personally served with summons.

They were married at Beaver, Pa., December 27, 1899, and on July 15, 1900, the wife left her home and has not returned. At last accounts she was living at Darlington, Pa. There was no prayer in the petition as to the custody of the one child born to them.

PATROL SYSTEM ON NEW PLAN

By adopting a new patrol system—in fact the only one that was ever instituted in the city—the board of public safety expects in a short time to have the members of the local police force working as they do in cities of the first class. The new plan was presented at the regular meeting last evening and it met the approval of every member.

The board has divided the city into a different order of beats and the patrol system will mean that each officer while on duty must report at given points at designated intervals. The officers patrolling in the vicinity of the Diamond will be compelled to report more often than in other parts of the city, that being a center of at least four of the total number of eight beats. At this point an officer will report every 20 minutes. Central fire station will be the headquarters for receiving reports from the policemen. At the station will be a signal which will drop when the officers make their report. Through this the fire department or any other person who wishes to know where a policeman is can easily find out. The cost of inaugurating this system will be small considering its effect and the board is being commended on every hand for its wise move.

Charles Ashbaugh, of the West End pottery, appeared before the board and complained of the size of the water plug located near the plant. He said that it is only a 4-inch plug and that a 6-inch plug is badly needed. His request was superinduced by a notification of an insurance company to the effect that if the pottery company does not see that it has better fire protection it cannot expect to get a full rate of insurance. Mr. Ashbaugh was told that the board had absolutely no money at its command for such improvements and he volunteered to furnish the money providing the board agrees to reimburse him at some future date. The question was in debate for some time and was finally disposed of by the appointing of a committee to investigate.

Chief Wyman presented a full report of the work that has been done by the police department. It was accepted after which the board adjourned.

Was Very Great, But Mr. Johnson Aroused Them and All Got Out in Safety—Contents All Destroyed. Partly Covered By Insurance.

An early morning fire destroyed the home and household effects of James R. Johnson, the well known expressman. Members of the family were compelled to flee in their night clothes from the burning structure. Had the warning of the blaze been delayed a few minutes longer the occupants would have been in great peril, as the flames were almost at the stairway when the alarm reached them. The house, valued at $1,500, is almost a total loss, and practically nothing was saved from the household effects. Mr. Johnson was partly insured through the agency of T. V. Thompson & Co.

The Johnson home was located at the Ross Meadows, about two and one-half miles north of town. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and five children were the occupants. The former arose at the usual hour this morning and after lighting a fire in the kitchen stove, went to the barn to care for his horses. Returning a short time later he was horrified to discover the kitchen a mass of flames. He aroused the sleeping members of the family and by the time they were in a place of safety the flames had covered the entire lower floor making it impossible to rescue anything of value from the structure.

Miss Mollie Johnson, a daughter, who clerks at the Leader store and boards in town, was seized with a nervous attack when told of the occurrence. A physician was called and she was under his care during the day.

TOOK HORSE AND WINE

Lisbon Youths Landed in Jail for Appropriating Another Man's Property.

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—Ralph and Dever Duell and Reuben Wallace, the youths who took Dr. F. P. Moore's horse and buggy from his stable and 16 quarts of wine from his cellar and drove to Leetonia, were brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Officer John Costello.

Mayor Farrell will give them a hearing this evening on a charge of unlawfully taking and using the horse and buggy and stealing the wine. The horse suffered greatly from the hard drive.

ONE THEORY

The police have formed an opinion regarding the shooting of John Bailey, which is being accepted by all as the fact of the case. It is a well known fact that Bailey is a frequenter and good customer of C. B. Bowers, the Franklin street saloonist. The police think that Bailey went to the saloon to get a drink and after arousing Bowers failed to tell him his name. Bowers then concluded it was a burglar and commenced pumping lead in the direction of the noise. As a result Bailey got a chunk in his arm.

RAIN NEEDED TO MAINTAIN THE STAGE

Unless additional rain comes to the rescue, the river will fall to below the navigation stage within the next few days. The rain last night put a temporary stop to the decline, and all day there has been a stationary stage. The lighter packets are out and making fairly good time. The Lorena, up last night at 11 o'clock, had a good trip. She will be the down boat Saturday evening. The Ben Hur is due down at 8 o'clock tonight and the Greenwood will pass down Saturday morning.

The Hornet and the G. W. Thompson, tow boats, are reported in a bad way at Sewickley, where they have grounded at the trap. They are hard aground and cannot be pulled off until a rise comes.

FORAKER MEETING LAST OF MONTH

Chairman Dick Wanted to Change the Date, But the Plan Did Not Suit.

28TH THE DATE SELECTED

Preparations are going steadily forward for the big Republican rally to be held in this city some time during the latter part of the month. One speaker has signified his wilingness to address the people of East Liverpool, and it is hoped favorable replies will be received to the requests for the other men wanted.

Secretary James McGarry, of the city committee, received word this afternoon from the county secretary to the effect that Hon. J. J. Sullivan, of Warren, had acceped the invitation to speak here during the last week of the campaign, and a reply was at once dispatched that he would be counted upon by the local party men. Mr. Sullivan, it is hoped, will assist at the meeting being arranged for October 27 or 28, at which time it is thought Senator J. B. Foraker will be present.

Chairman W. L. Smith had Senator Foraker's assurance some time ago that he would address a meeting here during the present campaign, and it is believed he will certainly keep his promise. Last evening Mr. Smith received a message from State Chairman Dick in which it was proposed to send Senator Foraker to this city next Monday night. The situation was canvassed by several of the local leaders, and it was deemed inexpedient for several reasons to have the meeting arranged for that night. For one thing no suitable hall could be secured, and then the time was too short to give the rally sufficient publicity.

It was finally decided that the city committee ought to insist upon the carrying out of the original plan, which was for a demonstration on the evening of the 28th. A reply to that effect was sent to Chairman Dick, and it is likely he will act upon the wish of the East Liverpool Republicans for a meeting later in the month. An effort is being made to secure the Grand opera house for the occasion.

Extending the Car Line.

Track laying on the Little Beaver extension of the East Liverpool railway started today. Regular cars will soon run about 300 yards above the present terminus. The grading opposite the Dawson place has been seriously damaged by landslides, owing to the clay in the earth there, and measures will have to be taken to make the track more stable. About two miles of grading has been done.

Buchhagen-Croft.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart was the officiating minister at the marriage of Joseph M. Croft and Miss Catherine Buchhagen last evening at 8 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian parsonage. The young couple are popular and well known here, Mr. Croft being one of the Croft Bros.' grocery firm. They will make their home on Sheridan avenue, where last evening a large number of their friends were present to extend congratulations.

NUZUM'S LAST WORDS PRODUCED AS EVIDENCE

TESTIMONY FOR THE DEFENCE BEGUN

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—In the Clunk murder trial the state rested its case at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and several witnesses for the defense were examined before adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock until 9 o'clock this morning.

One of the interesting features of the testimony yesterday afternoon was the introduction of the dying declaration of the murdered man, Frank P. Nuzum, in which he brands his slayer, Anthony M. Cunk, as a wanton murderer. Clunk and his wife were expected to be star witnesses today, as both were sworn yesterday afternoon among the witnesses for the defense.

Nearly three hours were taken up yesterday afternoon with the expert testimony of Drs. T. B. Marquis, George H. Albright and W. C. Nevin, the three Lisbon physicians who attended Nuzum on the morning of the shooting, Dr. Albright continuing to attend him until his death. The testimony of the doctors related to the nature of the wound, its condition at different times and the course of the charge of shot after it had penetrated Nuzum's groin. The charge had passed backward, outward and downward, but as to whether its general course was due to the position of the gun or whether it had been deflected, the witnesses agreed that they were unable to say. Between 20 and 30 shots were removed from the wound.

At the conclusion of the doctors' testimony the ante-mortem statement of Frank P. Nuzum was read to the jury by Prosecutor Brookes. It follows:

"Lisbon, O., July 17, 1903. I, Frank P. Nuzum, believing that I am about to die, and that I cannot recover, do make the following statement: I am 50 years of age and a resident of Elkton, Columbiana county, O. On the 20th day of May, 1903, I was at my home in said village of Elkton and at about 7 or 8 o'clock a. m. the small step-daughter of Anthony Clunk came to my house and said that her mother wanted me to go up to their house to repair the burner on an oil stove. Anthony Clunk lives in the old Crook property in Elkton, O., near the P., L. & W. railroad, so I went up to the house.

"The oil stove stood on the east porch. When I went up I stopped on the porch and examined the stove. I twisted one of the valves on it and the oil squirted down on my hands. I talked with Mrs. Clunk some little time about the stove, after which Mrs. Clunk got a pan of water for me to wash my hands, which I did and then walked to the towel, which was nearby, and was wiping my hands when I heard some one coming in and saw that it was Anthony Clunk. He seemed mad when he saw me. I was in the kitchen wiping my hands.

"As soon as he came in he began to swear and said: 'I'll kill you, you dirty ———. I said I would if I ever found you alone with my wife. I'll kill you, ——— you.'

"I said: 'Why, Tony, you have no

Beautiful And Appropriate Floral Emblems Came from Near And Far.

The funeral of Mrs. James H. Goodwin was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of John S. Goodwin, East Fifth street. The services conducted by Rev. M. B. Pratt, assisted by Rev. Edwin Weary, were solemnly impressive. The home was packed with sorrowing friends and all were deeply moved while the minister paid the highest earthly tributes to the beloved woman.

Though everything kind and lovable was spoken by the minister about Mrs. Goodwin's life as a whole, the oration was based more particularly on her life as a mother. "Her entire life seemed wrapped in her home," were the words of the preacher. "She was affectionate, sweet in disposition, pure in heart and all of her happiness was derived through the happiness brought upon her home by her never-tiring efforts to please. Of no woman could more be said. Not alone was this good woman the idol of her home. She was loved and adored by every acquaintance."

At the conclusion of the touching remarks a last sad view of the body, which was lying on a most beautiful bier, surrounded by a profusion of flowers, the gifts of friends both far and near, was tendered the sad concourse, after which the body was tenderly borne to the hearse by the following persons, all honored acquaintances of the dead woman: George Barnhard, William Rowe, Hal Harker, R. M. Louthan, Dr. W. A. Hobbs and B. C. Simms. The funeral cortege was then formed and started for Riverview cemetery, where the body was laid to rest after another touching service.

Among the floral offerings was one for which the members of the family were especially grateful and appreciative. It was tendered by the employes of the Goodwin pottery and a more beautiful arrangement of flowers was never designed. It was in the shape of a wreath, fully five feet in height. At the top rested the emblem of purity and within its garlands was the representation of the gates of heaven, standing ajar waiting to receive the one to whom it was given.

Impressive music was rendered at the funeral service by Mrs. J. C. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Macrum, C. L. Gray and Teddie Brookes. They sang "Some Sweet Day," "Would Not Live Alway" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

STOUTLY DENIES HER ALLEGATION

Charge of Mrs. Kenney Against Grocer Donnelly Will Be Aired in Court Tomorrow.

Owing to the prominence of the defendant in the case of Mrs. Ellen Kenney, of Pleasant Heights, versus J. F. Donnelly, a grocer and public official of Wellsville, in which the latter is charged with cutting Mrs. Kenney with intent to wound, the preliminary hearing scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Mayor Weaver will be watched with interest. Donnelly is one of the most highly respected residents of Wellsville and stoutly denies the allegation made by Mrs. Kenney. Attorney W. F. Lones has been retained by Donnelly and the case will be bitterly fought.

The particulars of the case, it will be recalled, were exclusively reported in the News Review on last Saturday. According to Mrs. Kenney, Donnelly cut her while she was attempting to get him off her premises. He was there to collect a store bill and while arguing the matter got into an altercation with a brother of the woman and in the melee, it is said, cut the plaintiff.

The members of the police department were busy today carrying out an order issued by Chief Wyman yesterday afternoon. The chief instructed them to get the names of every saloon keeper and their bartenders and also the names and locations of every supposed disorderly house on their beats. The order was issued as a result of the following rule appearing in the rule book compiled and accepted by the board of public safety:

"The chief shall, from time to time, cause to be made a report of all gambling rooms, saloons, suspected houses of ill-fame, resorts of thieves, receivers of stolen property, disorderly houses and all suspicious persons, and furnish the same to the board of public safety."

CONFESSED THAT HE KILLED SEVEN

Wholesale Murder on Blackfoot Indian Reservation Acknowledged.

Cook-Neiger.

A wedding of interest to many local people was that of Miss Ida M. Cook and Mr. William H. Neiger, of Steubenville, which occurred on Wednesday at the First M. E. church. The bride is well known in this city, having been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Little, on a number of occasions. The wedding was an auspicious event in the social circles of Steubenville. The groom is employed with the Armour Packing company of Greensburg, Pa., where Mr. and Mrs. Neiger will reside after a wedding tour.

No Alaskan Boundary Agreement.

London, October 16.—(Special)—The Alaskan boundary commission has reached no decision, no vote having been taken. The story to the contrary is denied. It is admitted that there is pessimism in Canadian circles.

THE JUSTICES' BUSINESS IS MOST FLOURISHING

The local justices are up in arms over a story in a morning publication, written supposedly by some one for the purpose of putting a "black eye" on their very flourishing business. To a News Review reporter, a 'squire said this morning:

"Dip your pen in gall and in the most scathing words at your command denounce the man who wrote that story as one prone to misrepresent and not one that seeks to give the public the facts."

It was stated by the irresponsible scribe that non-support, assault and battery, family quarrels and other cases which formerly furnished local magistrates with material upon which the wheels of justice might grind are known no more in the offices of the 'squires. This the justices deny, styling the statement as an absolute fabrication. They contend that business was never better, and that they were never better satisfied. One of them stated that he has six non-support cases now pending.

The story is also denied at the mayor's office, the chief executive having entertained but one case since his regime. He has been pestered with numerous family quarrels, but in the most of the cases he has referred them to a 'squire.

TWO WEEKS' TICK

All That the Butchers And Grocers Propose to Allow Hereafter.

The Butchers' and Grocers' association met last evening and established a rule that accounts must be settled every two weeks. The association as a body will employ but one collector. The new system will be put in effect at once.

The movement is receiving favorable commendation among other business men. Numerous men and firms engaged in other lines of business have made application to join the association, and a business men's association to include all mercantile and other establishments is likely to be the outgrowth.

News and Notes About The Potteries

TRENTON'S CERAMIC SCHOOL.

Trenton, N. J., October 16.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made by the officials of the Trenton School of Industrial Arts to place on exhibition the Alice Maddock collection of rare and costly china which was exhibited by the latter in this city several months ago. The collection is perhaps one of the most valuable in the world, containing specimens of old antique patterns manufactured by the Chinese down to the finer grades of modern times. The china has all been received at the school and now awaits the construction of suitable cases before being offered for public inspection. The completion of the cases, which are to be handsome so as to correspond with the artistic value of their contents, will be completed about the first of next week.

The purpose of Miss Maddock in giving to the school her collection was that students might obtain a knowledge which would be beneficial in their practical work. A large majority of the students at the school, especially those in the art department, are employed in the local potteries. The school is supported largely by contributions of local pottery manufacturers who feel that it has proven the greatest value to them in the production of highly decorated ware in instances where some of their employes go there for instruction. Charles Howell Cook has frequntly made this statement and above all other has contributed much toward the advancement of the school. Mr. Cook is a member of the board of trustees and frequently designs originated by the students have been used in adorning the decorative product of his plants.

In addition to the art department there is a department where modeling is taught. The shelves about the building are adorned with specimens of the students' work, most of which is modeled in clay from life models. This department has had a particular influence upon the product of the Trent and Providential Tile companies output, as their modelers, who attend there, have frequently modeled designs on tile which have come from the students of the art school.

The local potteries have recovered from the effects of the Inter-State fair and have again settled down to business. All the plants are busy and large shipments are being made of winter and holiday goods. Most of them are consigned to the large department stores and to stores that deal in crockery exclusively. The general ware plants for the first time this year report an abundance of business. Current demands are keeping the majority of the plants well supplied with orders, aside from the requests for holiday specials. Even in this city the stores report that the demand has increased. At the beginning of the year most of the potteries were compelled to shut down owing to the scarcity of business. Since then the orders have been coming in in such large quantities that they feel that this season will equal that of 1902, which was the greatest financially in the history of the local trade. Very noticeable is the falling off in the demand for scheme goods, which was so large last spring. It seems that summer is the best time for canvassing, and this was the time for which most all the crockery was needed.

Word has been received here of the death of Samuel Scherratt at Washington, where he conducted an art studio for many years. His widow and nephew, Thomas Baines, will continue the business. Scherratt was 45 years old and was formerly a decorator in Jesse Dean's factory in this city. He left here 12 years ago for Washington, where he opened a studio for instruction in amateur china painting. Scherratt operated two kilns for the firing of amateur products.

WHEELING DISPUTE SETTLED.

The dispute between the warehouse girls and the management of the Wheeling Potteries company, which President T. J. Duffy, of the N. B. of O. P., was called upon to take in hand, has been settled. The new scale for the warehouse girls has caused considerable trouble at several plants, but the greatest difficulty was experienced at Wheeling. It is evident that the girls there have been very poorly paid, the rate for inexperienced girls being but 50 cents per day. A year's apprenticeship entitles them to an increase of 10 cents per day. In this city the lowest wages paid are 87½ cents per day, the 10 per cent increase bringing the rate here up to 96 cents. The girls at the LaBelle plant went on a strike last Friday, but soon returned to work pending a settlement. They asked that the same scale be adopted as is in force here, but the firm refused. Then President Duffy was called into the controversy. He attended a meeting of the local a few nights ago and as a result the girls have returned to work. As Mr. Duffy is still absent from the city the terms of the settlement could not be learned, but it is to be supposed that the firm agreed to pay the full rate as provided in the new scale, which is operative in the entire western section. The firm has refused to make any statement.

FOR THE WEST ONLY.

Considerable has been said about the final details of settling the pottery wage scale for the next two years. This interesting document is now in the hands of Secretary Ed Menge, of the N. B. of O. P., and the only thing required to make it complete is the signature of President T. J. Duffy, he being absent from the city when the document, bearing the signatures of Joseph G. Lee, president, and W. E. Wells, secretary, of the Western Manufacturers' association, was sent to headquarters for the signatures of the Brotherhood officials. While the final negotiations were carried on with the United States Potters' association, an organization of potting firms from all over the country, the new scale is binding only on the western manufacturers and operatives. The eastern manufacturers claim that the uniform lists of the west are acceptable to them if they can be enforced without trouble. The objection of the eastern jiggermen and others, however, has so far prevented their adoption.

The agreement embodies the amendments and changes agreed to by the two committees and states that it is to remain effective for two years, from the first of October, 1903, to the first of October, 1905.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

In conversation with a member of the firm of the Spear Clay Manufacturing company of Vanport, it was stated that a very complete system of improvements has been put into the works there, consisting of new pans, new crushers and a 40,000 daily capacity Frease brick machine. The company is giving special attention to building brick and paving block, and Col. James M. Porter takes the entire output of the factory. Clarence Fairfield, of Pittsburg, is the superintendent and is meeting with the very best success.

GIRLS GAIN A POINT.

The girls employed in the biscuit warehouse at the china works will not lose their lunch hour, but they will have but 15 minutes instead of the half hour, as was the case before the new wage agreement abolished the lunch hour entirely for those working at day wage. The girls claimed a differential owing to the flint which they encounter. Their strike has been on for about a week, but they will return to work at the rate of wages provided in the uniform scale, but they gain the quarter hour for lunch. The strike was of rather serious consequences, as several other departments at the plants suffered because of it.

Boy Mourned as Dead Returns Home.

Chicago, Oct. 16.—After having been mourned as dead since early in September, Guy Jones, 11 years old, has turned up alive and well. In a grave at Graceland cemetery is the body of a boy which was buried as that of the missing lad. Taking offense at a scolding by his father the boy left home. A search by the police revealed a body resembling his floating in the river.

New Counterfeit Note.

Washington, Oct. 16.—The secret service announces the discovery of a new counterfeit $10 United States note of the series of 1901, Lyons, register; Roberts, treasurer; with portraits of Lewis and Clark. It is a well executed lithographia production printed on a good quality of bond paper, without any attempt to imitate silk fiber. The color of the seal, numbering and large X with superimposed "Ten" on the face of the note is pink instead of carmine.

THE LOCAL BANKS MOURN HIS ABSENCE

Moundsville Man Missing, Leaving $10,000 or $15,000 of Worthless Paper Behind.

Moundsville, W. Va., October 16.—John K. Bowen, one of the most prominent citizens of Moundsville, is missing from his home, and three local banks have discovered that his paper to the aggregate amount of between $10,000 and $15,000 is worthless. B. E. Hiatt, cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, has sworn out a warrant for his arrest, charging him with obtaining money on false pretense. The investigation made by officials of this bank has already disclosed the fact that $460 worth of paper held by it is absolutely worthless.

Bowen's credit was considered excellent, and he had no difficulty in securing money. It was only when the paper matured, and Bowen was confronted with the certainty of exposure that he took safety in flight. Descriptions of Bowen have been sent to the police of other cities. Men who worked as salesmen for the Range & Implement company, which he organized, are being asked to identify the signatures to many of the notes, and some of them are already pronounced fraudulent.

CLAIMS THE TITLE OF MARRYING 'SQUIRE

The title and honor of being the "marrying 'squire" has long been in dispute among the three down town justices of the peace and now there is a fourth contestant in the person of Justice L. W. Carman, of the East End. It is not often that Justice Carman claims distinction for his deeds, but in this case he is certainly justifiable and must be heard. Because of his location in the East End it should not be taken for granted that the opportunities for tying nuptial knots are limited.

During the past 30 days Justice Carman has been called upon just 19 times to unite the lives and fortunes of young couples, and the end is not yet. He has been spoken to by several prospective grooms and before the week is out will officiate at other weddings. Last night he officiated for a well known widower who married a handsome young widow.

Justice Carman has served as justice for several years and has married couples of such tender ages that the consent of the parents was necessarry and couples who were old enough to know better. His office has been a veritable Gretna Green and he has earned a reputation of being as silent as the grave when the couple desired to escape publicity. Not one of the many knots has been untied or sought to be broken, a record that is truly wonderful. Most of the couples have settled in or near the East End and have prospered.

DEFENDANTS HAVE BEEN HARD TO LOCATE

Two Cases Set for Today Postponed Owing to Delay in Securing Service.

The two suits set for hearing this morning in the court of Justice L. W Carman were not taken up owing to the delay in one case of obtaining service and the failure to do so in the other. At the time the action was commenced in the case of William and Kate Might against P. R. Woolam, on a promissory note, amounting to about $28, the hearing was set a week in advance so that service could be had on the defendant. Constable Powell, to whom the papers were entrusted, searched for Woolam for several days, but failed to find him in the city. When he had about given up hopes of locating him he heard that he was in Wellsville and later found him there. It was too late, however, to permit of the hearing today.

Mack Marshall, who was made defendant by W. L. Bennett in a suit to recover a small grocery bill, has not been located and in consequence the hearing of the case has been postponed. The constable has searched the entire city for Marshall, but evidently he has disappeared. No person has been found who knows his whereabouts.

MRS. ALTER DELIGHTED A LARGE AUDIENCE

Mrs. Jeannette C. Alter, the missionary, delighted a large audience with her lecture at the Second U. P. church last night. Mrs. Alter talked of the humorous side of Indian life and related many amusing experiences of her work among the Warm Springs Indians of Oregon and the Sax and Foxes of Iowa. She also gave many interesting facts concerning the characteristics of the red men.

Miss Jeannette McConnell, in full Indian costume, assisted the lecturer and many thought the young lady a real Indian. She took the part nicely and even her closest friends failed to recognize her.

Those who attended the lecture will be interested to learn how Mrs. Alter was prevented from making a mistake that would have kept her from reaching the church in time. There was some confusion as to the date of her appearance here and at Calcutta, and Mrs. Alter had been told that she was to be at Calcutta last night. Arriving at the station she attempted to board a car for uptown, on her way to Calcutta, when D. Frank White recognized her and asked her destination. The necessary explanation followed and instead of going to Calcutta Mrs. Alter took a car for the East End, arriving just at the hour appointed.

"Johnson is neither a Democrat nor a Republican, therefore no Democrat or Republican should vote for him," says a Cleveland man who knows Johnson's weak points and tells them.

"Democratic references to what Mark Hanna did in 1896, with accompanying declarations that he can't do it again, are fatal admissions that it is the same old Democracy and the same old attack on national prosperity." In this sentence the Pittsburg Gazette sizes up the situation in a way that apeals to every voter.

Johnson's orders to drive Democrats off the ticket for the legislature in Lucas county have been obeyed, and now there are none but Jones nonpartisans to vote for, for senator or representative in Toledo. Where would Clarke come in should they be elected? They have repudiated the resolutions of the Johnson state convention to begin with and are not obligated to Clarke in any way.

Two years ago in a careful, studied argument, John H. Clarke answered absolutely every assertion in all the Tom Johnson talk about railroad taxation in Ohio. He showed that Johnson's statements were false as to fact by irrefutable evidence and baseless as to law, citing the unanswerable authority of the supreme court of the United States. Last year at a public meeting where Johnson made false statements about the railroads for which Clarke is general solicitor, Clarke had manhood enough to correct him then and there. In all these two years, however, Johnson has kept right on with the same false statements of fact and law. He makes them now on the same platform with Clarke. They are as false as ever, but Clarke says never a word. Nothing has changed but Clarke. What ails him?

JOHN DENNIN HELD FOR COURT

The hearing of John Dennin, better known as "Pittsburg Jack," who was arrested early Wednesday evening charged with having assaulted little 14-year-old Sadie Chloe Fishburn on the previous evening, was held at 6 o'clock last evening before Mayor Fogo, in the presence of a large crowd of interested listeners.

A number of witnesses had been called, among whom were Harry Rinestein, Mrs. Dennin, Andrew Fishburn, Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Mann and little Miss Fishburn, Dennin's victim.

The girl was the first witness examined. Her testimony, after identifying Dennin, was of a sensational order. She explained just how Dennin had approached her and how he had treated her up to the time that she cried for help.

The child said that she had first seen Dennin at the foot of the Wells Hollow hill, and at that time he was talking to Mrs. Andrew Freeman. He turned to her as she was passing and asked her if he could carry her basket of groceries for her, and she gave him no reply. As she was nearing the Adams home, where she was living, Dennin approached her coming up the hill, and after Dennin had laid his hands on her she screamed for help. Her cries were heard by Mrs. Adams, Ida Adams, Mrs. Mann, who resides in the neighborhood, and Harry Rinestein, who was working on the Adams farm.

Mrs. Mann at once ran to her door and saw a man run down over the hillside. She could not therefore identify Dennin as the man. She did not see the girl.

Harry Rinstein said that as soon as he heard the girl's screams he ran in the direction from where they came. He said that the child's cries were most pitiful. He had a good look at Dennin, but did not attempt to catch him.

Mr. Mann at about this time happened down the road with his horse and wagon. He asked the girl what was the matter, and, pointing to Dennin, who was disappearing over the hillside, she said: "I wish that you would kill that man." Dennin was gone, however, before Mr. Mann could make an effort to get him, and Rinestein was unable to find him.

According to the testimony given by Mrs. Dennin her husband arrived home at 5:30 in the evening, one hour after the assault. He had left the house at 8 o'clock in the morning to go to work. She said he remarked to her and to a neighbor, Mrs. Freeman, that the local authorities were after him and that he had better go in hiding. This all happened long before the warrant was sworn out.

Dennin had nothing to say other than to plead not guilty. The mayor bound Dennin over to court in the sum of $500.

Chief Houser said he simply told Denning that the mayor wished to see him and did not mention anything regarding the case. Dennin at once protested ,and said that he did not touch the girl, thereby almost confessing his guilt.

FOUR MEN AT WORK

A large gang of Italian laborers who are employed on the excavation of the pump pit for the new water works pumping station, and who have been working under the employment of the Duquesne Engineering company of Pittsburg, who have the contract for the work, have gone on strike for higher wages.

These men have been receiving $1.50 per day and claim that they were promised a raise of $1.75 per day. This amount they did not receive on the last pay day and now the men want either $1.75 per day and rubber boots for working in the pit, or $2 per day and they will furnish the boots themselves. The contractors will not give in to this demand, and as a consequence only four American laborers are now working on the excavation and the work is progressing very slowly. An effort is being made to secure men to fill the places of the Italians, but the contractors have been thus far unsuccessful.

A bowling contest which was scheduled to have been held last evening at the Arlington alleys, did not come off on account of the failure of the East Liverpool team to show up. It was to be a game among the junior bowlers, between Wellsville and East Liverpool teams. An effort will again be made to hold this contest next week.

The bowling alleys have been newly remodeled, the alleys planed and shelacked and new sets of pins installed and everything is now in good shape for the winter's sport, as all of the big contests are to be held at these alleys.

The old bowling team, composed of Messrs. Shingler, Hall, Harsha, Dennis, Aten and Karr will soon get together again and it is expected that a contest with the Imperial team of East Liverpool will be held here at an early date.

Foot Ball Gossip.

The Bruno, Jr., foot ball team, of this city, will go to Alliance Saturday morning, and on Saturday afternoon will do battle with one of the junior teams of that city with whom they have made satisfactory arrangements. Several of the younger enthusiasts of the city will accompany the team. An effort is being made by the management of the Wellsville Athletic association for a game to be played in East Liverpool tomorrow afternoon with the West End Rovers of that city, and if satisfactory arrangements are made the two teams will meet at the time stated.

Out in Indiana an electric railway system and the Clover Leaf steam railway are working together, instead of fighting each other. The traction company gathers up the crowds that fill up the railroad excursion trains. The alliance for the excursions is sent broadcast as a new step in transportation service. The tacit agreement between the two companies is a new step, but, in fact, the electric roads are all the time delivering to the steam roads much traffic, and steam railroad men in Indiana, admitting that the electric lines are taking practically all of the short-haul local business, say that the electric lines are largely responsible for a marvelous increase, not only in long-distance hauls, but also in the bulk of travel, and for doubling the patronage of excursions. The electric lines are growing in extent and importance all the time and the railroad company that seeks to put them out of business is pursuing a policy of ludicrous folly. Co-operation will be better for both, for both are here to stay.

"The most successful governments are those in which the average public servant possesses that variant of loyalty which we call patriotism, together with common sense and honesty. We can as little afford to tolerate a dishonest man in the public service as a coward in the army. The murderer takes a single life; the corruptionist in public life, whether he be bribe giver or bribe taker, strikes at the heart of the commonwealth." These are the words of President Roosevelt. Actions speak louder than words, and the president by his official acts is demonstrating that the above are his true sentiments.

The acquittal of Jim Tillman, while not unexpected, is a disgrace to the state he lives in. Had he been a negro he would probably have been lynched without ceremony. Certainly he would have been hanged. But because his skin happens to be white he goes unpunished, though he murdered a man in cold blood. Until the people of South Carolina adopt and act up to the principle that killing a man is as much a crime when an intelligent white man is the offender as when an ignorant negro transgresses the law, they cannot expect the rest of the world to have a high opinion of their civilization.

The state board of health of Ohio has adopted a regulation by which its secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 500 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day. It is a commendable and humane step, and the effort should be warmly seconded everywhere.

Ex-Senator Pettigrew, a name once familiar in congress and political circles, is colonizing Boers in Mexico. Mr. Pettigrew found so little to please him in his own country that his change of base might have been anticipated.

Uncle Joe Cannon says he would be willing to walk to Ohio to speak for Foraker. It won't be necessary. Let him arrange to come on. Transportation can be provided.

Grover Cleveland says it is the duty of every good citizen to interest himself in politics. True enough, but not in Grover's kind.

Russia and Japan each want to revise the map of Asia, but each prefers that the other should begin the work.

Bryan is going to speak at Woodsfield. What is the matter? Is Monroe county doubtful this year?

Senator Platt manages his love affairs with the same shrewdness that he has shown in politics.

We buy spices as carefully as we do drugs, and furnish the choicest grades at closest possible prices.

We have just received a new line of the celebrated Gilpin, Langdon & Co.'s high grade spices which are the finest to be had anywhere. AT THE THEATER

A radical departure will be made from repertoire usages by the Himmelein Ideals at the Grand next Wednesday night, when "The Sultan's Daughter," a screaming funny comedy, will be the offering. From time to which the memory of man runneth not it has been the custom of popular priced companies to present nothing but melodramas. This play will be found to be an agreeable deviation from the established custom. It is intended for laughing purposes only, and will furnish more good, clean, genuine fun and wholesome amusement than any three farce comedies of modern times.

The true heroism of women is often shown by their self-sacrifice and abnegation. Man, by his physical superiority, publicly displays his heroics leeds to greater advantage than the weaker sex, but it is to the latter that mankind must admit his inferiority. Nowhere is this phase of feminine self-sacrifice so strongly shown as in the beautiful, romantic play, "When the Bell Tolls," which will be produced at the Grand tonight. The plot is as uncommon as the title and scene succeeds scene in power and intensity. The comedy interwoven is of a high character and the auditor is held spellbound with the stirring situations.

The story of the Russian melodrama, "For Her Sake, which comes to the Grand Saturday night, leads the spectator through the lights and shadows of a life's journey whose ultimate destination is peace and happiness, but whose intermediary stages offer some thrilling scenes of trial and tribulation. There is one scene showing the road to Siberia which is said to be of intense human interest and thrilling effect. There is a ball room scene which is described as being a sumptuous and accurate reproduction of life among the Russion nobility. The piece throughout is handsomely staged and the company an adequate one.

"What form of government have we in the District of Columbia?"

The pupil hesitated an instant. Recalling that the district commissioners had been busy making addresses at the several commencements then in progress, she explained in true schoolgirl style:

"I'm so surprised to hear your wife likes the house so much; it's so small."

"Yes, but there are lots of closets in it."

Used the Whole Book.

"That count," said Miss Baltimore, "will never do for me. He is too wasteful and profligate in his habits."

"Why, what has he done now?" asked her friend.

NOTED SPECIALISTS IN THE CITY.

AT THOMPSON HOUSE TODAY AND TOMORROW, TWO DAYS.

To Introduce New System Will Give Consultation Free to All Patients.

The French-American association of Expert Specialists of New York city are now visiting a few of the principal cities of our state. To introduce their new system of curing disease they will give consultation, examination, advice and medicine free to all patients taking advantage of this offer DURING THIS VISIT.

Deafness cured by an entirely new system. No matter what your disease may be or of how long standing, the doctors will locate your disease without ASKING YOU ANY QUESTIONS. The DOCTOR is said to be the greatest Lung and Catarrh Specialist in America. If you have catarrh or lung trouble go and be examined. The sick and afflicted should take advantage of the opportunity offered here. They may never again have the privilege of consulting such skilled physicians so near their homes. Go and have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is curable, they will tell you so frankly; if incurable, they will give you such advice as to prolong life. No sick man or woman should fail to consult these eminent men. It is the greatest opportunity of the sick man's life.

If you have Rheumatism, Liver, Kidney or Bladder trouble, Paralysis, Heart Disease, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Epilepsy or St. Vitus' Dance, go and be cured by their new system.

Cancers, Tumors Strictures, Ulcers, all Blood Skin and Scalp diseases, Piles and Ruptures they guarantee to cure every case they accept as curable.

Every kind of human ill falls at the touch of these marvelous men, and so great and wonderful have been the cures that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between human accomplishment and miracle. It matters not what the ill may be; it matters not what discouraging reports may have been made from any direction; it matters not death stares you in the face. Go and consult these doctors and if there is the finest thread upon which to hang a hope you will find that hope there, and the hope will surely lead you to the blue skies of peace, contentment and health.

Thousands who have given up all hope of ever being cured have now the opportunity of a life time to consult doctors of a national reputation. Remember their knowledge of medicine combined with electricity gives them a control of disease that others do not possess. If you have weak eyes, if you are hard of hearing, if you are lame and cannot walk, this new system will cure you quickly.

If you suspect kidney trouble bring a two-ounce vial of urine for chemical and microscopic analysis.

Go early as their offices are always crowded. If you are improving under your family physician do not come and take up their valuable time. They wish to give each one plenty of time, but cannot listen to long stories not pertaining to your case. Idlers and curiosity seekers will please stay away; their time is valuable.

THESE DOCTORS are skilled specialists and will be found ready and willing to extend the hand of help, bring back health and happiness where now exists sickness and sorrow.

How Trees Are Like Human Beings.

Nature has many peculiar laws governing the organism of trees. One is that every individual twig, spray, all the foliage, every fiber, takes precisely its own thickness of wood from the parent stem. This same law is manifested in the proportions of the human organism. The length of the arms from finger tip to finger tip (arms extended) is the precise measurement of the length of the legs of a human being, and other measurements are the same in proportion.

MAKING COAL CARS

The Davis-Price Machine company, of New Cumberland, has recently equipped its factory with new and up-to-date machinery adapted especially for the manufacture of coal cars. It took a contract for 20 cars, to be built right away for the Verner Coal company, of Bulger, Pa., also a like contract for the Brilliant Coal company, of Brilliant, O. It has just completed and shipped out an order for 300 cars for the Pittsburg Block Coal company at Unionvale, O.

This factory employs quite a lot of skilled workmen in its several branches and runs almost night and day to meet its demands. This branch of the business but recently added, has called for quite a number of additional men. Pending the action of the city council it will, if given a permit, lay a siding into the factory that will be a great saving in the way of receiving and shipping.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Captured No Game.

A party composed of Watt Allison, Dick Simms, Poney Moore and Andrew Hutchinson visited the vicinity of Chester yesterday in search of game. They were all armed with shotguns and their object was to capture a groundhog for a sick friend. They scoured the country, and were energetic in their efforts, but failed to bag any of the coveted game. Their friends in Hancock county assert there is not a man in the crowd who could hit the side of a barn with any sort of a gun.

ON THE CEER FARM

The First of a Number of Test Wells Will Be Put Down.

The men interested in the development of a vast amount of oil territory in and about Chester have wound up the deal for the last of a number of leases, and active operations will begin at once.

John Webster and Albert McDonald were out in the territory this morning and located the first of a number of test wells on the farm of Bert Geer. The land under lease to the new oil and gas company covers a wide area and it will be several months before the tests are completed.

The company has closed a contract with a Mr. Hyte to do the drilling, and he will start within a few days on the Geer well. Messrs. Webster and McDonald authorized the drillers to begin work at soon as it is possible to get the apparatus on the ground.

Word was received in Chester yesterday that Earl Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Stewart, was very ill with pneumonia at the home of his aunt in Pittsburg. The mother of the boy left last evening for Pittsburg, and will remain until he recovers. Young Stewart has been in Pittsburg in the employ of the Westinghouse company for some time, and was attacked with the dread disease only a few days ago. His condition was reported as dangerous.

Bank Equipment.

The remainder of the books and stationery for the new First National bank of Chester were received by the officers this morning and the institution was able to begin the second day's business under the most favorable circumstances. The business of yesterday was very gratifying to the directors, and was even better than the officials had anticipated.

CHESTER NOTES.

The oil well which was being drilled on the Sam Stewart farm came in a duster yesterday.

John Marshall, who has been in the south for several weeks, returned to his home in Chester today.

Lawrence Baxter, who has been in the country for a week, has returned to his home on Adolphus street.

Mrs. James Chambers, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McCoy, has returned to her home at New Cumberland.

The first month's salary of the school teachers in Grant district is due and is being paid by Secretary A. G. Pugh, of the board of education.

An application will be made to the Chester council this evening by Beebout & Marquet for permission to erect a scale in the vicinity of the firm's new coal yard.

Judge Campbell, F. W. Stewart and Mark Miller were Chester visitors yesterday, attending the opening of the new bank.

The well drilled by Meldrum on the Stewart Brothers farm in Grant district came in a duster. A well will now be put down by the same party on G. A. Geer's farm.

The steamer John Moren, with a large dredge boat, is at the foot of Baker's Island, taking the coal out of the sunken barge there. The coal belongs to the new combine.

The Black Horse Works of the American Fire Clay company have shipped in the last three days 61 cars of brick. They are very nearly cleaned up of the entire summer's product.

The Marquet Coal company is not running near full time, owing to the scarcity of cars. It is prepared to mine and ship out about 20 cars per day, but the output has been very much decreased for the reason stated.

O. S. Marshall was over at Washington, Pa., looking up some titles and securing abstracts on some farms lying in Washington county, owing to the coal deal that has been pending with eastern parties and McElfresh & Cooper.

A number of citizens who have been following the stock markets in their gradual scaling down have been called upon very recently to duff up the cold cash to meet the slump in margins. It is said that several thousand dollars will not make some ambitious investors whole. One man said he had had enough and his next deal would be plain poker. He has some chance of getting to handle the cards occasionally in that game, but in the stock market the other fellow dealt all the time.

A Widespread Vanity.

In these days there seem to be as many writers as there are readers. The spread of authorship and its egregious pride is hit off in this dialogue from the Fliegende Blatter:

A guest at a hotel table reading the bill of fare says, "Your bill of fare is great!"

No Temptation.

Mrs. Farmer—Wouldn't you like to to do a little work just to see how it feels?

English Servants and Caste.

Between the two classes of upper and under servitors in England the line of demarcation is drawn with even greater sharpness than between those of master and mistress. Often for the meat course these two classes dine together in the servants' hall. When this is the case absolute silence is preserved during the time, as it is a point of honor with the upper class, composed of butler, lady's maid, groom of chambers, valet, housekeeper, etc., not to share household secrets with those below the salt, and also they have no mind to listen to the prattle of their inferiors. For subsequent courses the upper servants repair to the "housekeeper's room," where are spread relishes and desserts superior to those provided for the others, and conversation goes on unchecked. At the present day this "housekeeper's room" is the scene of regular late dinners, at which visiting servants, if of the "upper class," are present. At the servants' parties, in order to avoid confusion, it is customary for them to adopt the names of their masters, so that while real dukes and duchesses feast above stairs their duplicates or doubles masquerade below.

right to kill me; your wife and I have done nothing wrong, and she will tell you so. I have not wronged you in any way.' He got a shot gun; I did not notice where he got it. I was sort of backing away from him and got near or in the door from the kitchen to the sitting room. Clunk said: 'Lie down, ——— you, lie down,' and drew the gun up and fired.

"The charge struck me in the right groin. I did not fall when he shot me, but caught the door facing and held myself up by that. Mrs. Clunk asked her husband not to shoot. She screamed I believe, but not until after the shot was fired.

"I had been at Clunk's but a few minutes until Anthony shot me; I would say not more than about 20 minutes. Clunk said after he shot me that he did not intend to do it, but it looked as though he did, for he drew the gun up rather deliberately. He said that it was an accident.

"As soon as Clunk got the gun and was getting ready to shoot, Mrs. Clunk ran into another room and hid; at least, was out of sight. After I was shot, I dragged myself out onto the porch and laid there until the men carried me down home. I had no conversation with Mrs. Clunk after I was shot and none with Anthony Clunk, except what I stated above, and I said to him that it was awful for him to shoot me.

"The foregoing statement is made by me believing that I am about to die from the aforesaid wound, and said statement was written by L. T. Farr at my request.

"FRANK P. NUZUM,
"His X Mark.

"[Attest.] G. H. Albright, Stella Hoffie."

At the time the statement was made Nuzum was too weak to sign his name.

The state rested its case after the introduction of Nuzum's dying declaration and the examination of witness for the defense commenced. W. S. Potts and Judge Firestone, both of Lisbon, were introduced as character witnesses for Clunk.

Charles McCord, who was a witness for the prosecution yesterday, was called by the defense and said that as he passed close to the open door of Clunk's home the morning of the shooting he saw a half emptied glass of whisky on the kitchen table.

Kim Hawkins was also recalled and said that when he arrived at the Clunk home soon after the shooting and found Nuzum lying on the porch Nuzum said to him: "I ought not to have been here, but Tony ought not to have shot me."

John Dowler, a near neighbor of Clunk, heard the shot on the morning of May 20 and hastened to investigate. He met Clunk coming out on his way to Reynolds', his nearest neighbor, to call a doctor. Clunk told him what he had done and why, saying: "I expect they'll hang me for it, but I had to do it."

Dowler said that Clunk appeared much worried and excited. The witness went to Clunk's house and found Nuzum lying on the floor of the kitchen. He could not see the wound and fearing that Nuzum might be in danger of bleeding to death before the doctor came, went down town for assistance. Returning with Kim Hawkins he found that Nuzum had crawled out onto the porch, where they placed under his head a pillow which Mrs. Clunk brought out. Nuzum remarked that it was "——— hot inside." Clunk returned then and Nuzum held up his hand to him, saying: "Tony, shake; I had no business here, but you ought not to have shot me."

Clunk replied that he could not help it. The witness said he had known Clunk for 20 years and said he would contribute with others to a fund for Clunk's defense.

Court opened promptly at 9 a. m. today and the examination of witnesses for the defense was resumed. Rather slow progress was made and it is clear that the case will not reach the jury before tomorrow or Monday.

Joseph W. Reynolds was called and was questioned as to Nuzum's religion or lack of it, and said he had heard Nuzum call the Elkton M. E. church "Hell's Half Acre" and heard him say all the trouble in Elkton started from it. He further said that he had seen Nuzum several times after the shooting and that he seemed to be somewhat delirious at times, after the doctor's had commenced to give him morphine. The witness said Clunk had a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen and that Nuzum was honest but very profane.

Mrs. Nancy Adams said she had heard Nuzum say with reference to the Creator that he did not care for Him and he would do as he pleased. He called church members hypocrites.

W. F. Kemble, a Lisbon gunsmith, who extracted the charge from the left barrel of Clunk's shot gun at Sheriff Leonard's request, testified to that fact. He said a light pressure on the hammer of the right barrel, the one fired by Clunk, would send the hammer down without any pressure on the trigger. The spring was very weak but it required some force to raise the hammer.

Mi-o-na Makes Thin People Fat—Will Reed Will Return Money If It Fails.

Everyone needs real nourishment; then comes good health, strength and endurance. Without it, you waste away. Nearly every one eats food enough to furnish the necessary nourishment for the perfect support of life, but the food is not assimilated and there follows indigestion, weakness and emaciation.

A few days' use of Mi-o-na, the wonderful flesh-forming food, will demonstrate its power to furnish real nourishment and restore health. Mi-o-na mingles with the food you eat, aids assimilation, tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and puts the whole system into proper physical condition.

By its use, the elements needed to increase flesh are assimilated from the daily food and each week will show a noticeable gain in weight.

Will Reed knows personally of many cases of long standing stomach troubles, some of them very bad, that were entirely cured with Mi-o-na. The thin and scrawny have used this preparation and by its aid have gained real nourishment.

Will Reed feels that he can honestly recommend Mi-o-na and as an evidence of his faith in the merit of the article, offers to sell it with the distinct understanding that the money is to be refunded in every case where it fails to do all that is claimed for it. You risk nothing in buying Mi-o-na, and if it gives the desired health, the cost is trifling, only 50 cents a box. If it fails, Will Reed will pay for the remedy himself.

WILL GIVE GUARANTEE BOND

Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food and cure for dyspepsia, has won immense popularity by the unusual way in which it is sold.

GUARANTEE BOND.

I hereby agree to refund the price paid for Mi-o-na if the purchaser tells me that it has not increased flesh and given freedom from stomach troubles. WILL REED.

This guarantee bond is plain and simple and it positively assures you that when you commence the Mi-o-na treatment you run absolutely no risk. You simply deposit 50 cents for a box of this flesh-forming food with Will Reed and if after using it you do not feel that you have been benefited, you go back to his store and he will return your money without any question or argument.

It is a true flesh-forming food combined with elements that regulate the digestive organs and remove congestion and irritation from the stomach, liver and intestines. Mi-o-na will restore firm, healthy flesh, fill in the outlines, and give a pleasing plumpness and symmetry.

The discovery of Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food that builds up good, healthy, solid flesh and makes thinness and scrawniness a thing of the past, has revolutionized medical practice in certain lines.

Its power to do all that is claimed for it was so clearly proven to Will Reed that he has sold Mi-o-na with the understanding that if it fails the purchase price will be refunded.

Will Reed certainly exhibited courage in taking up this method of selling Mi-o-na, but the results have fully proven his judgment that the Mi-o-na treatment for stomach troubles, emaciation, general weakness and run down condition is the only efficacious and reliable cure.

Mi-o-na possesses healing and soothing qualities that make it especially valuable in cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia. Two or three tablets taken each day in connection with the regular food prove it a true flesh-former.

All that many a woman lacks to be positively pretty is a little more flesh on her face. To look haggard or not fat is never becoming. The use of Mi-o-na will cure this defect.

With every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na that Will Reed sells, he will give a written guarantee to refund the money if it does not give an increase in flesh and restore strength. What a trifling cost this is if it makes you well; if it fails, the expense is absolutely nothing.

Safety Board's Ruling to the Contrary Causes Censure Among Lovers of Sport.

The action of the board of public safety in refusing to permit policemen, in uniform and while on duty, to attend athletic contests at West End park, is meeting with condemnation from lovers of sports. The interurban high school contest, played Wednesday, was delayed at least an hour because of the absence of a policeman, the crowd swarming onto the field despite the protests of the players and the officials. Had there been one policeman present the crowd could have been held in check.

"These out of door games, that provide healthy exercise and innocent amusement for so many people, should be encouraged," said a prominent citizen who witnessed the game, to a News Review reporter. "The action of the board will do much to discourage it, I'm afraid, as the people will not care to go to the park when the spectators are permitted to crowd upon the field. The delays are most annoying and then one has to join the crowd to see the plays. One member of the board used to play foot ball and I'm surprised that he would deal such a blow to the sport. Had he seen the last game, I'm sure he would alter his decision and send two policemen down to keep the crowds in check."

Having defeated Wellsville in two games the East Liverpool high school eleven will seek other fields to conquer. Captain Geon is now trying to arrange a game for Saturday week with the Lisbon high school eleven, and should he be successful it will prove a gala day for the high school. The eleven will make the trip overland, starting from this city some time during the morning and returning after the game. A large party of rooters will accompany them.

Captain Geon will probably ask that the Lisbon eleven post a forfeit as a guarantee that none but bona fide members of the high school are to play in the game. There is not a ringer on his team and he wants to keep the sport clean, so that a victory will be worth rejoicing over and a defeat not disgraceful.

EXCITING MATCH AT BOWLING

Two Local Teams Played an Interesting Series on Williams-McDonald Alleys.

Another interesting bowling match was played on the Williams-McDonald alleys last evening, the competing teams being under the captaincy of Woods and Kearns. The Woods aggregation won two out of the three games. The individual scores follow:

A great deal of dissatisfaction has been expressed among certain citizens within the past few days at the neglect of some of the city officials in allowing the Diamond fountain to remain out of order. The men who had formerly attended to the pumping apparatus have been refused the sanction of certain of the officials, and for that reason it has been impossible to make some slight repairs. Thus one of the most universally patronized public conveniences is denied the citizens, all because of the red tape of the new code, too rigidly observed by municipal officers. A prominent business man said this morning:

"East Liverpool has fewer public institutions than any city of like size in the country. Our Diamond pump is one of these, and it is a shame that our people are denied the privilege of patronizing it. The older citizens can remember that the fountain was maintained for a good many years by the business men and merchants, and through their efforts was made a blessing to our own people and visitors to the city as well. When the city took up the task of caring for the pump the matter was turned over to the firemen, and they have performed their task well and faithfully. The apparatus became useless a few days ago by reason of some slight break, and the usual plan was followed out in the matter of making repairs. No trouble has ever been encountered in having bills for supplies honored by the authorities. Imagine the surprise of the firemen when they sought to obtain authority to proceed with the repairs in learning that there was not an official or board in the makeup of the city administration who would assume the responsibility of authorizing an expenditure, however small. Fireman Rose made application to one source and was referred to another department, and so on until he had made the rounds without succeeding in accomplishing the desired end. Now, red tape is all right in the army, and it is not out of place in several municipal departments, but I think this is going too far.

"Thousands of citizens had been accustomed to drinking the water many times a day. Many of them imbibed the water as a tonic, owing to the peculiar qualities of the liquid, while others have become so accustomed to the beverage that they find it extremely hard to do without it. For the sake of these people and in order to avoid being made the laughing stock of sensible men, let some one of the departments take up the matter and order the pump started."

Columbus, October 16.—(Special.)—The Ohio man at the present time, like the Ohio fall campaign, is a sort of a national issue, according to reports just filed in this city. He manifests his beneficial activity in all walks of life, including the political arena. Why Ohio is such a nation power is shown by the appended report which indicates that there are over 1,000,000 native born Ohioans in other states throughout the union. Only in South Carolina and Maine is the number of Ohioans so few that these states have been placed in the scattering list. The table follows:

Good Resolution Adopted.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—The state board of health adopted a resolution by which their secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 600 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of the health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Belleville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

I consulted my family doctor and he prescribed for me, but still I could not sleep. A friend advised me to take Paine's Celery Compound. ELOPING WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

The culmination of the eloping of John M. Stone and Miss Mattie Reeves, two prominent residents of Parkersburg, who stopped in this city for two days and nights, making themselves quite conspicuous during their visit, the particulars of which were exclusively published in the News Review, has caused one of the greatest sensations Parkersburg people have ever experienced. Miss Reeves lies a suicide in Salt Lake City, Utah. Stone has returned to his home and is now suffering the scorn and contempt of his every acquaintance, all of whom at one time held him only in the highest esteem.

The pair, after leaving East Liverpool, evidently headed immediately for Salt Lake City. After living there as man and wife for a few weeks, under the name of Stout. Stone deserted the woman after a violent quarrel, without giving her the least idea of where he was going. Worry over her desertion and other conditions caused the poor woman to take her own life. After leaving the woman, Stone nerved himself and returned to Parkersburg, where he left a wife and several small children.

The story of the tragedy at Salt Lake City is given in a dispatch to a Parkersburg paper and shows that the couple lived together under assumed names:

"Fearful lest her husband had deserted her, Mrs. Mattie J. Stout, living at 151 East Tenth street, committed suicide last night by taking carbolic acid. For a time it was thought that the woman would recover, but she passed away at the Holy Cross hospital shortly before noon, despite the efforts of the doctors to make it otherwise. There is an air of mystery surrounding the whole thing. The Stouts, it appears, came here about a month ago, moving into a neat little cottage at the address given. The house was comfortably furnished and the husband and wife seemed to be much devoted to each other.

"Saturday morning Mr. Stout, who is said to be about 45 years of age, left the city, stating to his wife, according to her story, that he was about to look afer some mining propery. That evening, it is said, Mrs. Stout was seen at one of the depots in search of him. She is also stated to have told that her husband, prior to his departure, had written her a letter, in which he said that he loved her, but that he had left her for another woman. These stories, however, are so contradictory, that little credit can be given either of them.

"Sunday night Mrs. Stout went to the police station and told the officers that her husband had deserted her and had taken all her money, amounting to $5,000. Refusing to go home unless accompanied by an officer, she was taken home, stating on the way, that she intended to commit suicide. This she did later on by swallowing carbolic acid. The note left by her read:

"'I must tell you, Mr. Stout has left me with all the money I had. He has taken all I have. He has left me alone. Write to me about Mr. Stout. I am taking carbolic acid and will die tonight. I will give this world up forever.

"There were also found in the house a large number of letters, some of them addressed to Mrs. Mattie Stout and others to Miss Mattie Reeves at Rutherford, W. Va. These were in the nature of love letters and were signed by James Stone. Stout bought twelve thousand dollars worth of real estate lately."

Stout told a Parkersburg reporter in the course of an interview, during which he wept like a child, that he had returned to the scenes of his former success and expected to become a man among men. It was evident from his conversation that he had decided to turn the course of his life and would do all he could to repair the damage he had done to his trusting relatives and friends. He denied emphatically that he went away with Mattie Reeves, alias Miller, and branded as false all that had been said about him having gone with any woman. He arrived Tuesday and was much broken physically and in spirits.

A later dispatch says that Mrs. Stout, when she killed herself, had nearly $600 in cash in her trunk. She was 22 years old and a strikingly beautiful woman. The body is unclaimed.

The Most Overwhelming Defeat Ever Administered There to Any Candidate of Any Party in Any Election—Why Not Heed the People Interested?

The initiative and the referendum are doctrines of the Johnson Democracy approved in his platform and borrowed from the Socialists. It has been exploited as an essential element in the Johnson "home rule" program, about which he makes such an everlasting outcry. If either of these innovations is to amount to anything in practice, there needs to be acceptance of the verdict of the people at the polls by all parties to any controversy.

The referendum has recently had a trial in the second county in this state in a matter wherein the initiative has largely been promoted by the campaign zeal and activity of one Tom L. Johnson. This gentleman is mayor of Cleveland, Cuyahoga county. He seems to have in some way or other obtained the impression that it devolved upon him to look after the welfare of all the other cities and counties in the state of Ohio. Advocating what he calls "home rule" every day in the week, every hour in the day, even snoring "home rule," he persists in pushing upon other counties his own notions in regard to their affairs. This led to the referendum vote mentioned. This was taken last Novmeber at Cincinnati, Hamilton county; about as big as Mayor Johnson's own city and quite able to take care of itself.

The question in issue was one concerning the street railroad system of Cincinnati. The people there had received a number of valuable improvements in their street car service in recent years as a direct consideration for an extension of the franchise period granted to the local company. It was found that the state law authorizing this extension was invalid because it was a special act, but the Cincinnati people having value received according to their bargain and being honest men, stood ready to make good their agreement. Accordingly the Ohio legislature enacted the curative act so-called, for the purpose of protecting the contract mutually entered into. Mr. Johnson has taken it upon himself to attack this act. In fact he is trying to capture the political control of the entire state upon this purely local question. Being mayor of Cleveland and this being a Cincinnati matter, as he always puts it, the "home rule" is somewhat absurd that makes his decision about it final as to the whole state.

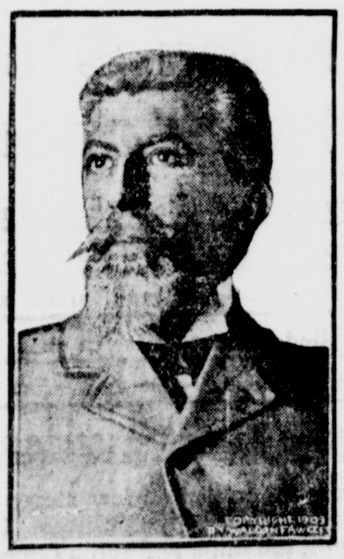

Particularly is this true, since the people of Cincinnati have themselves voted upon the question. Mr. Johnson exercised his initiative whether he had any right to do so or not. He nominated the Cincinnati man at the head of his state ticket last year and both of them campaigned in Cincinnati upon this matter. The referendum resulted in the defeat of Johnson's man on Johnson's platform by the people of Cincinnati with 24,000 majority against him, the most overwhelming defeat ever administered there to any candidate of any party at any time. That was the "home rule" verdict on the curative act. Every time that Johnson has opened his mouth about it since, it has been in flagrant defiance of his own "home rule."

"EL MOCHO," DIPLOMAT.

General Jose Manuel Hernandez, who, as minister plenipotentiary, will re-establish the Venezuelan legation at Washington, is called by his countrymen "El Mocho" ("The Maimed"). The nickname is a term of endearment and indicates the popularity of the battle scarred veteran, who in thirty-three years has fought in over a dozen rebellions, sometimes for, sometimes against the government. It was in one of these rebellions, in a battle at Ciudad Bolivar, that one of his fingers and part of another on the right hand were shot away; hence the nickname.

first under fire in 1868, when he took part in the revolution which overthrew General Falcon. He fought against Guzman Blanco and was sent several times to prison.

Some years later he was in the United States, where he remained, studying and traveling, until 1896. Returning to Venezuela he became in 1897 the candidate of the Conservative party for president. The government declared his opponent, Andrade, elected. Hernandez appealed to the supreme court and was thrown into prison by Crespo. He was released in February, 1898, and in ten days had raised an army and led a revolt against Crespo, who was slain in battle.

In October, 1899, General Hernandez started a revolt against General Castro. After many battles he was defeated and imprisoned. He was in and out of prison several times until Dec. 12, 1902, when he was released upon his declaration of a desire to aid his country in the troubles which threatened with England and Germany. Appreciation of this action of the old warrior and revolutionist was shown by his appointment as minister to the United States.

Railroaders Resisted Two-Cent Fares For Fear of Wages.

Never has there been any partisanship about the two-cent fare bills. They have been introduced in the legislature and supported by members of both parties, and opposed regardless of party lines. The railroad labor organizations have come up against them every time and have caused their defeat. Johnson is playing with fire when he makes a party question out of this matter.

As for Clarke's sudden conversion to the cause, what has he ever done for it as general counsel for a big railroad, where his advice might help it? If he believed in it, why did his nearest friend vote against it in the legislature? W. F. Maag, the Mahoning county Democratic member of the house, was a member of the committee on railroads and telegraphs, which smothered these bills. On a test vote in the house April 28, 1902, Mr. Maag voted against even considering a two-cent fare bill. That showed where he stood. Maag is so close to Clarke that he refused a re-nomination until after Johnson nominated Clarke, making the race now only on Clarke's account.

Another case showing how Democrats stood on this question was that of the Franklin county Democratic delegation. Representative Bracken tried to get such a bill through, and was refused a renomination. Senator Thompson and Representative McNamee helped to defeat it, and were renominated. Johnson hopes for their re-election, too, just as at Youngstown in his speech he specially praised Maag and ignored the other Democratic candidate for representative. This is consistency in chunks.

Cold Comfort.

Fussy Passenger—Why does your company insist that passengers must purchase tickets before entering the train? Are they afraid if we pay money to you that you will steal it?

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

SOLDIERS SCORNED.

"I have no use for the soldier anyway," was Tom L. Johnson's response to Mrs. Isabella Alexander of Cleveland, at that time senior vice president of the Woman's National Auxiliary of Spanish War Veterans' now president general. This characteristic speech was made by him on April 22, 1902, when the lady asked him if he surely would be present as his secretary had promised to make the address of welcome as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet to be given the next evening in honor of the returning Cleveland veterans from the war in the Philippines. At that time medals were presented to 289 soldiers who fought for their country in the Orient. When Mrs. Alexander asked Mayor Johnson to deliver the address of welcome, he said he did not want to have anything to do with the affair. She said she thought it was his place to welcome the city's returning soldiers, especially as his name had been printed on the program and it would be too late to make the change. It was then that Mayor Johnson cut off all further discussion by saying: "Well, you can have any one of my directors, but I won't be there, because you know I have no use for the soldier anyway."

"I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags." This was another speech by Mayor Johnson of the same sort. He made it to Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 268, Grand Army of the Republic, who resided then at No. 22 Orchard place, Cleveland. Mr. Allen was out with a subscription paper to raise funds for a new flag for their post. When he called on Mayor Johnson and handed him the subscription paper, he threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor, with the speech that we have quoted.

Something may have suddenly angered Mr. Johnson on both of these occasions, but it is a strange coincidence that in each case his wrath should spend itself upon the soldiers of the nation.

Another instance of the kind with no spite shown by him in connection with it occurred in 1901, when the G. A. R. men asked him for a contribution toward defraying the expenses at the Grand Army national encampment held in Cleveland that year. In this case the multi-millionaire mayor of Cleveland did not contribute, a single cent and was about the only man with any prominence in Cleveland who failed to give to the fund.

Another explanation for these things is current among the soldiers both of the Union army and of the Spanish-American war. That is that Mayor Johnson is not friendly to the boys who wore the blue. Their evidence of it is in the fact that not once since he has been mayor has he complied with the custom by which the chief magistrate of the city has reviewed the Memorial day parade of the soldiers and their friends. In 1901, right after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York city on Memorial day. In 1902 and 1903 he declined to review the parade, although on the latter occasion he sat in his red devil on Wood street instead of in the reviewing stand in front of the city hall.

The soldiers in Cleveland of both the wars do not forget these slights and wrongs put upon them by Mayor Johnson. They naturally expect their comrades throughout the state to treat him as he deserves for such detestable conduct toward the defenders of the flag.

CLEMENS WRITES A LETTER.

New York, Oct. 16. — Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) has written a letter to the Woman's Municipal league on the subject of the coming election, in which he says:

"I should think that any humane and honest person would rather be convicted of one robbery and one murder than become a cold and deliberate confederate in wholesale robbery and wholesale murder by voting a Tammany ticket.

"Certainly, if anything is proven up to the hilt, Tammany's financial history and health statistics of 1901 prove that Tammany's especial and remorseless trade is wholesale pillage and wholesale destruction of health and life."

Boris Sarafoff Reported Killed.

Salonica, Oct. 16.—The military operations in Macedonia are slackening, although there are occasional reports of fighting at various points. Instructions have been received to cease making Salonica the base of operations against the insurgents and the orders to send more Anatolian troops to Salonica have been countermanded. A large insurgent band was dispersed Oct. 13, near Marhovu, after eight hours' skirmishing. The Turks lost 40 killed and wounded, while the losses of the insurgents reached 250. Circumstantial reports have been received here that Boris Sarafoff was killed Oct. 12, in a skirmish at Pruva, near Florina.

Relief Fund for Flood Sufferers.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 16.—The relief fund for the sufferers from the recent flood in this city now amounts to about $10,000. It will be used in supplying clothing and household effects for the persons who are most in need. A bill is to be introduced in the special session of the legislature, now in session at Trenton, to authorize Paterson to issue bonds to the amount of $300,000, the money to be used in repairing public bridges and highways and other damage caused by the floods.

Dr. Taft Reported Dying.

No land will be sold for taxes under the Tom Johnson-Henry George plan. The scheme is to make the single land tax high enough to begin with to take the land outright for the state without any sale about it.

Toledo Jones goes away ahead of Tom Johnson on street car fares. He wants free fares, just like riding in an elevator, and the people to pay the bills out of the taxes.

"The two-cent fare or walk," says Johnson's personal newspaper organ in Cleveland. It would certainly do away with all manner of excursion rates, and the trains that carry thousands every week in Ohio for a cent a mile or less would be taken off. What gain would there be in that for the multitudes who now ride much cheaper than two cents a mile?

What did Bryan mean at Napoleon when he said: "My friends, I wish that Mr. Clarke agreed with every plank in both these platforms?" Doesn't that mean trouble for Clarke on the senatorship should the Democrats get the legislature, and the Silverites or the Jones men should hold the balance of power? Isn't it a hint that Clarke is good enough to do the talking and capture what voters he can, but needn't expect to be elected senator?

LORENZO PEROSI.

Among the notable deeds of Pope Pius X. was his discovery some years ago of a rare musical genius among the priests of Venice. Lorenzo Perosi sprang into fame in 1899 and was hailed as "the Wagner of church music." His "Resurrection of Christ," the fourth of his oratorios, was heard at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in 1899 and had already delighted the critical audiences of the continent.

Perosi was born at Fortuna in 1872. He inherited musical talent and as a youth won distinction as a pianist, organist and composer. His own preferences led him to the priesthood, and he put aside a musical professorship to assume the ecclesiastical habit at Venice.

Cardinal Sarto interested himself in the priest-composer and when he had produced his first oratorio, "The Passion of Christ," launched him among the music lovers of Venice as a new star in the firmament of song. Perosi is small of stature and insignificant in appearance except when inspired by music. As a conductor he becomes very excited and is more acceptable to the audience in that role than to the musicians he leads.

Mouth Filling Microscopy.

"Microscopist" is usually pronounced mi-cros-co-pist, is a horror of articulation, besides concealing the plain meaning and derivation of the word. But if we first say "micro" and then "scopist," taking care to place the stress on the first syllable, we get easiness, pleasantness and common sense. There are hosts of others, but none quite so terrible as "microscopist" as it is commonly pronounced or tried to be pronounced, for it reigns in a sort of pinched, rheumatic, splendid isolation, "high on a throne of royal state, by merit raised to that bad eminence."—Verax in London News.

Why He Carries a Cane.

"You see, carrying a stick is not only very proper, but it is also a very useful accomplishment. Why, don't you know, a man who always carries a stick never loses an umbrella. By carrying a cane I get so accustomed to having something in my hand that if I start away without it I miss it before I have gone half a dozen steps. Now, when I carry my umbrella it is just the same. There is nothing like habit. Try it, and you will never lose an umbrella."

The Ubiquitous Mosquito.

The mosquito wanders pretty much all over the world, and is found from the tropics to Lapland, where it is also a great pest. So numerous are mosquitoes in some localities in South America that the wretched inhabitants sleep with their bodies covered over with sand three or four inches deep, the head only being left out, which they cover with a handkerchief. Even thick clothes afford at best a very partial protection, being readily penetrated by the proboscis.

TO PLAY LOVEY MARY.

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, who will play the part of Lovey Mary in the forthcoming production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is one of the best known of the younger actresses on the American stage. When but three years old she made her debut in "Blue Jeans" and since that time has developed from the sweetest of child actresses into a young woman whose knowledge and mastery of her art presage for her a future of brilliant success.

Miss Taliaferro has appeared in many plays. She made a decided hit in Zangwill's "The Children of the Ghetto," and in London a critic epitomized her as "a Duse in temperament and a Maude Adams in appearance." In this dismal play, in which she was the one bright spot, Miss Taliaferro enacted the role of the little mother-sister with a grace and sympathy that endeared her to the hearts of her audiences.

When but thirteen years old she received a salary of $75 a week. Among the plays in which she has appeared are "The Prince of Peace," "Patent Applied For," "Killarney," "Mavourneen," "Fair Virginia," "The Ensign," "Human Hearts," "Minstrel Claire," "Sweet Inniscarra," "The Silver King," "The Banker's Daughter," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Lost River" and "A Ride For Life." She has played Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and as a member of the old Lyceum theater stock company in New York played all the children's parts in its repertory.

Of Miss Taliaferro the late James A Herne once said, "She is the greatest child actress in the world," and other high estimates of her ability in the past as well as the present are numerous.

Three years ago Miss Taliaferro left the stage temporarily through the advice of her manager, George Tyler, to go to school in Massachusetts. Mr. Tyler believed that "infant prodigies grow up to be mediocre if their talents are continually forced," and it is the belief of those who have watched Miss Taliaferro's development that her short cessation from stage work has been of decided benefit to her in many ways, and they confidently expect to see her make the "hit of her life" as Lovey Mary.

Columbus, October 16.—Laden with small fish by the thousand, the only piece of railway rolling stock owned by the state of Ohio is now out on its annual mission. There is but a brief season in each year when the car is called into service, but its work is important. Baby bass, cat fish and croppies are the passengers who ride at the state's expense, destined to be placed in the various streams that the finny tribes may not become extinct.

Harrying over the state goes the "Buckeye," for so is the fish car named. Haste is necessary, as the cargo is perishable, and there is a keen anxiety to get it properly disposed of. The results of the work are not immediate, but within a few years—from two to four—there will be many a fine catch from the fry that is just now being placed in favored nooks. Gamey fish are the kind propagated, those of value as food. The sportsman enters into the plan with enthusiasm, while he who uses a net secretly at night thinks of the good times coming.

The work of distribution is all planned from the office of the state commission at Columbus. Applications have been sent in by person who desire to stock certain streams, the kind of fish wanted being designated, together with the name of the waters in which it is proposed to plant them. The route for the car to traverse in making the distribution is then prepared. Explicit instructions are sent to applicants, telling just what must be done to receive the fish. The state keeps its part of the agreement and woe to the man who does not keep his.

All the applications received this year with two exceptions will be filled. In those instances the points are so remote from the route of the car that it would not be possible to successfully forward the fish. The commission endeavors to keep within the appropriation made by the state so that expenses must be kept to a minimum.

No private waters are stocked. Applications are plenty from clubs and people controlling ponds, but they are denied. Only public waters, is the motto.

When a station is reached where a consignment is to be delivered Colonel Porterfield quickly locates the persons who are to place the fish. The transfer is quickly made, the fry being poured from the state cans into those brought by the recipient for the purpose. It takes but a moment to empty a can. Then as the car goes on its way the fish left behind are at once loaded into wagons and hauled to the stream. There in the spot chosen the cans are emptied and the little fish begin to shift for themselves. Deep holes are selected, so that winter may cause no bad results. There are other enemies than mankind to be avoided, but nature makes the fish wary and they care for themselves.

In rare instances the chief warden is able personally to supervise the planting. An occasional accommodating railway official is encountered who, when there is time, attaches an engine to the car and takes it to the stream, where the transfer to the water is made direct from the state tanks.

On part of the trips Colonel Porterfield has with him the superintendent of the state hatchery, George Morcher, whose experience in the care of fish makes him valuable on the car.

The car is an object of unending curiosity during its travels and rarely does it stop but that it is besieged with visitors. It is the dyed-in-the-wool fisherman who fully appreciates the work. He looks at the great schools in the tanks and grows enthusiastic. The seiners and netters are "toasted" and predictions made about the future of "Red creek" when the little fellows attain maturity. The sportsmen give way to a party of ladies, who look and admire, and ask innumerable questions. Then come the children, anxious to see what many of them cannot understand. One little fellow lingered long under the impression that the car was the abiding place of a theatrical troupe. His disgust was apparent when he was enlightened.

Many of the visitors come aboard with the evident idea that they are to see a display of whales. Frequent requests are made for a sight of the big fish. But they are disappointed, for the car carries only the small fry. A standing joke on the car is to point out the "land sturgeon" which find their way occasional into the tanks. Interest is quickly aroused in the uninitiated, but it is lost when the "sturgeon" is recognized as a common, though well-fed tad-pole.

The crew this year is composed of three persons, Col. J. C. Porterfield, the chief warden, who is in charge; William Buck, the attendant, and Seymour Gibbs, the chef. The latter has accompanied the car on all its tours for the past six or seven years. He is thoroughly familiar with the work and an invaluable aid to Col. Porterfield. With the limited force carried there is work for all, and frequently it is quick work.

The fish are scooped from the tanks with a small net and placed in cans just before a delivery is to be made, from one to three and four thousand being placed in each receptacle. When the train stops there is a great hurry to locate the men who are to receive the fish, to transfer the fry from the state cans, to reload and be ready to move with the train.

The care of the fish is an important duty. Constant attention must be given. The temperature of the water in the tanks is watched and if it goes up ice is resorted to. The air pump is also used to keep the water in good condition. At any long stops the tanks are thrown open and kept so until the train is ready to move. Despite the utmost caution a small per cent are lost.

In this connection a strange state of affairs is revealed. It is a well known fact that "the big fish eat up the little ones," but in the tanks where few are to be found more than an inch or two long it would be supposed that all would be safe. But numerous instances are found of little fellows trying to swallow others as large as themselves, or nearly so. The result in such cases is fatal to both, one being killed and the other choked by the one it tried to eat.

The state maintains the fish hatchery near London and there each year an increasing number of small fish are raised. It is the rule that a commonwealth does not appreciate the value of the fish in the streams until they are gone. That is not quite true in Ohio, but from the amount of illegal fishing in many sections it is certain that a considerable number of the population either do not appreciate the effects of their nefarious work, or do not care. Despite these discouraging conditions the work of stocking the streams goes on, and with it an effort to secure proper observation of the laws.

Only natural methods of propagation are followed. Carefully tended, the small fry grow until fall, when they are ready to be transported to the streams. It is impossible to count their number, but the most reliable estimate places this year's production at a half million. These are now being distributed. Half have already found homes in the clear waters of streams far and near, and before the week is ended the work will be completed for the year.

Experience demonstrated that only by having a car suitably equipped could the small fish be transported over the state. The need is supplied by the "Buckeye," purchased some eight years ago. It stands untenanted in a shed at London during 11 months of the year, but the work done the twelfth month fully pays for its keep. It is not a luxurious car, nor is there extravagance aboard it. It is arranged for work only. It has accommodations for the working force, but there is no inclination to prolong the work for the sake of living on the car. It is quickly deserted at the end of its trips.

The general lines of the car are those of an ordinary day coach, from which in fact it was remodeled. At one end is a snug little office where Colonel J. C. Porterfield, the chief fish and game warden, holds forth and directs the work of distribution. In the other end is a well equipped kitchen. The middle section is given up to the fish tanks below, above being the berths for the crew. There are accommodations for only five persons, so that the tours not only do not, but cannot assume the form of a junket. The meals served are plain and substantial without frills.

From place to place the car journeys, traveling over many railroads, with a fixed route and purpose, until the work mapped out is completed. Then the "Buckeye" is returned to its quarters and the chief warden takes up the work of protecting the streams, in the hope that they may again be filled with the finny tribe.

ROMANTIC COURTSHIP ENDS IN MARRIAGE

Rev. George W. Way Weds the Woman Whom He First Saw in a Vision Months Ago.

Wheeling, October 16.—Rev. George W. Way, the idol and medium of the local Spiritualists, was married yesterday to the girl whose face he saw in a prophetic vision before ever he had seen her in person or become acquainted with her. The young woman is Miss Mamie S. Helling, the daughter of a wealthy farmer residing near Martin's Ferry.

The marriage is the culmination of a romantic courtship beginning with the day Rev. Mr. Way first met Miss Helling, being a case of love at first sight, since the medium had previously seen the face whom God had destined to be his wife in a vision.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the groom on South Main street and was witnessed by only a few friends and relatives of the principals. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. M. Francis, of Washington, Pa., a Spiritualist minister. Mr. Francis was authorized by County Cerk Robertson some weeks ago to perform the marriage ceremony. Rev. Mr. Way is the only minister of the cult he professes in this city and it became necessary to have another authorized to perform the ceremony, inasmuch as he could not marry himself. Mr. Way is 30 years of age and his bride is 20.

HADN'T PAID FOR STOCK HELD

New York, Oct. 16.—The entire time at the hearing of the United States Shipbuilding company investigation before Referee Oliphant was given up to the taking of testimony covering the incorporation and organization of the company in New Jersey. Frederic Seward, Horace Gould and Kenneth McLaren, young men connected with the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, who acted either as incorporators or directors of the shipbuilding combination, were called to the stand and examined at length as to the circumstances under which they served the promotors of the enterprise.

Frederic Seward, who had served as a director, was questioned for three hours, the inquiry covering his connection with the company from the time Alexander & Green asked him to serve as a director until he resigned when the permanent officers were elected. His stay on the stand was prolonged because he would not admit that he was a mere "dummy," acting under the orders of the counsel of the company. He held that he had used his independent judgment in voting on the many important questions determined by the directorate when he, Louis Daily and Harold Newman, of the Corporation Trust company, were the three members of it.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the bondholders, questioned him at length with the object of showing that he had not paid for the share of stock that he held; that he knew nothing of the value of the properties acquired by the votes of himself and his associates, and that everything done by the directorate was at the instance of counsel and the mere formal carrying out of orders.

Seward admitted that he did not know the location of the plant nor the character of the business of the Harlan Hollingsworth company, Moore & Sons, and the Canda company, and said that he was under the impression that the Bethlehem plant was located at Homestead. Seward and the other temporary directors acted upon the increase in the capital stock of the company from $3,000 to $45,000,000, voted for the issuance of securities to the amount of $71,000,000, and decided other matters of importance, and the testimony indicates an intention to attack the validity of all those transactions.

It is claimed that the original directors were simply "dummies," and that while the forms of the law were closely followed at all of the meetings, none of the directors were properly a holder of stock and that none of their acts was of legal value.

The hearing went over until next Wednesday, Oct. 21, when Lewis Nixon will take the stand. He was sworn at the close of the hearing, but did not give any testimony.

THE "OPEN" SHOP QUESTION.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Discussion of the question of the "open" shop by representatives of labor and capital took up the greater part of the first session of the National Civic Federation conference, which is endeavoring to establish more rightful relations between employers and employes, and to end strife.

Various phases of the matter of freedom of employment, which is now agitating the industrial world, were presented by interested persons. The discussion will be continued to-day, when it will become general.

During his talk on the "open" shop, John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, strongly denounced the non-unionist and the strike breaker, whom he likened to a criminal.

Henry C. Hunter, of New York, it is announced, will be among the speakers on the "open" shop at today's session, at which Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to preside. Senator Hanna, it was said, would be in charge of Saturday's meeting.

SHERMAN STATUE UNVEILED.

Washington, Oct. 16.—With impressive ceremonies an equestrian statue of William Tecumseh Sherman was unveiled here in the presence of official Washington, the president at its head, and thousands of veterans, members of the societies of the armies of the Tennessee, Cumberland, Ohio and Potomac. As the two large flags enveloping the statue were drawn aside by William Tecumseh Sherman Thorndyke, the 9-year-old grandson of the dead chieftain, the cannon of the Fourth artillery boomed a salute and the Marine band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." Sucess marked every detail of the ceremonies, which were in charge of Colonel T. W. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds.

Before the unveiling of the statue the president and Lieutenant General Young, chief of the general staff of the army, reviewed the troops participating in the dedication parade from the stand opposite the statue. The president delivered the address of the day. A representative from each of the societies of the four armies followed in eulogies of General Sherman.

Indians Threaten Vengence.

Decatur, Neb., Oct. 16.—A series of depredations, alleged to have been committed by a gang of white men, on the Omaha reservation, has brought the Indians of the Skunk and Wolf lodges to a high state of excitement. United States Marshal Sloan has sent a number of deputies to quiet the Indians and arrest the guilty ones. The braves threaten disaster to the men if caught, and an effort is being made to capture them and take them to Omaha.

ECZEMA SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, and burns like Eczema. Beginning often with a slight redness of the skin it gradually spreads, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs and face, and is a veritable torment at times, especially at night or when overheated.

The cause of Eczema is a too acid and general unhealthy condition of the blood. The terrifying itching and burning is produced by the overflow through the glands and pores of the skin of the fiery poisons with which the blood-current is overloaded. While external applications, such as washes, soaps, salves and powders aresoot hing and cooling they do not enter into the blood itself or touch the real cause of the disease, but S. S. S. does, and purifies, enriches, and strengthens the thin acid blood and cleanses and builds up the general system, when the skin clears off and Eczema with all its terrifying symptoms disappears.

In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. As time went by it grew worse, and I was convinced that I was afflicted with Eczema. I consulted several physicians and a number of specialists, and used several external applications, receiving but slight temporary relief. In February I decided to try S. S. S., and in less than a month I experienced a change for the better, and by May all symptoms had disappeared, and I found myself entirely cured, and have had no return of the disease since. W. P. JAPAN AND THE EAST

CHINESE STUDENTS IN TOKIO

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The Eastern Missionary convention of the Methodist Episcopal church came to an end when a monster meeting was held in the Academy of Music. The convention, which began Tuesday, was a success in point of numbers attending its session and in the interest aroused for the Christianizing of the heathen world. Delegates were prominent clergymen and laymen from all parts of the country. Missionaries from Africa, Siberia, Japan, Korea, China, Malay peninsula, India, Liberia, Chile, Argentine Republic and Porto Rico also took part in the proceedings.

Because of the present course of events in the far east the address of Dr. Spencer on Japan was particularly interesting to the delegates. He has spent 20 years in Japan and told of the progress of mission work in that country. Dr. Spencer, among other things, said:

"In saving Japan you save the orient. Japan is already in practical control of Korea. She owns strategic railroads, telegraphs, banks, large commercial interests. Japan is sending hundreds of her picked men into China. They are reorganizing her army; are advisers to her government; are police organizers and teachers; are putting her schools into shape; are heads of business enterprises; are drafting her new code of civil law; are managing her imperial university. Little Japan leading old China!

"Why, 2,000 Chinese students are in the schools of Tokio, and among them are the sons of Chinese nobles; and of these students more than 100 are Chinese girls. Over 100 Chinese noncommissioned military officers are in Japanese barracks getting their training for war. And if these Chinese students and these Japanese can be Christianized what does this mean to the orient? Remember the trumpet call of Bishop Moore, 'as Japan goes, so goes the orient.'

"I would help Japan save China. I would hepl her build a wall so high and strong that the Russian bear could neither scale it nor crawl through it, for be it known unto you that wherever that bear places his paw there is an end to Protestant missions and ultimately to American commerce."

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The automobile endurance run to Pittsburg from New York came to a close with 21 machines in at the finish. The cars of Thomas, Garther and Whitman were the last to arrive. The machines began to arrive at Allegheny City about noon, and the first five were taken in charge by the reception committee of the Pittsburg Automobile club in machines. They were driven past the Hotel Schenley, which is the headquarters of the visitors, and thence to the garage. During the afternoon the cars kept coming in at frequent intervals. They were photographed as they pulled up at the door of the hotel.

The visitors attended a theater in the evening as the guests of the Pittsburg Automobile club, and afterwards there was a smoker. A telegram of congratulation was received from President Shattuck, of the Automobile Club of America, and there were numerous other telegrams of a like character from prominent automobilists. Mrs. A. L. Riker, the only woman who made the run, was presented with a massive bouquet by the survivors.

Decision of Alaskan Boundary Tribunal Concedes Case.

London, Oct. 16.—The Morning Advertiser announces that it regrets to learn from a source which it regards as beyond question that the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal virtually concedes the American case.

The Advertiser, which appears to be thoroughly satisfied with the reliability of its statement, says the news will be received in Canada with consternation. It gives a map and a detailed explanation showing how the decision will affect Canada and adds that those who have followed the arguments have been thoroughly satisfied with Hon. Clifford Sifton's preparation and presentation of the case.

Oil Operator Indicted.

Lima, O., Oct. 16.—H. H. Adkins, a prominent oil producer and promoter, was indicted on the charge of having embezzled $10,000 from stockholders of the Union Oil and Gas company. The indictment is the outgrowth of a transaction wherein it is alleged that Adkins was authorized to spend $26,000 for the purchase of oil property, but secured it for $16,000.

Lady Student Killed on Street—Murderer Then Suicides.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—Josephine Meade, a student of the University of California, was shot and killed by Paul Schmidt, aged 25 years, who afterward committed suicide.

Miss Meade was formerly a resident of Los Angeles, where she was employed as a teacher in the public schools. Schmidt was also a resident of Los Angeles, where he is said to have been prominently connected.

The tragedy ocured at 1819 Luguna street, where Miss Meade lodged. On leaving the house Miss Meade was met by Schmidt, who had been waiting in the neighborhood for some time.

"I beg your pardon, but this man—"

At that moment Schmidt began shooting. He sent four bullets into the girl's body. When she fell dead he calmly looked at her for a few moments, and walked down the street, removing the empty shells from his revolver. He then reloaded the pistol, and after firing in the air to test the cartridge, placed the pistol against his forehead and fired. He died instantly.

Schmidt and Miss Meade have been acquainted several years and were engaged to be married. His attentions became distasteful to her, however, and she, becoming alarmed at his threats against her life, gave up her position in Los Angeles and went to Boston to escape him, afterward returning to this city, where Schmidt followed.

MANDAMUS SUIT DECIDED.

Independent Companies Benefit by Judge's Ruling.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 16.—In the circuit court of the United States here Judge Nathan Goff decided the mandamus suit of the Kingwood Coal company against the West Virginia Northern Railroad company and others in favor of the plaintiff company, and an order was entered directing the railroad company to cease its practice of discrimination of the distribution of coal cars among the collieries along its line. The decision was based on the working capacities of mines and not on rating given them by railroad companies, and upon the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

The decision is far-reaching, as it effects the relations between railroad companies and coal operators and especially accords to independent operators rights not heretofore observed by railroad companies. The Kingwood company was getting only 13 per cent of the cars and the decree directs that it be given 31 per cent.

Boy Tries to Exterminate Family.

NO MONEY FOR FLAGS

"I Don't Take Any Stock In That Kind of Business."

What motive inspired Mayor Johnson's evident ill-will against the American soldiers? Some suppose that it is because his father was a Confederate soldier and he was brought up in a secession atmosphere, but the real fighting Confederates have shown no sympathy with such spiteful acts as are credited to Johnson. It is unjust to them to blame them for his pettiness.

The most significant illustration of Johnson's conduct along this line has been his systematic snub of the soldiers on Memorial day, three times repeated. In 1901, just after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York on Memorial day instead of reviewing the soldiers' parade, as should have been his pleasant duty as mayor of Cleveland. In 1902 he declined to have anything to do with the parade, and in 1903 he declined again, and then added to the insult of his refusal to appear in the reviewing stand at the city hall by sitting in his automobile in a street a short distance away. Not even in his public place as mayor was he able to shed his spite against the Union soldiers for a single occasion.

Whatever moved Johnson in this matter no one can know, but they may surmise from his treatment of the Grand Army of the Republic on two occasions. Although mayor of Cleveland at the time, and one of its wealthiest citizens, he was about the only prominent man in the city who refused to contribute toward the expenses of entertaining the national encampment of the Grand Army in Cleveland, and the rally of the surviving Union veterans of the Civil War in 1901. Some time after this he expressed his sentiment on this subject with his accustomed vigor. Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 368, G. A. R., while raising funds for a new flag for the post from Cleveland friends, was advised to ask Mayor Johnson for a contribution. When he saw Johnson and handed him the subscription paper the latter threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor as he said: "I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags."

Somewhat similar was his speech, "I have no use for soldiers, anyhow," made when he refused to make the welcoming address as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet given to the returning Cleveland soldiers of the Philippine service, when 289 of them were given medals in recognition of their brave fight for their country in the Orient. Mr. Johnson said that he was going to be out of town, but it was stated when the matter became public that he stayed at his house that evening and no correction has ever been offered.

With this kind of a record, the soldiers of Ohio, more numerous than those of any other state, should see to it that their comrades and their friends should take care of Mr. Johnson at the polls. He has slighted and insulted the Union soldiers of the Civil war and the younger soldiers of the Spanish-American war without reason or excuse. It is their turn now.

STRAY SHOTS.

What use have the people of Ohio for a man who gets on a platform he has opposed and supports principles he has denounced, in return for a nomination for office? Clarke is that kind of a candidate, and now no one knows whether he is sincere about anything.

Every Ohio Democrat of whatever past or present shade of opinion has at stake in this campaign the one question nearest to him of all, whether Tom Johnson's orders must be obeyed at all hazards under penalty of expulsion from the party. They must smash Johnson or he will rule them with an iron hand.

Every Democrat in the Ohio legislature in 1902, in both senate and house, voted against the bills introduced and passed by Republicans that have relieved the general taxpayers of the state of over $3,000,000 this year by drawing that much more from the corporations. The Democrats did this under Tom Johnson's personal leadership, and he declared vehemently that the Republican laws would cause a smash in state affairs. He predicted failure for them, but instead they are working smoothly and successfully.

Turnipseed's attempt to dictate to the Democratic editors of Ohio would be comical except that it had the direct personal endorsement of Tom Johnson. The editors present were told by Johnson that he would approve what Turnipseed would do. And then Turnipseed told them that they must put out of the party even the oldest Ohio Democratic editors who might speak or even think otherwise than as Johnson permitted them to do. It was Turnipseed and Johnson that the Columbus Citizen, Dem., had in mind when it said: "Some people cannot understand why the Democratic editors of Ohio believe that they belong to themselves."

STRAY SHOTS.

Sunday stump speeches are the kind with Toledo Jones. Should he boost Johnson in making them, Tom's tender conscience would not squirm over it.

"Like master, like man." Mayor Johnson's city and county officials are tax dodgers like himself, and are dodging their duties just as he does, but every last man of them draws full pay every time.

Hanna is hated because he overthrew Bryanism and led the McKinley hosts. That is the very reason he ought to have the sterling support of every believer in prosperity.

In spite of every challenge to name a single Ohio industry employing a single man in any labor that benefits the community at large that is supported by Johnson's capital, not a case of the kind has been brought to light. Herrick and Hanna keep their money busy in concerns that give good employment at satisfactory wages to many thousands of men right here in Ohio. But not so Johnson.

From every part of Ohio comes the report of the strongest and best and most conscientious Democrats refusing to have anything to do with Johnson and Clarke and their crusade against the public peace and prosperity. Both for the general welfare and for the genuine good of their own party in the long run, these Democrats are determined to defeat Johnsonism. But all of their votes should only swell the overwhelming tide of defeat for the single taxer.

Some one has said, by way of excuse for Johnson's tax dodging, that he has immense industries and enterprises outside of Ohio. Where they are and what they are has been kept carefully concealed. For him to confess the existence of such investments would be to put their stocks and bonds that he owns upon the tax duplicate at its "selling value" or openly disobey the laws of Ohio. As mayor of Cleveland he has taken an oath to enforce those laws. As governor of Ohio it would be his duty above all others to enforce the laws of this state, but as a tax-dodger he is a law-breaker.

BASED ON RESULTS.

Rural Free Mail Delivery and Road Improvement Are Both Republican Achievements, and the People Appreciate the Great Good Done.

Practice compared with pretense, the real results rather than empty promises, is the record of the Republican party as compared with the opposition over and over again, year after year. Two marked illustrations of this are afforded by the sharp contrast between the platforms of the two parties in the present campaign and their achievements are two great matters of universal concern.

The Democratic platform is silent as the grave upon both of these great subjects and yet they come close home to scores of thousands of homes all over the state of Ohio. The Republican resolutions include this comprehensive declaration: "Better roads save Ohio's citizens millions of dollars yearly and should be systematically established by the state and federal governments. They are especially needed on account of the rural free mail delivery, for which the demand is now well nigh universal. INAUGURATED BY REPUBLICANS, A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION REFUSED IT A TRIAL, AND REPUBLICANS HAVE NOW PROVED ITS VALUE. We favor the extension of the system as rapidly as possible wherever desired."

The value of these declarations is that they are founded upon results actually accomplished. Laws enacted by the Republican legislature have recently stimulated a movement for better roads all over the state, because they have provided ways for securing such roads. An Ohio man who was largely influential as a member of the state senate in securing such laws, was put by President McKinley at the head of a national bureau of good roads and is accomplishing results of positive benefit in many parts of the country as well as in Ohio. Wherever these better roads have been built, they have proved money-makers to the farmers and a benefit to the towns. The Republicans rightly claim credit for what has been accomplished.

As to the rural free delivery, the resolution rightly claims all the credit for the Republican party. The original experiments in this line were made in President Harrison's term, but when Cleveland came in, his officials refused to have anything to do with rural free delivery and killed it off until McKinley became president. All the vast results already accomplished, with their incalculable benefits in making country life more attractive and desirable, are directly due, therefore, to Republican legislation and administration No feature ever introduced in the government service has grown so rapidly and in such manifest response to the popular demand. The Republican platform, therefore, rightly stands by both of these great improvements so full of benefit to the farmer, and pledges itself for their further extension, while Democracy says nothing and does nothing.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

The Anthem.

The rustic choir's greatest show was always made in the anthem, in which some bumpkin had generally a solo to exhibit his "lusty voice." It was a splendid musical display—of its kind. People came from a long distance to hear it and felt so satiated that they left without the sermon. No wonder Shakespeare made Sir John Falstaff lose his voice with "hallooing and singing of anthems." To be sure, he was guilty of an anachronism, for there were no anthems in the fat knight's time, but it may reasonably be supposed that he had become so impressed with this part of the service on his own day that he dropped into the nod which even Homer is privileged occasionally to enjoy.

The Jack Tar who explained a "hanthem" to his mate on the simple principles of verbal elongation was not so far out after all. "If I was to say to you," he began, "'Ere, Bill, give me that handspike,' that wouldn't be a hanthem, but if I was to say to you, 'Bill, Bill, Bill, give, give, give me, give me that, that, that handspike, spike, spike, spike,' why, that would be a hanthem." Just after this fashion did the old village choirs tear and toss their anthem texts.

LAWYER THORNDIKE

What You Ought To Know About Ohio Tax Laws

FARMER PERKINS

FARMER PERKINS—You promised me you would inform me as to the return of moneys and credits for taxation, and I am now ready to hear about it.

Lawyer Thorndike—The taxbearer is required to return, for taxation, all the money he has in possession, or subject to draft, or check, on grand levy day each year. This duty the state imposes upon him and requires him to make oath that he has done it. I have taken all the money on deposit in the national banks in Ohio, at their report nearest April 8, in each year; all the moneys on deposit in the building associations each year, back to and including 1892; all the moneys on deposit in the state banks, trust companies, private and savings banks each year, back to and including 1883, and give you the results of my investigation.

These figures are made up from the state auditor's reports, the reports of the comptrollers of the currency of the United States and the "Ohio Statistics," made up each year by the secretary of state, and I have grouped the years from 1902 back to 1883, in a decade. The moneys of the state in 1902, as gathered from these sources, not returned for taxation, were $344,263,571. The sum of $55,089,511 was returned for taxation and the two sums represent the total moneys in the state that year.

The per cent of moneys returned in 1902 was 16. If any taxbearer in Ohio returned over 16 per cent of his money for taxation in 1902, he returned more than his proportion.

In 1901 the money in the state in banks not returned for taxation was $278,156,146.19. The sum of $50,950,012 went on the tax duplicate, or 20 per cent, and the two sums represent the whole moneys in the state that year. In 1900 and 1899 only 20 per cent of the moneys shown to be in the banks was returned for taxation, and in 1898 the amount went down to 16 per cent. In 1897 it rose to 25 per cent. In 1896 and 1895 it was 20 per cent, and in 1894 it was 33 per cent. In 1893 it was 21 per cent. In the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, the total moneys in the state, by the printed reports of the banks, not returned for taxation, was $2,056,012,231.69, and the total returned for taxation was $413,655,944. In the last decade of the 56 years of the Kelley law only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state went on to the tax duplicate, and this with the Morganthaler tax-torturing machine in full force. From 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, only 40 per cent of the moneys in the state were returned for taxation. The whole amount in the state for this decade not returned for taxation was $791,500,224. The sum of $366,527,926 was returned for taxation in the same decade.

In the third decade, going back from 1892 to 1873, both years inclusive, the total money returned was $368,058,754, and that not returned was $370,380,116, a difference of only two-thirds of 1 per cent, or the amount returned was 49 1-3 per cent. But these figures remain to be explained. In 1875 and 1874 there was no report of deposits in the private banks in Ohio, and in 1873 there was no report from any private banks in Ohio.

The more fully statistics have been preserved, the greater the disparity between moneys in the banks and the moneys returned for taxation.

In 1846 the bank deposits in the state were $3,038,747 and moneys and credits returned were $27,265,210. In 1902 the bank deposits were $400,353,102.73 and the moneys and credits returned $135,117,922. The owners of moneys want that class of property as favorably treated as personal chattels, and hence return their moneys at 20 per cent. In Iowa all property is returned for taxation at 25 per cent of the full value.

Farmer Perkins—If only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state are returned for taxation, how is it with the credits?

Lawyer Thorndike—In my study as to credits I have taken the list of mortgages recorded each year, from 1902 back as far as 1883, from the annual report of the secretary of state, and assumed this to represent one-third of the credits in that year, as I am justified in doing, from the statistics of 1888, of all the mortgages in the state. The mortgages recorded each year for the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, amounted to $895,656,713.20.

Three times this sum is $2,685,170,138.60, which represents all the mortgages in the state from 1893 to 1902, both years inclusive. The credits returned in the same 10 years were $964,266,805, leaving the credits not returned in the same decade $1,721,073,336, or 55 per cent of the total credits in the same year.

In the decade from 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, the mortgages recorded were $775,153,249.81. Three times this sum is $2,325,459,749.43, which represents the credits in the same decade. The credits returned in the same decade were $1,103,968,684, or about 50 per centum of the total credits.

From 1893 to 1902 there was a steady decrease of credits, which I will express in millions, though I could give the exact figures: 1893, one hundred and eleven; 1894, one hundred and ten; 1895, one hundred and six; 1896, one hundred and two; 1897, ninety-nine; 1898, ninety-three; 1899, ninety; 1900, eighty-six; 1901, eighty-two; 1902, eighty.

Now let some believer in the Alfred Kelley system explain this. From 1893 to 1902 Ohio has been growing richer each year, and yet in the same period its returns of credits have regularly and steadily diminished from one hundred and eleven millions to eighty millions. No doubt the thirty-one millions of a decrease has been driven out of the state by tax inquisitors. From 1883 to 1892 the increase in credits was only slightly over six millions, and in 1885, 1886, 1890 and 1892, four years out of the six, the returns dropped back.

Lawyer Thorndike—In 1866 the credits returned in the state were $79,860,944. In 1902, 36 years later, they were $80,028,411, only an increase of $167,467 in 36 years, or an increase of $4,651.86 per year. The year 1902 witnessed the largest return of moneys ever made in Ohio by about five millions. The return was $55,089,511 in a year, when there was on deposit in the banks and monetary institutions in the state $400,353,102.73.

I leave these matters to these gentlemen who are so busy writing letters to the newspapers defending the Kelley system of taxation. To a man who reasons, the statement of these facts carries its own conclusions. A system which does and will produce such results is, and can only be, a failure.

In 1890 the real estate in Ohio was valued for taxation at 40 per cent of what it was returned to the census officers, while the general average in the United States was 41 per cent. In the same year the personal property on the tax duplicate was 38 2-10 per cent of the same property returned to the census enumerators, while in the whole country personal property assessed for taxation was 22 5-10 per cent of its real value. Our careful Ohio people got 15 per cent above the general average in the whole country, which is a very serious reflection upon them.

Farmer Perkins—In looking over your statistics of moneys and credits returned in Ohio, I noticed that in 1855 moneys and credits returned were $104,014,619, and in 1902 the aggregate of the same two items returned in Ohio was $135,117,922 or a gain of $31,013,303 in 47 years, or $647,093.68 per year, and that $1,659,357 was gained in 1902 from the year 1901. I had thought the people of the state were more thrifty than these figures would indicate. How do you account for this slow growth of wealth in the state?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 47 years the sentiments of the people were in favor of ad valorem taxation because the theory was noble and because they had not tried it. Now intelligent public sentiment everywhere is opposed to the taxation of moneys and credits, and the taxbearer returns some of them, for form's sake, and enough to keep the tax officers quiet.

Lawyer Thorndike—There is only one way, and that is for a majority of all the voters in the state to vote in favor of the taxation amendment to the constitution, now before the people. If that becomes the organic law the taxation of moneys and credits can be done away with.

Farmer Perkins—I have a case I wish to submit to you. William McGlone had a farm worth $10,000, valued for taxation at $5,000. He borrowed $5,000 of Abel Jones on a mortgage. Jones sold $5,000 in United States bonds to give him the money, which was delivered the day before grand tax levy day. The rate of taxation was 2 per cent. Jones lived in the same taxing district with McGlone, and the latter held the money on deposit over tax levy day. McGlone paid $100 taxes on his land and $100 taxes on the money he borrowed of Jones, and the latter paid $100 taxes on his mortgage. The state got $300 taxes where, if the transaction had not been made when it was, it would have had but $100. What do you think of that transaction?

Lawyer Thorndike—It is a fine on McGlone for going in debt, a penalty assessed on him for living in the state, and he and Jones could have easily avoided the payment of the extra $200 taxes had they been so disposed and agreed to do so. The return and payment of the $200 tax on their part was purely voluntary.

Kidney Disease Kills.

Kidney diseases should be attended to at once, for almost 90 per cent. of our unexpected deaths of to-day are from that cause. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the only sure cure known for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation. It is marvelous how it stops that pain in the back, relieves the necessity of urinating so often at night, drives away that scalding pain in passing water, corrects the bad effects of whiskey and beer and shows its beneficial effects on the system in an incredibly short time.

"I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with the most beneficial results. I was troubled with gravel and kidney complaint very severely, it bothered me a great deal, and have found great relief from its use, and cheerfully recommend it."

"Favorite Remedy" is the most successful medicine ever discovered for kidney, bladder, liver and blood diseases. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere. It is recognized as a specific. It purifies the blood and dissolves the excess of uric acid in it, clears up the urine, restores the kidneys and bladder to their normal condition, and gently moves the bowels.

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

HOW BANKS INCREASE BUSINESS

Des Moines bankers are learning to advertise. This is the great reason that Des Moines banks are growing so rapidly. Advertising in the banking business is a new departure, but it is accomplishing wonderful results. A local banker who has been using page after page of display advertising in the local newspapers recently said:

"Through our advertising I believe we have increased our number of depositors one-third in the past few months."

Pittsburg banks are spending about a million dollars every year in display advertising. The big newspapers of that city contain more advertising from the banks in town than from the department stores. The success that has followed their efforts has led Des Moines men to follow in their wake. The enterprising bankers of the city are quick to see the possibilities of advertising in educating the people to save. The others will soon be forced to follow in their footsteps or suspend. — Des Moines (Ia.) Capital.

STATE TAKES ALL LAND

Secret Work Going on Over the State By Hired Agents Preaching the Single Land Tax, Though Johnson Dodges It In Platform and Campaign—Its Advocates Define the Idea.

"Vote the straight Republican ticket, and brand the brazen dragon of single tax with everlasting defeat." This emphatic language of the Caldwell Journal is the growing sentiment of the people of Ohio as fast as they find out just the taxation that Johnson's false cry of "just taxation" actually means for them. Its real purpose has been enveloped in a cloud of words, but there has been a most conspicuous lack of any precise statement of the Johnson program. This of itself is enough to condemn it to every judicious mind. Mere fine words will not answer, where all of the most precious property rights of every home owner in town and country alike, are imperiled.

That this peril is imminent and unmistakable, is made plain by the statement of the Johnson program from those best qualified to speak on the subject. While Johnson's platform says nothing this year about the single land tax, although written by the editor of the single land tax organ at Chicago, brought to Ohio by Johnson to help his campaign, yet it is only cowardice that keeps out of the platform actual mention of the subject that underlies the document, and is its vital spirit. With equal cowardice Johnson himself has never dared to say single tax in this campaign thus far, although last year he repeatedly referred to it as his most precious principle, as the sovereign remedy for all political ills. Why should so great a thing, in fact the greatest thing in political affairs one short year ago, according to Johnson, be shoved into the background by Johnson?

And yet all is not silence on the subject. Johnson's political preacher at Cincinnati had a sermon about it, that was really a stump speech, the other Sunday, showing what he called the success of the scheme. Other men hired by Johnson, or someone for him, have been operating all over the state, like soap sellers and street fakers, peddling single tax doctrine, and trying to manufacture votes for Johnson. There has been some campaigning, too, of the kind that was used against McKinley when he was given the defeat for congress that nominated him for governor and president. Holmes county in that campaign was over-run with glib talkers with a pack of lies about McKinley, that cost him enough votes to cause his defeat. These men had various pretenses of occupation, but their real business was to defeat McKinley.

Thus this year Johnson emissaries are reported as surreptitiously scattering over the state with false stories about the single tax. One misstatement that has been worked because of its plausibility, while untrue, is that the single tax means only that the double tax of both land and the mortgage upon it required by the Ohio constitution would be taken off by Tom Johnson. Every one agreed to this long before Johnson was heard of in Ohio, but the puzzle has been how to do it with the constitution as it is, or how to change the constitution safely. This, though, is not the single tax that Johnson has talked about. The nature of that is clearly shown in the adopted official statement of the single tax principle by its advocates, as accredited to Henry George himself as follows:

"We assure that no tax should be levied on the products of labor. We are in favor of raising all public revenues for National, State, County and Municipal purposes by a single tax upon land values, irrespective of improvements, and all the obligations of all forms of direct and indirect taxation. The single tax can be instituted by the single and easy way of abolishing, one after another, all other taxes now levied, and commensurately increasing the tax on land values until we draw upon that one source for all expenses of government, the revenue being divided between local governments, state government and the general government. In assessment under the single tax all valuaes created by individual use or improvement would be excluded, and the only value taken into consideration would be the value attaching to the bare land."

Every property owner can see for himself how he likes such a program, but even this is not all of it. This official declaration makes perfectly plain that land alone, and nothing but land, is to pay every penny of expense in the cost of government from the entire United States down to the road districts, and that every dollar of the immense investments in stocks and bonds, and so on, such as make up all of Tom Johnson's millions on which he dodges taxes, is to be absolutely exempt from any kind of tax. This makes plain, too, that every improvement upon the land is to escape taxation.

One point that it does not state is Henry George's repeated declaration that all these taxes upon land are to be made so heavy as to take away the land entirely from its owners, because all private ownership is nothing but robbery, as he calls it. This is to be done so that the state shall own all the land forever, and use all its revenue for society.

This is pure socialism, and no Johnson denial can make it anything but socialism. To vote for Johnson is to vote for it. He declares he don't want your vote if you don't believe with him. Don't give it to him, then, but bury him and his schemes in the same grave.

LABOR SUFFERED.

A Painful Page of Past Experience Recalled.

Lower Wages, Fewer Days and Shorter Hours Were the Result of the Tom Johnson Legislation, Which He and Clarke Would Bring If They Could.

It has come to my notice through the columns of your paper that on Sept. 12, 1903, Hon. T. L. Johnson spoke to a large audience in Youngstown. After exhausting his vocabulary of vituperation and slander on Senator M. A. Hanna, he, knowing Youngstown to be the hotbed of unionism, turned his attention to the subject, winding up with the remark that never would the evils of which the unions complained be wiped out until they aim deeper than they do and strike at the root by voting the Democratic party into power. Oh, folls and slow of heart, to believe all the reformers have told you! I am of the opinion that T. L. J. struck the wrong town. The union men of the A. A. of I. & S. W. in Youngstown remember that T. L. Johnson, W. J. Bryan and W. L. Wilson were members of congress and drafted a bill which became a law that did more to cripple unionism than anything that has occurred since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in 1620.

Union men know that in 1892 jobs were plenty and there was work for all. The base of wages was $5.50 per ton. The bill above mentioned when put into execution by T. L. J., W. J. B., and W. L. W. reduced the opportunity to work over one-half and reduced wages of labor 50 per cent. The unionist of Youngstown well remembers the all-night session in 1896, from 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon until 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when they were glad to settle for $4 per ton. Perhaps Tom L. Johnson thinks that was a good way to settle complaints against the Democracy in every branch of the government. We had free trade, "free soup," and shorter hours from six days a week to one, two, and never more than three, at a reduction in pay of $1.50 per ton. Cataract Lodge No. 2 A. A., was not in a thriving condition. The writer, with a few others, got up an entertainment. We concluded to send four tickets to each local under the jurisdiction of the A. A. On Feb. 16, 1897, I sent out 145. Seventy-five came back, 14 contained $1.

"Yours of 16th recevied. I presented to our lodge your tickets, and after due consideration, owing to the deplorable condition we are in, it would be impossible for us to help you. Times are hard and work scarce, with little prospect for the future.

"J. C. JONES,

"Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20, 1897—Hall of Iron City Lodge, No. 1:

"Your communication received with four tickets. Sorry to say, our lodge instructed me to return them to you from the fact that our mill has not averaged more than one day and a half or two a week for the last five months. I can assure you that it has been the greatest effort on my part to keep our lodge together.

"JAMES L. MARKS,

McKinley was inaugurated March 4, 1897, and since that time we have been climbing up, with plenty of work for everybody, and a raise of wages from $4 to $6. Union men should look at this question fairly, without partiality or prejudice, and be governed by good common sense. Now you hear nothing of a "soup house." All we have to do is to look at the years—1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, and from July, 1897 to the present time.

And as the advocates of the free, unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, means union men to be paid in money worth 40 cents on the dollar. Again we heard that this was a state campaign. National issues should not be discussed. They never mentioned Hon. M. T. Herrick, but the tirade upon Senator Hanna knew no bounds, charging him with everything but the disaster at crib No. 3. Let it be known Senator Hanna never voted for a measure or introduced one that would reduce the wages of labor one cent. Tom L. Johnson did. While he, as a national official, votes to take from union laboring men their jobs, the Democratic way of remedying the evils union labor complains of.

MESSENGER MISSING

New York, Oct. 16. — Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, asked the local police to send out a general alarm for Clarence H. Leonard, 18 years old, of East Orange, N. J., a messenger employed by the firm. It is alleged that Leonard forged two checks, one for $7,500, and the other for $2,576, using the firm name, on two local banks, presented them at the banks and collected the money. He is said to have secured the money last Tuesday at noon, and to have disappeared immediately afterward. It is also said that a young woman living in East Orange disappeared at the same time. Leonard had been attentive to her and the supposition of the bank officials and the police is that they have eloped. Leonard comes from a prominent family of East Orange and had the full confidence of his employers.

It was part of Leonard's duties as messenger to make deposits and to draw money for current uses of the firm from the banks. He was well known at the banks and there was no question when the checks were presented for payment.

The forgery is considered to be clever work and the bank officials say was undoubtedly traced. The discovery was made, however, in one of the banks almost immediately after the check had been cashed there. The suspicion of the cashier was aroused because Leonard, he said, seemed nervous, and because the check called for $7,500—a larger amount than he had ever presented a check for before. Haskins & Sells were communicated with and a member of the firm hurried to the bank, examined the check and pronounced it a forgery. Inquiry at another bank where the firm had an account disclosed the fact that Leonard had cashed a check for $2,576 there.

The police were informed and detectives hurried to East Orange, but found no trace of Leonard. When the young man left home Tuesday morning he told his parents he intended to stay in New York that night.

A description of Leonard has been telegraphed to all the principal cities of the country and all steamship lines and railroads have been watched. A detective agency has also sent out a description of the young woman in the case.

PLATT ON HONEYMOON.

Marriage Took Place Sunday—Ceremony Was Private.

New York, Oct. 16.—Announcement was made that the marriage of United States Senator Thomas C. Platt and Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway took place at the Holland house on Sunday last. The Rev. Dr. Burrell performed the ceremony in the presence of the intimate members of Mr. Platt's and Mrs. Janeway's families. The senator said that he chose a private ceremony to avoid the crush and annoyance of a public wedding. Senator and Mrs. Platt left the city for a short trip.

After Being Out Twenty Hours Jury Acquit Him of Murder.

Lexington, S. C., Oct. 16.—The trial of James H. Tillman, charged with the murder of N. G. Gonzales, editor of the State, in Columbia, on Jan. 15 last, ended in an acquittal. The jury before which Tillman has been on trial since Sep. 28 brought in a verdict of not guilty, thus ending a judicial hearing which has engrossed the attention of the public of South Carolina as none other has in the last quarter of a century. The jury was out for 20 hours before arriving at a verdict.

Never was a case in South Carolina courts more vigorously contested than this. The solicitor was assisted in the prosecution by four other lawyers, while the accused was defended by seven lawyers, an exceptional array of counsel. More than a hundred witnesses gave testimony, about as many on one side as the other, and nine lawyers argued before the jury.

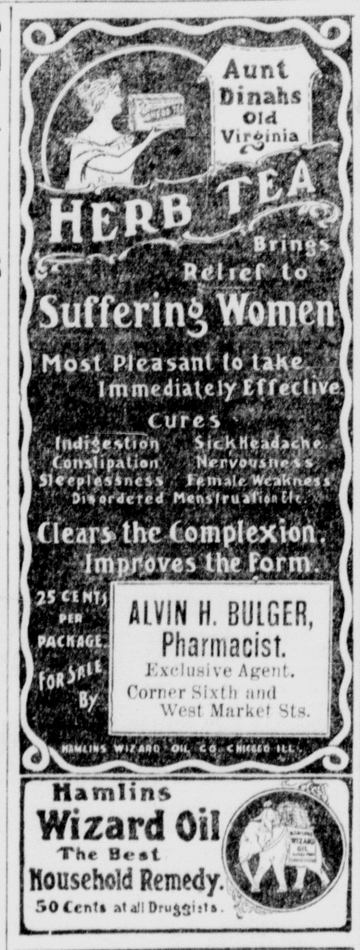

Mr. Tillman left for his home in Edgefield, accompanied by his wife and friends from his home county.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—A strike was declared by the Pacific express messengers in St. Louis. Last Tuesday the members of the local Brotherhood of Railway Expressmen submitted a demand for an increase of 10 per cent in wages. They stopped work, and only returned upon the assurance that their demands would be considered. Notification was sent to the express messengers that the increase could not be granted, and the walkout resulted.

Kansas City, Oct. 16. — Addressing the convention of Roadmasters and Maintenance of Way association here A. Morrison, of Pittsburg, Pa., advised his hearers to treat their men with consideration. "Give your men one day in seven to rest," said Mr. Morrison, "and let that day be Sunday. The company loses money on every man who does not rest one day in seven. Let the men spend Sundays with their families at home and you will have better men. It is economy for the company and a kindness to the men. I have proved that it is possible, and you can devise means to accomplish it if you will only try it." The convention adjourned to meet at St. Louis next September.

Motions for Nonsuit Overruled.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16.—In the trial of Miller and Johns for alleged conspiracy and bribery under the recent postal indictments the government rested and the defense introduced evidence for three hours. One of the defendants was still on the stand when court adjourned, and it is thought that most of the time will be taken up today with these two defendants as witnesses, so that the arguments will not be made until Saturday. After the government rested council for both Johns and Miller filed motions for a nonsuit. Both motions were promptly overruled by Judge Thompson.

Dynamite Failed to Explode.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 16.—Six sticks of dynamite were found on the Northern Pacific track near Birdseye, eight miles west of Helena. An extra freight, eastbound, passed over the powder during the night without exploding it. The dynamite was discovered by section men. It had been placed under the rail, the fish plates of which had been removed. Chief of Detectives McEldridge, of St. Paul, in charge of the Northern Pacific train and officers, left with a pack of bloodhounds soon after the finding of the powder was reported.

Fellow Convict Murderously Assaulted.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 16.—M. A. Crocraft, convict, sentenced from Rock Island a year ago, made a murderous attack on George McCormick, a convict sent from Chicago last spring. The assault took place in the shoe shop at the state penitentiary. Crocraft used a knife, plunging it into McCormick's head and drawing it down across the cheek and neck. Other convicts became greatly excited, but the guards checked the threatened outbreak and disarmed Crocroft. He was sent to the dungeon. McCormick probably will recover.

Notable Assemblage.

London, Oct. 16.—The dinner given by the Pilgrims society to the Alaskan boundary commission at Claridge's hotel proved the most notable assemblage of Englishmen, Americans and Canadians ever brought together in London. In addition to the members of the commission the British cabinet ministers, the American ambassadors and most prominent representatives of English public life were present.

Appointed Bishop in Philippines.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16. — Information was received that Father M. P. McSorley, of the convent of the Good Shepherd, in this city, has been appointed a bishop in the Philippine Islands. Father McSorley has been a missionary for many years and lately has been priest at the convent. He was born at Phillipsburg, N. J., 39 years ago.

Origin of the Turban.

The origin of the turban must be looked for not, as commonly believed, among Moslems, but as a sign of authority and honor dating back to the earliest periods of Jewish history. The term used in the Hebrew Bible for putting on the bonnet of the high priest is from a root meaning "to bind round." The words miter, hood, diadem, as used in the Old Testament, are only variations of the word turban.

Jerome tells us that the turban has a place in the most ancient records of history. The variations as adopted by Mohammedans are many. Their own authorities hint at a thousand methods of arranging the turban, which shows not only the tribe and religious distinction, but even the personal peculiarities of the wearer.

An old legend traces the turban to an act of desperate courage recorded of the ancient Levantines. A brave band of warriors are said to have wrapped their winding sheets round their heads as they devoted themselves to certain death to save their comrades on the battlefield.

The Gopher Snake.

It has long been a question in our minds as to how the gopher snake caught the gophers on which he lives, but H. C. Heitzer tells how it was done, having witnessed a catch. Mr. Snake coiled his tail over the gopher hole, setting a snare for him. When the gopher had crawled out of the hole sufficiently to permit the snake's tail to be drawn about the body of the gopher the coil was fastened about Mr. Gopher as quick as a flash.

It was gradually drawn tighter and tighter until the gopher fell over dead, the life having been completely squeezed out of him. After the gopher is dead the snake swallows him whole, and it is not an unusual thing to find one of these snakes with a number of gophers in him. The gopher is a great fighter, and if he was not caught in a snare as the one mentioned he would doubtless make a hard fight for life even with a snake.—Tulare Advance.

While we never trouble trouble till trouble troubles us, still we are not kept waiting long between times, are we?—Atlanta Journal.

The Lowest Form of Bird.

There is a peculiar bird commonly known as the "kiwi," its scientific name being Apteryx mantelli. It is the lowest form of bird which exists, but is so scarce that scientists are having to get a specimen in any condition. It is absolutely without wings or tail, its legs are short, stubby, but very strong, and are used by this bird for digging. The body covering is a cross between hair and feathers, a material which is very coarse. They can develop great speed and make a desperate fight when attacked. Breeding them in captivity has utterly failed, and only a few museums can boast of a specimen. They are now very rarely found in the forests and swamps in the north of New Zealand.

A DEMOCRATIC SCOOP IS SPOILED BY HANNA

A BIG MEETING WAS HELD AT YOUNGSTOWN

Youngstown, October 16.—Senator Hanna nipped a scheme in the bud last night by springing an advance sheet of a document about to be issued by the Democratic state committee. This contains a series of questions which he is asked to answer. The purpose is to cast them broadcast at every meeting which he addresses in order to embarrass and annoy Mr. Hanna and also to sow seeds of distrust in the minds of the voters. The questions, so far as he read them, are of a trivial character in keeping with the Democratic campaign, but in some instances of a particularly vicious kind.

The senator sprung the document at the close of his meeting here last evening, when he spoke to several thousand people in the opera house and received one of the most flattering testimonials accorded him during the present campaigning tour.

"I have here," he said, "a series of questions which it is proposed to ask me. Perhaps this is as good a time as any to take them up. The first asks whether Representative Burton, of Cleveland, is not a good Republican, even though he opposes the ship subsidy bill. Of course he is. The next is whether I think I ought to appoint 15 members of the Ohio legislature to federal jobs, who assisted me in my fight for the senate. It is wrong there. I appointed more than 15.

"I never go back on my friends. Another is, what was the amount of my bar bill at the Neil house in Columbus during the campaign of 1898. That is a hard one. I can't answer it. I did not pay any bar bill. I don't know who did."

Speaking of the Democratic platform as adopted by the state convention at Columbus, Senator Hanna declared it to be a patchwork of falsity and fancies, stripped of every element of Jeffersonianism.

"Look at it," he said. "What is there to appeal to an old-time Democrat? Jefferson taught that the functions of government were to enact and enforce law, to protect life and property of citizens and that there its functions ended. The present platform is opposed to every act of that great man. He did not believe in municipal ownership. There is no Jeffersonianism in that. Not even sense.

"The platform is absolutely antagonistic to every principle of the American government. It is opposed to Christianity. It would overthrow society and revolutionize conditions in this, the greatest country in the world."

Col. Herrick preceded the senator and discussed state issues. Rev. S. R. Frazier presided. Before coming here for the evening meeting, Herrick and Hanna spoke at Ravenna and Kent in Portage county and in both were given kind receptions. Today there is but one meeting at Wellington in the evening. This is Col. Herrick's birthplace, and he speaks there alone.

Beautiful And Appropriate Floral Emblems Came from Near And Far.

The funeral of Mrs. James H. Goodwin was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of John S. Goodwin, East Fifth street. The services conducted by Rev. M. B. Pratt, assisted by Rev. Edwin Weary, were solemnly impressive. The home was packed with sorrowing friends and all were deeply moved while the minister paid the highest earthly tributes to the beloved woman.

Though everything kind and lovable was spoken by the minister about Mrs. Goodwin's life as a whole, the oration was based more particularly on her life as a mother. "Her entire life seemed wrapped in her home," were the words of the preacher. "She was affectionate, sweet in disposition, pure in heart and all of her happiness was derived through the happiness brought upon her home by her never-tiring efforts to please. Of no woman could more be said. Not alone was this good woman the idol of her home. She was loved and adored by every acquaintance."

At the conclusion of the touching remarks a last sad view of the body, which was lying on a most beautiful bier, surrounded by a profusion of flowers, the gifts of friends both far and near, was tendered the sad concourse, after which the body was tenderly borne to the hearse by the following persons, an honored acquaintances of the dead woman: George Barnhard, William Rowe, Hal Harker, B. M. Louthan, Dr. W. A. Hobbs and B. C. Simms. The funeral cortege was then formed and started for Riverview cemetery, where the body was laid to rest after another touching service.

Among the floral offerings was one for which the members of the family were especially grateful and appreciative. It was tendered by the employes of the Goodwin pottery and a more beautiful arrangement of flowers was never designed. It was in the shape of a wreath, fully five feet in height. At the top rested the emblem of purity and within its garlands was the representation of the gates of heaven, standing ajar waiting to receive the one to whom it was given.

Impressive music was rendered at the funeral service by Mrs. J. C. Thompson, Mrs. Charles Macrum, C. L. Gray and Teddie Brookes. They sang "Some Sweet Day," "Would Not Live Alway" and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

STOUTLY DENIES HER ALLEGATION

Owing to the prominence of the defendant in the case of Mrs. Ellen Kenney, of Pleasant Heights, versus J. F. Donnelly, a grocer and public official of Wellsville, in which the latter is charged with cutting Mrs. Kenney with intent to wound, the preliminary hearing scheduled for tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock before Mayor Weaver will be watched with interest. Donnelly is one of the most highly respected residents of Wellsville and stoutly denies the allegation made by Mrs. Kenney. Attorney W. F. Lones has been retained by Donnelly and the case will be bitterly fought.

The particulars of the case, it will be recalled, were exclusively reported in the News Review on last Saturday. According to Mrs. Kenney, Donnelly cut her while she was attempting to get him off her premises. He was there to collect a store bill and while arguing the matter got into an altercation with a brother of the woman and in the melee, it is said, cut the plaintiff.

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—The divorce case of Leonidas L. Wilson, of Unity township, versus Olive L. Wilson was heard by the court yesterday afternoon, but on the conclusion of the evidence, the case was continued for the reason that the residence of the defendant is known and she has not been personally served with summons.

They were married at Beaver, Pa., December 27, 1899, and on July 15, 1900, the wife left her home and has not returned. At last accounts she was living at Darlington, Pa. There was no prayer in the petition as to the custody of the one child born to them.

By adopting a new patrol system—in fact the only one that was ever instituted in the city—the board of public safety expects in a short time to have the members of the local police force working as they do in cities of the first class. The new plan was presented at the regular meeting last evening and it met the approval of every member.

The board has divided the city into a different order of beats and the patrol system will mean that each officer while on duty must report at given points at designated intervals. The officers patrolling in the vicinity of the Diamond will be compelled to report more often than in other parts of the city, that being a center of at least four of the total number of eight beats. At this point an officer will report every 20 minutes. Central fire station will be the headquarters for receiving reports from the policemen. At the station will be a signal which will drop when the officers make their report. Through this the fire department or any other person who wishes to know where a policeman is can easily find out. The cost of inaugurating this system will be small considering its effect and the board is being commended on every hand for its wise move.

Charles Ashbaugh, of the West End pottery, appeared before the board and complained of the size of the water plug located near the plant. He said that it is only a 4-inch plug and that a 6-inch plug is badly needed. His request was superinduced by a notification of an insurance company to the effect that if the pottery company does not see that it has better fire protection it cannot expect to get a full rate of insurance. Mr. Ashbaugh was told that the board had absolutely no money at its command for such improvements and he volunteered to furnish the money providing the board agrees to reimburse him at some future date. The question was in debate for some time and was finally disposed of by the appointing of a committee to investigate.

Chief Wyman presented a full report of the work that has been done by the police department. It was accepted after which the board adjourned.

Was Very Great, But Mr. Johnson Aroused Them and All Got Out in Safety—Contents All Destroyed. Partly Covered By Insurance.

An early morning fire destroyed the home and household effects of James R. Johnson, the well known expressman. Members of the family were compelled to flee in their night clothes from the burning structure. Had the warning of the blaze been delayed a few minutes longer the occupants would have been in great peril, as the flames were almost at the stairway when the alarm reached them. The house, valued at $1,500, is almost a total loss, and practically nothing was saved from the household effects. Mr. Johnson was partly insured through the agency of T. V. Thompson & Co.

The Johnson home was located at the Ross Meadows, about two and one-half miles north of town. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and five children were the occupants. The former arose at the usual hour this morning and after lighting a fire in the kitchen stove, went to the barn to care for his horses. Returning a short time later he was horrified to discover the kitchen a mass of flames. He aroused the sleeping members of the family and by the time they were in a place of safety the flames had covered the entire lower floor making it impossible to rescue anything of value from the structure.

Miss Mollie Johnson, a daughter who clerks at the Leader store and boards in town, was seized with a nervous attack when told of the occurrence. A physician was called and she was under his care during the day.

TOOK HORSE AND WINE

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—Ralph and Dever Duell and Reuben Wallace, the youths who took Dr. F. P. Moore's horse and buggy from his stable and 16 quarts of wine from his cellar and drove to Leetonia, were brought to the county jail yesterday afternoon by Officer John Costello.

Mayor Farrell will give them a hearing this evening on a charge of unlawfully taking and using the horse and buggy and stealing the wine. The horse suffered greatly from the hard drive.

The police have formed an opinion regarding the shooting of John Bailey, which is being accepted by all as the fact of the case. It is a well known fact that Bailey is a frequenter and good customer of C. B. Bowers, the Franklin street saloonist. The police think that Bailey went to the saloon to get a drink and after arousing Bowers failed to tell him his name. Bowers then concluded it was a burglar and commenced pumping lead in the direction of the noise. As a result Bailey got a chunk in his arm.

Petition in Partition.

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—Jennie H. Hoskinson, of Columbiana, has filed a petition in partition against Fannie F. Garrett et al, asking that her one-fifth interest in lot 44 in Columbiana, to which she is entitled as an heir of Mrs. Jennie Blecher, deceased, be set off to her. F. A. Witt is her attorney.

RAIN NEEDED TO MAINTAIN THE STAGE

Unless additional rain comes to the rescue, the river will fall to below the navigation stage within the next few days. The rain last night put a temporary stop to the decline, and all day there has been a stationary stage. The lighter packets are out and making fairly good time. The Lorena, up last night at 11 o'clock, had a good trip. She will be the down boat Saturday evening. The Ben Hur is due down at 8 o'clock tonight and the Greenwood will pass down Saturday morning.

The Hornet and the G. W. Thompson, tow boats, are reported in a bad way at Sewickley, where they have grounded at the trap. They are hard aground and cannot be pulled off until a rise comes.

FORAKER MEETING LAST OF MONTH

Chairman Dick Wanted to Change the Date, But the Plan Did Not Suit.

Preparations are going steadily forward for the big Republican rally to be held in this city some time during the latter part of the month. One speaker has signified his wilingness to address the people of East Liverpool, and it is hoped favorable replies will be received to the requests for the other men wanted.

Secretary James McGarry, of the city committee, received word this afternoon from the county secretary to the effect that Hon. J. J. Sullivan, of Warren, had acceped the invitation to speak here during the last week of the campaign, and a reply was at once dispatched that he would be counted upon by the local party men. Mr. Sullivan, it is hoped, will assist at the meeting being arranged for October 27 or 28, at which time it is thought Senator J. B. Foraker will be present.

Chairman W. L. Smith had Senator Foraker's assurance some time ago that he would address a meeting here during the present campaign, and it is believed he will certainly keep his promise. Last evening Mr. Smith received a message from State Chairman Dick in which it was proposed to send Senator Foraker to this city next Monday night. The situation was canvassed by several of the local leaders, and it was deemed inexpedient for several reasons to have the meeting arranged for that night. For one thing no suitable hall could be secured, and then the time was too short to give the rally sufficient publicity.

It was finally decided that the city committee ought to insist upon the carrying out of the original plan, which was for a demonstration on the evening of the 28th. A reply to that effect was sent to Chairman Dick, and it is likely he will act upon the wish of the East Liverpool Republicans for a meeting later in the month. An effort is being made to secure the Grand opera house for the occasion.

Extending the Car Line.

Track laying on the Little Beaver extension of the East Liverpool railway started today. Regular cars will soon run about 300 yards above the present terminus. The grading opposite the Dawson place has been seriously damaged by landslides, owing to the clay in the earth there, and measures will have to be taken to make the track more stable. About two miles of grading has been done.

Buchhagen-Croft.

Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart was the officiating minister at the marriage of Joseph M. Croft and Miss Catherine Buchhagen last evening at 8 o'clock in the First United Presbyterian parsonage. The young couple are popular and well known here, Mr. Croft being one of the Croft Bros.' grocery firm. They will make their home on Sheridan avenue, where last evening a large number of their friends were present to extend congratulations.

New Local at Cameron.

President Thomas J. Duffy, of the N. B. of O. P., returned this afternoon from Wheeling and Cameron. At the latter place he organized the operatives at the Benedum plant into a local union, to be known as No. 74.

NUZUM'S LAST WORDS PRODUCED AS EVIDENCE

Lisbon, October. 16.—(Special.)—In the Clunk murder trial the state rested its case at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and several witnesses for the defense were examined before adjournment was taken at 5 o'clock until 9 o'clock this morning.

One of the interesting features of the testimony yesterday afternoon was the introduction of the dying declaration of the murdered man, Frank P. Nuzum, in which he brands his slayer, Anthony M. Cunk, as a wanton murderer. Clunk and his wife were expected to be star witnesses today, as both were sworn yesterday afternoon among the witnesses for the defense.

Nearly three hours were taken up yesterday afternoon with the expert testimony of Drs. T. B. Marquis, George H. Albright and W. C. Nevin, the three Lisbon physicians who attended Nuzum on the morning of the shooting, Dr. Albright continuing to attend him until his death. The testimony of the doctors related to the nature of the wound, its condition at different times and the course of the charge of shot after it had penetrated Nuzum's groin. The charge had passed backward, outward and downward, but as to whether its general course was due to the position of the gun or whether it had been deflected, the witnesses agreed that they were unable to say. Between 20 and 30 shots were removed from the wound.

At the conclusion of the doctors' testimony the ante-mortem statement of Frank P. Nuzum was read to the jury by Prosecutor Brookes. It follows:

"Lisbon, O., July 17, 1903. I, Frank P. Nuzum, believing that I am about to die, and that I cannot recover, do make the following statement: I am 50 years of age and a resident of Elkton, Columbiana county, O. On the 20th day of May, 1903, I was at my home in said village of Elkton and at about 7 or 8 o'clock a. m. the small step-daughter of Anthony Clunk came to my house and said that her mother wanted me to go up to their house to repair the burner on an oil stove. Anthony Clunk lives in the old Crook property in Elkton, O., near the P., L. & W. railroad, so I went up to the house.

"The oil stove stood on the east porch. When I went up I stopped on the porch and examined the stove. I twisted one of the valves on it and the oil squirted down on my hands. I talked with Mrs. Clunk some little time about the stove, after which Mrs. Clunk got a pan of water for me to wash my hands, which I did and then walked to the towel, which was nearby, and was wiping my hands when I heard some one coming in and saw that it was Anthony Clunk. He seemed mad when he saw me. I was in the kitchen wiping my hands.

"As soon as he came in he began to swear and said: 'I'll kill you, you dirty ——. I said I would if I ever found you alone with my wife. I'll kill you, —— you.'

"I said: 'Why, Tony, you have no

The Police Busily Engaged in Carrying Out an Order of the Safety Board.

The members of the police department were busy today carrying out an order issued by Chief Wyman yesterday afternoon. The chief instructed them to get the names of every saloon keeper and their bartenders and also the names and locations of every supposed disorderly house on their beats. The order was issued as a result of the following rule appearing in the rule book compiled and accepted by the board of public safety:

"The chief shall, from time to time, cause to be made a report of all gambling rooms, saloons, suspected houses of ill-fame, resorts of thieves, receivers of stolen property, disorderly houses and all suspicious persons, and furnish the same to the board of public safety."

Browning, Mont., October 16.—(Special)—James Little Plume admits the murder of the seven people killed on Sunday on the Blackfoot reservation.

Cook-Neiger.

A wedding of interest to many local people was that of Miss Ida M. Cook and Mr. William H. Neiger, of Steubenville, which occurred on Wednesday at the First M. E. church. The bride is well known in this city, having been the guest of her aunt, Mrs. Elizabeth Little, on a number of occasions. The wedding was an auspicious event in the social circles of Steubenville. The groom is employed with the Armour Packing company of Greensburg, Pa., where Mr. and Mrs. Neiger will reside after a wedding tour.

No Alaskan Boundary Agreement.

London, October 16.—(Special)—The Alaskan boundary commission has reached no decision, no vote having been taken. The story to the contrary is denied. It is admitted that there is pessimism in Canadian circles.

THE JUSTICES' BUSINESS IS MOST FLOURISHING

The local justices are up in arms over a story in a morning publication, written supposedly by some one for the purpose of putting a "black eye" on their very flourishing business. To a News Review reporter, a 'squire said this morning:

"Dip your pen in gall and in the most scathing words at your command denounce the man who wrote that story as one prone to misrepresent and not one that seeks to give the public the facts."

It was stated by the irresponsible scribe that non-support, assault and battery, family quarrels and other cases which formerly furnished local magistrates with material upon which the wheels of justice might grind are known no more in the offices of the 'squires. This the justices deny, styling the statement as an absolute fabrication. They contend that business was never better, and that they were never better satisfied. One of them stated that he has six non-support cases now pending.

The story is also denied at the mayor's office, the chief executive having entertained but one case since his regime. He has been pestered with numerous family quarrels, but in the most of the cases he has referred them to a 'squire.

All That the Butchers And Grocers Propose to Allow Hereafter.

The Butchers' and Grocers' association met last evening and established a rule that accounts must be settled every two weeks. The association as a body will employ but one collector. The new system will be put in effect at once.

The movement is receiving favorable commendation among other business men. Numerous men and firms engaged in other lines of business have made application to join the association, and a business men's association to include all mercantile and other establishments is likely to be the outgrowth.

News and Notes About The Potteries

TRENTON'S CERAMIC SCHOOL.

Trenton, N. J., October 16.—(Special.)—Preparations are being made by the officials of the Trenton School of Industrial Arts to place on exhibition the Alice Maddock collection of rare and costly china which was exhibited by the latter in this city several months ago. The collection is perhaps one of the most valuable in the world, containing specimens of old antique patterns manufactured by the Chinese down to the finer grades of modern times. The china has all been received at the school and now awaits the construction of suitable cases before being offered for public inspection. The completion of the cases, which are to be handsome so as to correspond with the artistic value of their contents, will be completed about the first of next week.

The purpose of Miss Maddock in giving to the school her collection was that students might obtain a knowledge which would be beneficial in their practical work. A large majority of the students at the school, especially those in the art department, are employed in the local potteries. The school is supported largely by contributions of local pottery manufacturers who feel that it has proven the greatest value to them in the production of highly decorated ware in instances where some of their employes go there for instruction. Charles Howell Cook has frequntly made this statement and above all other has contributed much toward the advancement of the school. Mr. Cook is a member of the board of trustees and frequently designs originated by the students have been used in adorning the decorative product of his plants.

In addition to the art department there is a department where modeling is taught. The shelves about the building are adorned with specimens of the students' work, most of which is modeled in clay from life models. This department has had a particular influence upon the product of the Trent and Providential Tile companies output, as their modelers, who attend there, have frequently modeled designs on tile which have come from the students of the art school.

The local potteries have recovered from the effects of the Inter-State fair and have again settled down to business. All the plants are busy and large shipments are being made of winter and holiday goods. Most of them are consigned to the large department stores and to stores that deal in crockery exclusively. The general ware plants for the first time this year report an abundance of business. Current demands are keeping the majority of the plants well supplied with orders, aside from the requests for holiday specials. Even in this city the stores report that the demand has increased. At the beginning of the year most of the potteries were compelled to shut down owing to the scarcity of business. Since then the orders have been coming in in such large quantities that they feel that this season will equal that of 1902, which was the greatest financially in the history of the local trade. Very noticeable is the falling off in the demand for scheme goods, which was so large last spring. It seems that summer is the best time for canvassing, and this was the time for which most all the crockery was needed.

Word has been received here of the death of Samuel Scherratt at Washington, where he conducted an art studio for many years. His widow and nephew, Thomas Baines, will continue the business. Scherratt was 45 years old and was formerly a decorator in Jesse Dean's factory in this city. He left here 12 years ago for Washington, where he opened a studio for instruction in amateur china painting. Scherratt operated two kilns for the firing of amateur products.

WHEELING DISPUTE SETTLED.

The dispute between the warehouse girls and the management of the Wheeling Potteries company, which President T. J. Duffy, of the N. B. of O. P., was called upon to take in hand, has been settled. The new scale for the warehouse girls has caused considerable trouble at several plants, but the greatest difficulty was experienced at Wheeling. It is evident that the girls there have been very poorly paid, the rate for inexperienced girls being but 50 cents per day. A year's apprenticeship entitles them to an increase of 10 cents per day. In this city the lowest wages paid are 87½ cents per day, the 10 per cent increase bringing the rate here up to 96 cents. The girls at the LaBeile plant went on a strike last Friday, but soon returned to work pending a settlement. They asked that the same scale be adopted as is in force here, but the firm refused. Then President Duffy was called into the controversy. He attended a meeting of the local a few nights ago and as a result the girls have returned to work. As Mr. Duffy is still absent from the city the terms of the settlement could not be learned, but it is to be supposed that the firm agreed to pay the full rate as provided in the new scale, which is operative in the entire western section. The firm has refused to make any statement.

FOR THE WEST ONLY.

Considerable has been said about the final details of settling the pottery wage scale for the next two years. This interesting document is now in the hands of Secretary Ed Menge, of the N. B. of O. P., and the only thing required to make it complete is the signature of President T. J. Duffy, he being absent from the city when the document, bearing the signatures of Joseph G. Lee, president, and W. E. Wells, secretary, of the Western Manufacturers' association, was sent to headquarters for the signatures of the Brotherhood officials. While the final negotiations were carried on with the United States Potters' association, an organization of potting firms from all over the country, the new scale is binding only on the western manufacturers and operatives. The eastern manufacturers claim that the uniform lists of the west are acceptable to them if they can be enforced without trouble. The objection of the eastern jiggermen and others, however, has so far prevented their adoption.

The agreement embodies the amendments and changes agreed to by the two committees and states that it is to remain effective for two years, from the first of October, 1903, to the first of October, 1905.

EXTENSIVE IMPROVEMENTS.

In conversation with a member of the firm of the Spear Clay Manufacturing company of Vanport, it was stated that a very complete system of improvements has been put into the works there, consisting of new pans, new crushers and a 40,000 daily capacity Frease brick machine. The company is giving special attention to building brick and paving block, and Col. James M. Porter takes the entire output of the factory. Clarence Fairfield, of Pittsburg, is the superintendent and is meeting with the very best success.

GIRLS GAIN A POINT.

The girls employed in the biscuit warehouse at the china works will not lose their lunch hour, but they will have but 15 minutes instead of the half hour, as was the case before the new wage agreement abolished the lunch hour entirely for those working at day wage. The girls claimed a differential owing to the flint which they encounter. Their strike has been on for about a week, but they will return to work at the rate of wages provided in the uniform scale, but they gain the quarter hour for lunch. The strike was of rather serious consequences, as several other departments at the plants suffered because of it.

POTTERY NOTES.

J. W. Elliott has moved to Crooksville, where he has a situation with the china company.

The trial of the New Castle Pottery company, for the alleged importation of workmen, will take place in Pittsburg November 9.

Ed Messer, formerly of this city, who has been working at Minerva, has moved his family to Crooksville, where he has taken a position.

Manager McCarron, of the Shenango plant, is making an excellent record. It is said he recently captured the largest order the firm has had during the year.

THE LOCAL BANKS MOURN HIS ABSENCE

Moundsville Man Missing, Leaving $10,000 or $15,000 of Worthless Paper Behind.

Moundsville, W. Va., October 16.—John K. Bowen, one of the most prominent citizens of Moundsville, is missing from his home, and three local banks have discovered that his paper to the aggregate amout of between $10,000 and $15,000 is worthless. B. E. Hiatt, cashier of the Farmers' and Mechanics' bank, has sworn out a warrant for his arrest, charging him with obtaining money on false pretense. The investigation made by officials of this bank has already disclosed the fact that $460 worth of paper held by it is absolutely worthless.

Bowen's credit was considered excellent, and he had no difficulty in securing money. It was only when the paper matured, and Bowen was confronted with the certainty of exposure that he took safety in flight. Descriptions of Bowen have been sent to the police of other cities. Men who worked as salesmen for the Range & Implement company, which he organized, are being asked to identify the signatures to many of the notes, and some of them are already pronounced fraudulent.

CLAIMS THE TITLE OF MARRYING 'SQUIRE

The title and honor of being the "marrying 'squire" has long been in dispute among the three down town justices of the peace and now there is a fourth contestant in the person of Justice L. W. Carman, of the East End. It is not often that Justice Carman claims distinction for his deeds, but in this case he is certainly justifiable and must be heard. Because of his location in the East End it should not be taken for granted that the opportunities for tying nuptial knots are limited.

During the past 30 days Justice Carman has been called upon just 15 times to unite the lives and fortunes of young couples, and the end is not yet. He has been spoken to by several prospective grooms and before the week is out will officiate at other weddings. Last night he officiated for a well known widower who married a handsome young widow.

Justice Carman has served as justice for several years and has married couples of such tender ages that the consent of the parents was necessarry and couples who were old enough to know better. His office has been a veritable Gretna Green and he has earned a reputation of being as silent as the grave when the couple desired to escape publicity. Not one of the many knots has been untied or sought to be broken, a record that is truly wonderful. Most of the couples have settled in or near the East End and have prospered.

Two Cases Set for Today Postponed Owing to Delay in Securing Service.

The two suits set for hearing this morning in the court of Justice L. W Carman were not taken up owing to the delay in one case of obtaining service and the failure to do so in the other. At the time the action was commenced in the case of William and Kate Might against P. R. Woolam, on a promissory note, amounting to about $28, the hearing was set a week in advance so that service could be had on the defendant. Constable Powell, to whom the papers were entrusted, searched for Woolam for several days, but failed to find him in the city. When he had about given up hopes of locating him he heard that he was in Wellsville and later found him there. It was too late, however, to permit of the hearing today.

Mack Marshall, who was made defendant by W. L. Bennett in a suit to recover a small grocery bill, has not been located and in consequence the hearing of the case has been postponed. The constable has searched the entire city for Marshall, but evidently he has disappeared. No person has been found who knows his whereabouts.

MRS. ALTER DELIGHTED A LARGE AUDIENCE

Mrs. Jeannette C. Alter, the missionary, delighted a large audience with her lecture at the Second U. P. church last night. Mrs. Alter talked of the humorous side of Indian life and related many amusing experiences of her work among the Warm Springs Indians of Oregon and the Sax and Foxes of Iowa. She also gave many interesting facts concerning the characteristics of the red men.

Miss Jeannette McConnell, in full Indian costume, assisted the lecturer and many thought the young lady a real Indian. She took the part nicely and even her closest friends failed to recognize her.

Those who attended the lecture will be interested to learn how Mrs. Alter was prevented from making a mistake that would have kept her from reaching the church in time. There was some confusion as to the date of her appearance here and at Calcutta, and Mrs. Alter had been told that she was to be at Calcutta last night. Arriving at the station she attempted to board a car for uptown, on her way to Calcutta, when D. Frank White recognized her and asked her destination. The necessary explanation followed and instead of going to Calcutta Mrs. Alter took a car for the East End, arriving just at the hour appointed.

"Johnson is neither a Democrat nor a Republican, therefore no Democrat or Republican should vote for him," says a Cleveland man who knows Johnson's weak points and tells them.

"Democratic references to what Mark Hanna did in 1896, with accompanying declarations that he can't do it again, are fatal admissions that it is the same old Democracy and the same old attack on national prosperity." In this sentence the Pittsburg Gazette sizes up the situation in a way that apeals to every voter.

Johnson's orders to drive Democrats off the ticket for the legislature in Lucas county have been obeyed, and now there are none but Jones nonpartisans to vote for, for senator or representative in Toledo. Where would Clarke come in should they be elected? They have repudiated the resolutions of the Johnson state convention to begin with and are not obligated to Clarke in any way.

Two years ago in a careful, studied argument, John H. Clarke answered absolutely every assertion in all the Tom Johnson talk about railroad taxation in Ohio. He showed that Johnson's statements were false as to fact by irrefutable evidence and baseless as to law, citing the unanswerable authority of the supreme court of the United States. Last year at a public meeting where Johnson made false statements about the railroads for which Clarke is general solicitor, Clarke had manhood enough to correct him then and there. In all these two years, however, Johnson has kept right on with the same false statements of fact and law. He makes them now on the same platform with Clarke. They are as false as ever, but Clarke says never a word. Nothing has changed but Clarke. What ails him?

JOHN DENNIN HELD FOR COURT

The hearing of John Dennin, better known as "Pittsburg Jack," who was arrested early Wednesday evening charged with having assaulted little 14-year-old Sadie Chloe Fishburn on the previous evening, was held at 6 o'clock last evening before Mayor Fogo, in the presence of a large crowd of interested listeners.

A number of witnesses had been called, among whom were Harry Rinestein, Mrs. Dennin, Andrew Fishburn, Mrs. Freeman, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Mann and little Miss Fishburn, Dennin's victim.

The girl was the first witness examined. Her testimony, after identifying Dennin, was of a sensational order. She explained just how Dennin had approached her and how he had treated her up to the time that she cried for help.

The child said that she had first seen Dennin at the foot of the Wells Hollow hill, and at that time he was talking to Mrs. Andrew Freeman. He turned to her as she was passing and asked her if he could carry her basket of groceries for her, and she gave him no reply. As she was nearing the Adams home, where she was living, Dennin approached her coming up the hill, and after Dennin had laid his hands on her she screamed for help. Her cries were heard by Mrs. Adams, Ida Adams, Mrs. Mann, who resides in the neighborhood, and Harry Rinestein, who was working on the Adams farm.

Mrs. Mann at once ran to her door and saw a man run down over the hillside. She could not therefore identify Dennin as the man. She did not see the girl.

Harry Rinstein said that as soon as he heard the girl's screams he ran in the direction from where they came. He said that the child's cries were most pitiful. He had a good look at Dennin, but did not attempt to catch him.

Mr. Mann at about this time happened down the road with his horse and wagon. He asked the girl what was the matter, and, pointing to Dennin, who was disappearing over the hillside, she said: "I wish that you would kill that man." Dennin was gone, however, before Mr. Mann could make an effort to get him, and Rinestein was unable to find him.

According to the testimony given by Mrs. Dennin her husband arrived home at 5:50 in the evening, one hour after the assault. He had left the house at 8 o'clock in the morning to go to work. She said he remarked to her and to a neighbor, Mrs. Freeman, that the local authorities were after him and that he had better go in hiding. This all happened long before the warrant was sworn out.

Dennin had nothing to say other than to plead not guilty. The mayor bound Dennin over to court in the sum of $500.

Chief Houser said he simply told Denning that the mayor wished to see him and did not mention anything regarding the case. Dennin at once protested ,and said that he did not touch the girl, thereby almost confessing his guilt.

FOUR MEN AT WORK

A large gang of Italian laborers who are employed on the excavation of the pump pit for the new water works pumping station, and who have been working under the employment of the Duquesne Engineering company of Pittsburg, who have the contract for the work, have gone on strike for higher wages.

These men have been receiving $1.50 per day and claim that they were promised a raise of $1.75 per day. This amount they did not receive on the last pay day and now the men want either $1.75 per day and rubber boots for working in the pit, or $2 per day and they will furnish the boots themselves. The contractors will not give in to this demand, and as a consequence only four American laborers are now working on the excavation and the work is progressing very slowly. An effort is being made to secure men to fill the places of the Italians, but the contractors have been thus far unsuccessful.

A bowling contest which was scheduled to have been held last evening at the Arlington alleys, did not come off on account of the failure of the East Liverpool team to show up. It was to be a game among the junior bowlers, between Wellsville and East Liverpool teams. An effort will again be made to hold this contest next week.

The bowling alleys have been newly remodeled, the alleys planed and shelacked and new sets of pins installed and everything is now in good shape for the winter's sport, as all of the big contests are to be held at these alleys.

The old bowling team, composed of Messrs. Shingler, Hall, Harsha, Dennis, Aten and Karr will soon get together again and it is expected that a contest with the Imperial team of East Liverpool will be held here at an early date.

Foot Ball Gossip.

The Bruno, Jr., foot ball team, of this city, will go to Alliance Saturday morning, and on Saturday afternoon will do battle with one of the junior teams of that city with whom they have made satisfactory arrangements. Several of the younger enthusiasts of the city will accompany the team. An effort is being made by the management of the Wellsville Athletic association for a game to be played in East Liverpool tomorrow afternoon with the West End Rovers of that city and if satisfactory arrangements are made the two teams will meet at the time stated.

Out in Indiana an electric railway system and the Clover Leaf steam railway are working together, instead of fighting each other. The traction company gathers up the crowds that fill up the railroad excursion trains. The alliance for the excursions is sent broadcast as a new step in transportation service. The tacit agreement between the two companies is a new step, but, in fact, the electric roads are all the time delivering to the steam roads much traffic, and steam railroad men in Indiana, admitting that the electric lines are taking practically all of the short-haul local business, say that the electric lines are largely responsible for a marvelous increase, not only in long-distance hauls, but also in the bulk of travel, and for doubling the patronage of excursions. The electric lines are growing in extent and importance all the time and the railroad company that seeks to put them out of business is pursuing a policy of ludicrous folly. Co-operation will be better for both, for both are here to stay.

"The most successful governments are those in which the average public servant possesses that variant of loyalty which we call patriotism, together with common sense and honesty. We can as little afford to tolerate a dishonest man in the public service as a coward in the army. The murderer takes a single life; the corruptionist in public life, whether he be bribe giver or bribe taker, strikes at the heart of the commonwealth." These are the words of President Roosevelt. Actions speak louder than words, and the president by his official acts is demonstrating that the above are his true sentiments.

The acquittal of Jim Tillman, while not unexpected, is a disgrace to the state he lives in. Had he been a negro he would probably have been lynched without ceremony. Certainly he would have been hanged. But because his skin happens to be white he goes unpunished, though he murdered a man in cold blood. Until the people of South Carolina adopt and act up to the principle that killing a man is as much a crime when an intelligent white man is the offender as when an ignorant negro transgresses the law, they cannot expect the rest of the world to have a high opinion of their civilization.

The state board of health of Ohio has adopted a regulation by which its secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 500 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day. It is a commendable and humane step, and the effort should be warmly seconded everywhere.

Ex-Senator Pettigrew, a name once familiar in congress and political circles, is colonizing Boers in Mexico. Mr. Pettigrew found so little to please him in his own country that his change of base might have been anticipated.

Uncle Joe Cannon says he would be willing to walk to Ohio to speak for Foraker. It won't be necessary. Let him arrange to come on. Transportation can be provided.

Grover Cleveland says it is the duty of every good citizen to interest himself in politics. True enough, but not in Grover's kind.

Russia and Japan each want to revise the map of Asia, but each prefers that the other should begin the work.

Bryan is going to speak at Woodsfield. What is the matter? Is Monroe county doubtful this year?

Senator Platt manages his love affairs with the same shrewdness that he has shown in politics.

AT THE THEATER

A radical departure will be made from repertoire usages by the Himmelein Ideals at the Grand next Wednesday night, when "The Sultan's Daughter," a screaming funny comedy, will be the offering. From time to which the memory of man runneth not it has been the custom of popular priced companies to present nothing but melodramas. This play will be found to be an agreeable deviation from the established custom. It is intended for laughing purposes only, and will furnish more good, clean, genuine fun and wholesome amusement than any three farce comedies of modern times.

The true heroism of women is often shown by their self-sacrifice and abnegation. Man, by his physical superiority, publicly displays his heroic deeds to greater advantage than the weaker sex, but it is to the latter that mankind must admit his inferiority. Nowhere is this phase of feminine self-sacrifice so strongly shown as in the beautiful, romantic play, "When the Bell Tolls," which will be produced at the Grand tonight. The plot is as uncommon as the title and scene succeeds scene in power and intensity. The comedy interwoven is of a high character and the auditor is held spell bound with the stirring situations.

The story of the Russian melodrama, "For Her Sake, which comes to the Grand Saturday night, leads the spectator through the lights and shadows of a life's journey whose ultimate destination is peace and happiness, but whose intermediary stages offer some thrilling scenes of trial and tribulation. There is one scene showing the road to Siberia which is said to be of intense human interest and thrilling effect. There is a ball room scene which is described as being a sumptuous and accurate reproduction of life among the Russion nobility. The piece throughout is handsomely staged and the company an adequate one.

"What form of government have we in the District of Columbia?"

The pupil hesitated an instant. Recalling that the district commissioners had been busy making addresses at the several commencements then in progress, she explained in true schoolgirl style:

"I'm so surprised to hear your wife likes the house so much; it's so small."

"Yes, but there are lots of closets in it."

"True, but they're extremely small too."

Used the Whole Book.

"That count," said Miss Baltimore, "will never do for me. He is too wasteful and profligate in his habits."

"Why, what has he done now?" asked her friend.

To Introduce New System Will Give Consultation Free to All Patients.

The French-American association of Expert Specialists of New York city are now visiting a few of the principal cities of our state. To introduce their new system of curing disease they will give consultation, examination, advice and medicine free to all patients taking advantage of this offer DURING THIS VISIT.

Deafness cured by an entirely new system. No matter what your disease may be or of how long standing, the doctors will locate your disease without ASKING YOU ANY QUESTIONS. The DOCTOR is said to be the greatest Lung and Catarrh Specialist in America. If you have catarrh or lung trouble go and be examined. The sick and afflicted should take advantage of the opportunity offered here. They may never again have the privilege of consulting such skilled physicians so near their homes. Go and have it forever settled in your mind. If your case is curable, they will tell you so frankly; if incurable, they will give you such advice as to prolong life. No sick man or woman should fail to consult these eminent men. It is the greatest opportunity of the sick man's life.

If you have Rheumatism, Liver, Kidney or Bladder trouble, Paralysis, Heart Disease, Nervous Debility, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Epilepsy or St. Vitus' Dance, go and be cured by their new system.

Every kind of human ill falls at the touch of these marvelous men, and so great and wonderful have been the cures that in many cases it is hard indeed to find the dividing line between human accomplishment and miracle. It matters not what the ill may be; it matters not what discouraging reports may have been made from any direction; it matters not death stares you in the face. Go and consult these doctors and if there is the finest thread upon which to hang a hope you will find that hope there, and the hope will surely lead you to the blue skies of peace, contentment and health.

Thousands who have given up all hope of ever being cured have now the opportunity of a life time to consult doctors of a national reputation. Remember their knowledge of medicine combined with electricity gives them a control of disease that others do not possess. If you have weak eyes, if you are hard of hearing, if you are lame and cannot walk, this new system will cure you quickly.

If you suspect kidney trouble bring a two-ounce vial of urine for chemical and microscopic analysis.

Go early as their offices are always crowded. If you are improving under your family physician do not come and take up their valuable time. They wish to give each one plenty of time, but cannot listen to long stories not pertaining to your case. Idlers and curiosity seekers will please stay away; their time is valuable.

THESE DOCTORS are skilled specialists and will be found ready and willing to extend the hand of help, bring back health and happiness where now exists sickness and sorrow.

How Trees Are Like Human Beings.

Nature has many peculiar laws governing the organism of trees. One is that every individual twig, spray, all the foliage, every fiber, takes precisely its own thickness of wood from the parent stem. This same law is manifested in the proportions of the human organism. The length of the arms from finger tip to finger tip (arms extended) is the precise measurement of the length of the legs of a human being, and other measurements are the same in proportion.

MAKING COAL CARS

The Davis-Price Machine company, of New Cumberland, has recently equipped its factory with new and up-to-date machinery adapted especially for the manufacture of coal cars. It took a contract for 20 cars, to be built right away for the Verner Coal company, of Bulger, Pa., also a like contract for the Brilliant Coal company, of Brilliant, O. It has just completed and shipped out an order for 300 cars for the Pittsburg Block Coal company at Unionvale, O.

This factory employs quite a lot of skilled workmen in its several branches and runs almost night and day to meet its demands. This branch of the business but recently added, has called for quite a number of additional men. Pending the action of the city council it will, if given a permit, lay a siding into the factory that will be a great saving in the way of receiving and shipping.

THE OLD RELIABLE

Absolutely Pure

THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE

Captured No Game.

A party composed of Watt Allison, Dick Simms, Poney Moore and Andrew Hutchinson visited the vicinity of Chester yesterday in search of game. They were all armed with shotguns and their object was to capture a groundhog for a sick friend. They scoured the country, and were energetic in their efforts, but failed to bag any of the coveted game. Their friends in Hancock county assert there is not a man in the crowd who could hit the side of a barn with any sort of a gun.

ON THE GEER FARM

The First of a Number of Test Wells Will Be Put Down.

The men interested in the development of a vast amount of oil territory in and about Chester have wound up the deal for the last of a number of leases, and active operations will begin at once.

John Webster and Albert McDonald were out in the territory this morning and located the first of a number of test wells on the farm of Bert Geer. The land under lease to the new oil and gas company covers a wide area and it will be several months before the tests are completed.

The company has closed a contract with a Mr. Hyte to do the drilling, and he will start within a few days on the Geer well. Messrs. Webster and McDonald authorized the drillers to begin work at soon as it is possible to get the apparatus on the ground.

Word was received in Chester yesterday that Earl Stewart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harland Stewart, was very ill with pneumonia at the home of his aunt in Pittsburg. The mother of the boy left last evening for Pittsburg, and will remain until he recovers. Young Stewart has been in Pittsburg in the employ of the Westinghouse company for some time, and was attacked with the dread disease only a few days ago. His condition was reported as dangerous.

Bank Equipment.

The remainder of the books and stationery for the new First National bank of Chester were received by the officers this morning and the institution was able to begin the second day's business under the most favorable circumstances. The business of yesterday was very gratifying to the directors, and was even better than the officials had anticipated.

CHESTER NOTES.

Lawrence Baxter, who has been in the country for a week, has returned to his home on Adolphus street.

Mrs. James Chambers, who has been a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar McCoy, has returned to her home at New Cumberland.

The first month's salary of the school teachers in Grant district is due and is being paid by Secretary A. G. Pugh, of the board of education.

An application will be made to the Chester council this evening by Bebout & Marquet for permission to erect a scale in the vicinity of the firm's new coal yard.

The well drilled by Meldrum on the Stewart Brothers farm in Grant district came in a duster. A well will now be put down by the same party on G. A. Geer's farm.

The steamer John Moren, with a large dredge boat, is at the foot of Baker's Island, taking the coal out of the sunken barge there. The coal belongs to the new combine.

The Black Horse Works of the American Fire Clay company have shipped in the last three days 61 cars of brick. They are very nearly cleaned up of the entire summer's product.

The Marquet Coal company is not running near full time, owing to the scarcity of cars. It is prepared to mine and ship out about 20 cars per day, but the output has been very much decreased for the reason stated.

O. S. Marshall was over at Washington, Pa., looking up some titles and securing abstracts on some farms lying in Washington county, owing to the coal deal that has been pending with eastern parties and McElfresh & Cooper.

A number of citizens who have been following the stock markets in their gradual scaling down have been called upon very recently to duff up the cold cash to meet the slump in margins. It is said that several thousand dollars will not make some ambitious investors whole. One man said he had had enough and his next deal would be plain poker. He has some chance of getting to handle the cards occasionally in that game, but in the stock market the other fellow dealt all the time.

A Widespread Vanity.

In these days there seem to be as many writers as there are readers. The spread of authorship and its egregious pride is hit off in this dialogue from the Fliegende Blatter:

Between the two classes of upper and under servitors in England the line of demarcation is drawn with even greater sharpness than between those of master and mistress. Often for the meat course these two classes dine together in the servants' hall. When this is the case absolute silence is preserved during the time, as it is a point of honor with the upper class, composed of butler, lady's maid, groom of chambers, valet, housekeeper, etc., not to share household secrets with those below the salt, and also they have no mind to listen to the prattle of their inferiors. For subsequent courses the upper servants repair to the "housekeeper's room," where are spread relishes and desserts superior to those provided for the others, and conversation goes on unchecked. At the present day this "housekeeper's room" is the scene of regular late dinners, at which visiting servants, if of the "upper class," are present. At the servants' parties, in order to avoid confusion, it is customary for them to adopt the names of their masters, so that while real dukes and duchesses feast above stairs their duplicates or doubles masquerade below.

right to kill me; your wife and I have done nothing wrong, and she will tell you so. I have not wronged you in any way.' He got a shot gun; I did not notice where he got it. I was sort of backing away from him and got near or in the door from the kitchen to the sitting room. Clunk said: 'Lie down, ——— you, lie down,' and drew the gun up and fired.

"The charge struck me in the right groin. I did not fall when he shot me, but caught the door facing and held myself up by that. Mrs. Clunk asked her husband not to shoot. She screamed I believe, but not until after the shot was fired.

"I had been at Clunk's but a few minutes until Anthony shot me; I would say not more than about 20 minutes. Clunk said after he shot me that he did not intend to do it, but it looked as though he did, for he drew the gun up rather deliberately. He said that it was an accident.

"As soon as Clunk got the gun and was getting ready to shoot, Mrs. Clunk ran into another room and hid; at least, was out of sight. After I was shot, I dragged myself out onto the porch and laid there until the men carried me down home. I had no conversation with Mrs. Clunk after I was shot and none with Anthony Clunk, except what I stated above, and I said to him that it was awful for him to shoot me.

"The foregoing statement is made by me believing that I am about to die from the aforesaid wound, and said statement was written by L. T. Farr at my request.

"FRANK P. NUZUM,
"His X Mark.

"[Attest.] G. H. Albright, Stella Hoffie."

At the time the statement was made Nuzum was too weak to sign his name.

The state rested its case after the introduction of Nuzum's dying declaration and the examination of witness for the defense commenced. W. S. Potts and Judge Firestone, both of Lisbon, were introduced as character witnesses for Clunk.

Charles McCord, who was a witness for the prosecution yesterday, was called by the defense and said that as he passed close to the open door of Clunk's home the morning of the shooting he saw a half emptied glass of whisky on the kitchen table.

Kim Hawkins was also recalled and said that when he arrived at the Clunk home soon after the shooting and found Nuzum lying on the porch Nuzum said to him: "I ought not to have been here, but Tony ought not to have shot me."

John Dowler, a near neighbor of Clunk, heard the shot on the morning of May 20 and hastened to investigate. He met Clunk coming out on his way to Reynolds', his nearest neighbor, to call a doctor. Clunk told him what he had done and why, saying: "I expect they'll hang me for it, but I had to do it."

Dowler said that Clunk appeared much worried and excited. The witness went to Clunk's house and found Nuzum lying on the floor of the kitchen. He could not see the wound and fearing that Nuzum might be in danger of bleeding to death before the doctor came, went down town for assistance. Returning with Kim Hawkins he found that Nuzum had crawled out onto the porch, where they placed under his head a pillow which Mrs. Clunk brought out. Nuzum remarked that it was "——— hot inside." Clunk returned then and Nuzum held up his hand to him, saying: "Tony, shake; I had no business here, but you ought not to have shot me."

Clunk replied that he could not help it. The witness said he had known Clunk for 20 years and said he would contribute with others to a fund for Clunk's defense.

Court opened promptly at 9 a. m. today and the examination of witnesses for the defense was resumed. Rather slow progress was made and it is clear that the case will not reach the jury before tomorrow or Monday.

Joseph W. Reynolds was called and was questioned as to Nuzum's religion or lack of it, and said he had heard Nuzum call the Elkton M. E. church "Hell's Half Acre" and heard him say all the trouble in Elkton started from it. He further said that he had seen Nuzum several times after the shooting and that he seemed to be somewhat delirious at times, after the doctor's had commenced to give him morphine. The witness said Clunk had a good reputation as a law-abiding citizen and that Nuzum was honest but very profane.

Mrs. Nancy Adams said she had heard Nuzum say with reference to the Creator that he did not care for Him and he would do as he pleased. He called church members hypocrites.

W. F. Kemble, a Lisbon gunsmith, who extracted the charge from the left barrel of Clunk's shot gun at Sheriff Leonard's request, testified to that fact. He said a light pressure on the hammer of the right barrel, the one fired by Clunk, would send the hammer down without any pressure on the trigger. The spring was very weak but it required some force to raise the hammer.

"The Store That Saves You Money"

Mi-o-na Makes Thin People Fat—Will Reed Will Return Money If It Fails.

Everyone needs real nourishment; then comes good health, strength and endurance. Without it, you waste away. Nearly every one eats food enough to furnish the necessary nourishment for the perfect support of life, but the food is not assimilated and there follows indigestion, weakness and emaciation.

A few days' use of Mi-o-na, the wonderful flesh-forming food, will demonstrate its power to furnish real nourishment and restore health. Mi-o-na mingles with the food you eat, aids assimilation, tones up and strengthens the digestive organs and puts the whole system into proper physical condition.

By its use, the elements needed to increase flesh are assimilated from the daily food and each week will show a noticeable gain in weight.

Will Reed knows personally of many cases of long standing stomach troubles, some of them very bad, that were entirely cured with Mi-o-na. The thin and scrawny have used this preparation and by its aid have gained real nourishment.

Will Reed feels that he can honestly recommend Mi-o-na and as an evidence of his faith in the merit of the article, offers to sell it with the distinct understanding that the money is to be refunded in every case where it fails to do all that is claimed for it. You risk nothing in buying Mi-o-na, and if it gives the desired health, the cost is trifling, only 50 cents a box. If it fails, Will Reed will pay for the remedy himself.

: GUARANTEE BOND. :
: price paid for Mi-o-na if the :
: purchaser tells me that it has :
: not increased flesh and given :
: freedom from stomach trou- :
: bles. WILL REED. :

This guarantee bond is plain and simple and it positively assures you that when you commence the Mi-o-na treatment you run absolutely no risk. You simply deposit 50 cents for a box of this flesh-forming food with Will Reed and if after using it you do not feel that you have been benefited, you go back to his store and he will return your money without any question or argument.

It is a true flesh-forming food combined with elements that regulate the digestive organs and remove congestion and irritation from the stomach, liver and intestines. Mi-o-na will restore firm, healthy flesh, fill in the outlines, and give a pleasing plumpness and symmetry.

The discovery of Mi-o-na, the remarkable flesh-forming food that builds up good, healthy, solid flesh and makes thinness and scrawniness a thing of the past, has revolutionized medical practice in certain lines.

Its power to do all that is claimed for it was so clearly proven to Will Reed that he has sold Mi-o-na with the understanding that if it fails the purchase price will be refunded.

Will Reed certainly exhibited courage in taking up this method of selling Mi-o-na, but the results have fully proven his judgment that the Mi-o-na treatment for stomach troubles, emaciation, general weakness and run down condition is the only efficacious and reliable cure.

Mi-o-na possesses healing and soothing qualities that make it especially valuable in cases of chronic indigestion and dyspepsia. Two or three tablets taken each day in connection with the regular food prove it a true flesh-former.

All that many a woman lacks to be positively pretty is a little more flesh on her face. To look haggard or not fat is never becoming. The use of Mi-o-na will cure this defect.

With every 50 cent box of Mi-o-na that Will Reed sells, he will give a written guarantee to refund the money if it does not give an increase in flesh and restore strength. What a trifling cost this is if it makes you well; if it fails, the expense is absolutely nothing.

The action of the board of public safety in refusing to permit policemen, in uniform and while on duty, to attend athletic contests at West End park, is meeting with condemnation from lovers of sports. The interurban high school contest, played Wednesday, was delayed at least an hour because of the absence of a policeman, the crowd swarming onto the field despite the protests of the players and the officials. Had there been one policeman present the crowd could have been held in check.

"These out of door games, that provide healthy exercise and innocent amusement for so many people, should be encouraged," said a prominent citizen who witnessed the game, to a News Review reporter. "The action of the board will do much to discourage it, I'm afraid, as the people will not care to go to the park when the spectators are permitted to crowd upon the field. The delays are most annoying and then one has to join the crowd to see the plays. One member of the board used to play foot ball and I'm surprised that he would deal such a blow to the sport. Had he seen the last game, I'm sure he would alter his decision and send two policemen down to keep the crowds in check."

Having defeated Wellsville in two games the East Liverpool high school eleven will seek other fields to conquer. Captain Geon is now trying to arrange a game for Saturday week with the Lisbon high school eleven, and should he be successful it will prove a gala day for the high school. The eleven will make the trip overland, starting from this city some time during the morning and returning after the game. A large party of rooters will accompany them.

Captain Geon will probably ask that the Lisbon eleven post a forfeit as a guarantee that none but bona fide members of the high school are to play in the game. There is not a ringer on his team and he wants to keep the sport clean, so that a victory will be worth rejoicing over and a defeat not disgraceful.

EXCITING MATCH AT BOWLING

Two Local Teams Played an Interesting Series on Williams-McDonald Alleys.

Another interesting bowling match was played on the Williams-McDonald alleys last evening, the competing teams being under the captaincy of Woods and Kearns. The Woods aggregation won two out of the three games. The individual scores follow:

An army of coaches is now at Cambridge trying to get the Harvard team out of the state of demoralization into which it was put by the sturdy players of Amherst.

The Chicago Nationals have now won 7 of 12 games in the 15-game series for the championship of Chicago, and the White Sox must win three straight to escape defeat.

A great deal of dissatisfaction has been expressed among certain citizens within the past few days at the neglect of some of the city officials in allowing the Diamond fountain to remain out of order. The men who had formerly attended to the pumping apparatus have been refused the sanction of certain of the officials, and for that reason it has been impossible to make some slight repairs. Thus one of the most universally patronized public conveniences is denied the citizens, all because of the red tape of the new code, too rigidly observed by municipal officers. A prominent business man said this morning:

"East Liverpool has fewer public institutions than any city of like size in the country. Our Diamond pump is one of these, and it is a shame that our people are denied the privilege of patronizing it. The older citizens can remember that the fountain was maintained for a good many years by the business men and merchants, and through their efforts was made a blessing to our own people and visitors to the city as well. When the city took up the task of caring for the pump the matter was turned over to the firemen, and they have performed their task well and faithfully. The apparatus became useless a few days ago by reason of some slight break, and the usual plan was followed out in the matter of making repairs. No trouble has ever been encountered in having bills for supplies honored by the authorities. Imagine the surprise of the firemen when they sought to obtain authority to proceed with the repairs in learning that there was not an official or board in the makeup of the city administration who would assume the responsibility of authorizing an expenditure, however small. Fireman Rose made application to one source and was referred to another department, and so on until he had made the rounds without succeeding in accomplishing the desired end. Now, red tape is all right in the army, and it is not out of place in several municipal departments, but I think this is going too far.

"Thousands of citizens had been accustomed to drinking the water many times a day. Many of them imbibed the water as a tonic, owing to the peculiar qualities of the liquid, while others have become so accustomed to the beverage that they find it extremely hard to do without it. For the sake of these people and in order to avoid being made the laughing stock of sensible men, let some one of the departments take up the matter and order the pump started."

Columbus, October 16.—(Special.)—The Ohio man at the present time, like the Ohio fall campaign, is a sort of a national issue, according to reports just filed in this city. He manifests his beneficial activity in all walks of life, including the political arena. Why Ohio is such a nation power is shown by the appended report which indicates that there are over 1,000,000 native born Ohioans in other states throughout the union. Only in South Carolina and Maine is the number of Ohioans so few that these states have been placed in the scattering list. The table follows:

New Hampshire, 442; Vermont, 449; Massachusetts, 5,353; Rhode Island, 678; Connecticut, 2,330; New York, 26,219; New Jersey, 5,553; Pennsylvania, 57,436; Delaware, 368; Maryland, 3,204; District of Columbia, 4,348; Virginia, 3,799; North Carolina, 828; Georgia, 2,542; Florida, 2,731; Indiana, 178,334; Illinois, 137,161; Michigan, 88,290; Wisconsin, 19,036; Minnesota, 18,971; Iowa, 88,146; Missouri, 80,996; North Dakota, 4,391; South Dakota, 7,106; Nebraska, 40,980; Kansas, 88,298; Kentucky, 38,539; Tennessee, 10,353; Alabama, 4,020; Mississippi, 1,538; Louisiana, 2,545; Texas, 10,588; Indian Territory, 3,302; Oklahoma, 15,049; Wyoming, 3,336; Colorado, 24,824; New Mexico, 1,768; Arizona, 2,100; Utah, 2,525; Nevada, 741; Idaho, 3,815; California, 54,869; Alaska, 705; Hawaii, 216.

Good Resolution Adopted.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—The state board of health adopted a resolution by which their secretary is directed to take steps to prevent the sale of "toy pistols and other explosive appurtenances." The resolution recites that 600 persons were killed, 100 made blind and 1,000 others injured on the last Fourth of July. The board therefore declares it to be the duty of the health authorities to abolish the evils attendant upon the celebration of Independence day.

Go Prepared.

In preparing for your summer outing a little forethought may save you no end of trouble. Mr. John H. Manly, a dry goods merchant, of Beliville, R. I., while packing an outfit for camping a few weeks on Narragansett Bay, put in a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for emergency use. The second day in camp his little boy was taken with cramp colic. The first dose of this remedy gave relief and the second dose effected a cure. Think of the pain and suffering this boy would have had to endure without this remedy at hand to relieve him. Such cases often result fatally. For sale by Alvin H. Bulger.

ELOPING WOMAN IS A SUICIDE

The culmination of the eloping of John M. Stone and Miss Mattie Reeves, two prominent residents of Parkersburg, who stopped in this city for two days and nights, making themselves quite conspicuous during their visit, the particulars of which were exclusively published in the News Review, has caused one of the greatest sensations Parkersburg people have ever experienced. Miss Reeves lies a suicide in Salt Lake City, Utah. Stone has returned to his home and is now suffering the scorn and contempt of his every acquaintance, all of whom at one time held him only in the highest esteem.

The pair, after leaving East Liverpool, evidently headed immediately for Salt Lake City. After living there as man and wife for a few weeks, under the name of Stout. Stone deserted the woman after a violent quarrel, without giving her the least idea of where he was going. Worry over her desertion and other conditions caused the poor woman to take her own life. After leaving the woman, Stone nerved himself and returned to Parkersburg, where he left a wife and several small children.

The story of the tragedy at Salt Lake City is given in a dispatch to a Parkersburg paper and shows that the couple lived together under assumed names:

"Fearful lest her husband had deserted her, Mrs. Mattie J. Stout, living at 151 East Tenth street, committed suicide last night by taking carbolic acid. For a time it was thought that the woman would recover, but she passed away at the Holy Cross hospital shortly before noon, despite the efforts of the doctors to make it otherwise. There is an air of mystery surrounding the whole thing. The Stouts, it appears, came here about a month ago, moving into a neat little cottage at the address given. The house was comfortably furnished and the husband and wife seemed to be much devoted to each other.

"Saturday morning Mr. Stout, who is said to be about 45 years of age, left the city, stating to his wife, according to her story, that he was about to look afer some mining propery. That evening, it is said, Mrs. Stout was seen at one of the depots in search of him. She is also stated to have told that her husband, prior to his departure, had written her a letter, in which he said that he loved her, but that he had left her for another woman. These stories, however, are so contradictory, that little credit can be given either of them.

"Sunday night Mrs. Stout went to the police station and told the officers that her husband had deserted her and had taken all her money, amounting to $5,000. Refusing to go home unless accompanied by an officer, she was taken home, stating on the way, that she intended to commit suicide. This she did later on by swallowing carbolic acid. The note left by her read:

"'I must tell you, Mr. Stout has left me with all the money I had. He has taken all I have. He has left me alone. Write to me about Mr. Stout. I am taking carbolic acid and will die tonight. I will give this world up forever.

"There were also found in the house a large number of letters, some of them addressed to Mrs. Mattie Stout and others to Miss Mattie Reeves at Rutherford, W. Va. These were in the nature of love letters and were signed by James Stone. Stout bought twelve thousand dollars worth of real estate lately."

Stout told a Parkersburg reporter in the course of an interview, during which he wept like a child, that he had returned to the scenes of his former success and expected to become a man among men. It was evident from his conversation that he had decided to turn the course of his life and would do all he could to repair the damage he had done to his trusting relatives and friends. He denied emphatically that he went away with Mattie Reeves, alias Miller, and branded as false all that had been said about him having gone with any woman. He arrived Tuesday and was much broken physically and in spirits.

A later dispatch says that Mrs. Stout, when she killed herself, had nearly $600 in cash in her trunk. She was 22 years old and a strikingly beautiful woman. The body is unclaimed.

"HOME-RULE" TICKET.

The Most Overwhelming Defeat Ever Administered There to Any Candidate of Any Party in Any Election—Why Not Heed the People Interested?

The initiative and the referendum are doctrines of the Johnson Democracy approved in his platform and borrowed from the Socialists. It has been exploited as an essential element in the Johnson "home rule" program, about which he makes such an everlasting outcry. If either of these innovations is to amount to anything in practice, there needs to be acceptance of the verdict of the people at the polls by all parties to any controversy.

The referendum has recently had a trial in the second county in this state in a matter wherein the initiative has largely been promoted by the campaign zeal and activity of one Tom L. Johnson. This gentleman is mayor of Cleveland, Cuyahoga county. He seems to have in some way or other obtained the impression that it devolved upon him to look after the welfare of all the other cities and counties in the state of Ohio. Advocating what he calls "home rule" every day in the week, every hour in the day, even snoring "home rule," he persists in pushing upon other counties his own notions in regard to their affairs. This led to the referendum vote mentioned. This was taken last Novmeber at Cincinnati, Hamilton county; about as big as Mayor Johnson's own city and quite able to take care of itself.

The question in issue was one concerning the street railroad system of Cincinnati. The people there had received a number of valuable improvements in their street car service in recent years as a direct consideration for an extension of the franchise period granted to the local company. It was found that the state law authorizing this extension was invalid because it was a special act, but the Cincinnati people having value received according to their bargain and being honest men, stood ready to make good their agreement. Accordingly the Ohio legislature enacted the curative act so-called, for the purpose of protecting the contract mutually entered into. Mr. Johnson has taken it upon himself to attack this act. In fact he is trying to capture the political control of the entire state upon this purely local question. Being mayor of Cleveland and this being a Cincinnati matter, as he always puts it, the "home rule" is somewhat absurd that makes his decision about it final as to the whole state.

Particularly is this true, since the people of Cincinnati have themselves voted upon the question. Mr. Johnson exercised his initiative whether he had any right to do so or not. He nominated the Cincinnati man at the head of his state ticket last year and both of them campaigned in Cincinnati upon this matter. The referendum resulted in the defeat of Johnson's man on Johnson's platform by the people of Cincinnati with 24,000 majority against him, the most overwhelming defeat ever administered there to any candidate of any party at any time. That was the "home rule" verdict on the curative act. Every time that Johnson has opened his mouth about it since, it has been in flagrant defiance of his own "home rule."

Railroaders Resisted Two-Cent Fares For Fear of Wages.

Never has there been any partisanship about the two-cent fare bills. They have been introduced in the legislature and supported by members of both parties, and opposed regardless of party lines. The railroad labor organizations have come up against them every time and have caused their defeat. Johnson is playing with fire when he makes a party question out of this matter.

As for Clarke's sudden conversion to the cause, what has he ever done for it as general counsel for a big railroad, where his advice might help it? If he believed in it, why did his nearest friend vote against it in the legislature? W. F. Maag, the Mahoning county Democratic member of the house, was a member of the committee on railroads and telegraphs, which smothered these bills. On a test vote in the house April 28, 1902, Mr. Maag voted against even considering a two-cent fare bill. That showed where he stood. Maag is so close to Clarke that he refused a re-nomination until after Johnson nominated Clarke, making the race now only on Clarke's account.

Another case showing how Democrats stood on this question was that of the Franklin county Democratic delegation. Representative Bracken tried to get such a bill through, and was refused a renomination. Senator Thompson and Representative McNamee helped to defeat it, and were renominated. Johnson hopes for their reelection, too, just as at Youngstown in his speech he specially praised Maag and ignored the other Democratic candidate for representative. This is consistency in chunks.

"EL MOCHO," DIPLOMAT.

General Jose Manuel Hernandez, who, as minister plenipotentiary, will re-establish the Venezuelan legation at Washington, is called by his countrymen "El Mocho" ("The Maimed"). The nickname is a term of endearment and indicates the popularity of the battle scarred veteran, who in thirty-three years has fought in over a dozen rebellions, sometimes for, sometimes against the government. It was in one of these rebellions, in a battle at Ciudad Bolivar, that one of his fingers and part of another on the right hand were shot away; hence the nickname.

first under fire in 1868, when he took part in the revolution which overthrew General Falcon. He fought against Guzman Blanco and was sent several times to prison.

Some years later he was in the United States, where he remained, studying and traveling, until 1896. Returning to Venezuela he became in 1897 the candidate of the Conservative party for president. The government declared his opponent, Andrade, elected. Hernandez appealed to the supreme court and was thrown into prison by Crespo. He was released in February, 1898, and in ten days had raised an army and led a revolt against Crespo, who was slain in battle.

In October, 1899, General Hernandez started a revolt against General Castro. After many battles he was defeated and imprisoned. He was in and out of prison several times until Dec. 12, 1902, when he was released upon his declaration of a desire to aid his country in the troubles which threatened with England and Germany. Appreciation of this action of the old warrior and revolutionist was shown by his appointment as minister to the United States.

Cold Comfort.

Fussy Passenger—Why does your company insist that passengers must purchase tickets before entering the train? Are they afraid if we pay money to you that you will steal it?

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

CLEMENS WRITES A LETTER.

New York, Oct. 16. — Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain) has written a letter to the Woman's Municipal league on the subject of the coming election, in which he says:

"I should think that any humane and honest person would rather be convicted of one robbery and one murder than become a cold and deliberate confederate in wholesale robbery and wholesale murder by voting a Tammany ticket.

"Certainly, if anything is proven up to the hilt, Tammany's financial history and health statistics of 1901 prove that Tammany's especial and remorseless trade is wholesale pillage and wholesale destruction of health and life."

Boris Sarafoff Reported Killed.

Salonica, Oct. 16.—The military operations in Macedonia are slackening, although there are occasional reports of fighting at various points. Instructions have been received to cease making Salonica the base of operations against the insurgents and the orders to send more Anatolian troops to Salonica have been countermanded. A large insurgent band was dispersed Oct. 13, near Marhovu, after eight hours' skirmishing. The Turks lost 40 killed and wounded, while the losses of the insurgents reached 250. Circumstantial reports have been received here that Boris Sarafoff was killed Oct. 12, in a skirmish at Pruva, near Florina.

Relief Fund for Flood Sufferers.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 16.—The relief fund for the sufferers from the recent flood in this city now amounts to about $10,000. It will be used in supplying clothing and household effects for the persons who are most in need. A bill is to be introduced in the special session of the legislature, now in session at Trenton, to authorize Paterson to issue bonds to the amount of $300,000, the money to be used in repairing public bridges and highways and other damage caused by the floods.

Dr. Taft Reported Dying.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 16. — Dr. Jonathan Taft, the venerable professor of the dental department at the University of Michigan, is reported dying at his home. A short time ago he was stricken with a partial stroke of paralysis and was unable to recover from the shock.

SOLDIERS SCORNED.

"I have no use for the soldier anyway," was Tom L. Johnson's response to Mrs. Isabella Alexander of Cleveland, at that time senior vice president of the Woman's National Auxiliary of Spanish War Veterans' now president general. This characteris- speech was made by him on April 22, 1902, when the lady asked him if he surely would be present as his secretary had promised to make the address of welcome as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet to be given the next evening in honor of the returning Cleveland veterans from the war in the Philippines. At that time medals were presented to 289 soldiers who fought for their country in the Orient. When Mrs. Alexander asked Mayor Johnson to deliver the address of welcome, he said he did not want to have anything to do with the affair. She said she thought it was his place to welcome the city's returning soldiers, especially as his name had been printed on the program and it would be too late to make the change. It was then that Mayor Johnson cut off all further discussion by saying: "Well, you can have any one of my directors, but I won't be there, because you know I have no use for the soldier anyway."

"I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags." This was another speech by Mayor Johnson of the same sort. He made it to Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 268, Grand Army of the Republic, who resided then at No. 22 Orchard place, Cleveland. Mr. Allen was out with a subscription paper to raise funds for a new flag for their post. When he called on Mayor Johnson and handed him the subscription paper, he threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor, with the speech that we have quoted.

Something may have suddenly angered Mr. Johnson on both of these occasions, but it is a strange coincidence that in each case his wrath should spend itself upon the soldiers of the nation.

Another instance of the kind with no spite shown by him in connection with it occurred in 1901, when the G. A. R. men asked him for a contribution toward defraying the expenses at the Grand Army national encampment held in Cleveland that year. In this case the multi-millionaire mayor of Cleveland did not contribute, a single cent and was about the only man with any prominence in Cleveland who failed to give to that fund.

Another explanation for these things is current among the soldiers both of the Union army and of the Spanish-American war. That is that Mayor Johnson is not friendly to the boys who wore the blue. Their evidence of it is in the fact that not once since he has been mayor has he complied with the custom by which the chief magistrate of the city has reviewed the Memorial day parade of the soldiers and their friends. In 1901, right after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York city on Memorial day. In 1902 and 1903 he declined to review the parade, although on the latter occasion he sat in his red devil on Wood street instead of in the reviewing stand in front of the city hall.

The soldiers in Cleveland of both the wars do not forget these slights and wrongs put upon them by Mayor Johnson. They naturally expect their comrades throughout the state to treat him as he deserves for such detestable conduct toward the defenders of the flag.

No land will be sold for taxes under the Tom Johnson-Henry George plan. The scheme is to make the single land tax high enough to begin with to take the land outright for the state without any sale about it.

Toledo Jones goes away ahead of Tom Johnson on street car fares. He wants free fares, just like riding in an elevator, and the people to pay the bills out of the taxes.

"The two-cent fare or walk," says Johnson's personal newspaper organ in Cleveland. It would certainly do away with all manner of excursion rates, and the trains that carry thousands every week in Ohio for a cent a mile or less would be taken off. What gain would there be in that for the multitudes who now ride much cheaper than two cents a mile?

What did Bryan mean at Napoleon when he said: "My friends, I wish that Mr. Clarke agreed with every plank in both these platforms?" Doesn't that mean trouble for Clarke on the senatorship should the Democrats get the legislature, and the Silverites or the Jones men should hold the balance of power? Isn't it a hint that Clarke is good enough to do the talking and capture what voters he can, but needn't expect to be elected senator?

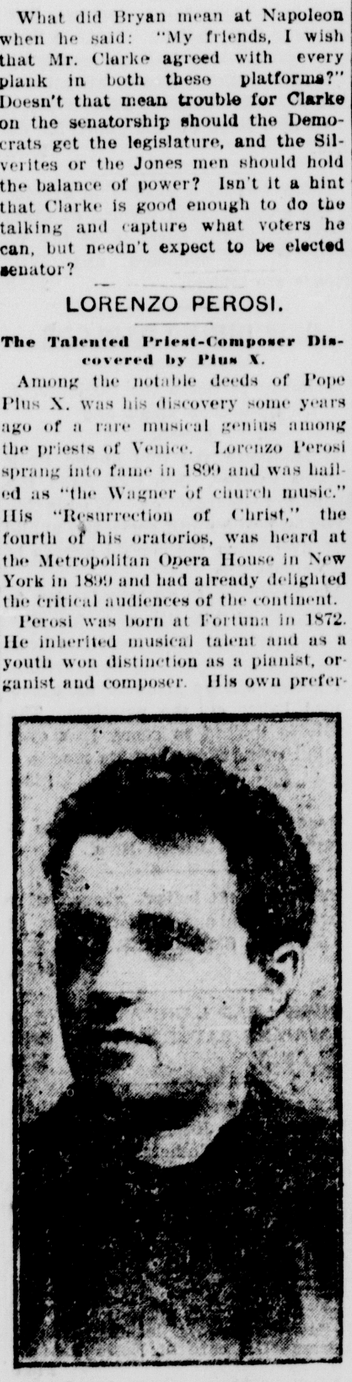

LORENZO PEROSI.

Among the notable deeds of Pope Pius X. was his discovery some years ago of a rare musical genius among the priests of Venice. Lorenzo Perosi sprang into fame in 1899 and was hailed as "the Wagner of church music." His "Resurrection of Christ," the fourth of his oratorios, was heard at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York in 1899 and had already delighted the critical audiences of the continent.

Perosi was born at Fortuna in 1872. He inherited musical talent and as a youth won distinction as a pianist, organist and composer. His own preferences led him to the priesthood, and he put aside a musical professorship to assume the ecclesiastical habit at Venice.

Cardinal Sarto interested himself in the priest-composer and when he had produced his first oratorio, "The Passion of Christ," launched him among the music lovers of Venice as a new star in the firmament of song. Perosi is small of stature and insignificant in appearance except when inspired by music. As a conductor he becomes very excited and is more acceptable to the audience in that role than to the musicians he leads.

"Microscopist" is usually pronounced mi-cros-co-pist, is a horror of articulation, besides concealing the plain meaning and derivation of the word. But if we first say "micro" and then "scopist," taking care to place the stress on the first syllable, we get easiness, pleasantness and common sense. There are hosts of others, but none quite so terrible as "microscopist" as it is commonly pronounced or tried to be pronounced, for it reigns in a sort of pinched, rheumatic, splendid isolation, "high on a throne of royal state, by merit raised to that bad eminence."—Verax in London News.

Why He Carries a Cane.

"You see, carrying a stick is not only very proper, but it is also a very useful accomplishment. Why, don't you know, a man who always carries a stick never loses an umbrella. By carrying a cane I get so accustomed to having something in my hand that if I start away without it I miss it before I have gone half a dozen steps. Now, when I carry my umbrella it is just the same. There is nothing like habit. Try it, and you will never lose an umbrella."

The mosquito wanders pretty much all over the world, and is found from the tropics to Lapland, where it is also a great pest. So numerous are mosquitoes in some localities in South America that the wretched inhabitants sleep with their bodies covered over with sand three or four inches deep, the head only being left out, which they cover with a handkerchief. Even thick clothes afford at best a very partial protection, being readily penetrated by the proboscis.

TO PLAY LOVEY MARY.

Miss Mabel Taliaferro, who will play the part of Lovey Mary in the forthcoming production of "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," is one of the best known of the younger actresses on the American stage. When but three years old she made her debut in "Blue Jeans" and since that time has developed from the sweetest of child actresses into a young woman whose knowledge and mastery of her art presage for her a future of brilliant success.

Miss Taliaferro has appeared in many plays. She made a decided hit in Zangwill's "The Children of the Ghetto," and in London a critic epitomized her as "a Duse in temperament and a Maude Adams in appearance." In this dismal play, in which she was the one bright spot, Miss Taliaferro enacted the role of the little mother-sister with a grace and sympathy that endeared her to the hearts of her audiences.

When but thirteen years old she received a salary of $75 a week. Among the plays in which she has appeared are "The Prince of Peace," "Patent Applied For," "Killarney," "Mavourneen," "Fair Virginia," "The Ensign," "Human Hearts," "Minstrel Claire," "Sweet Inniscarra," "The Silver King," "The Banker's Daughter," "The Girl I Left Behind Me," "Lost River" and "A Ride For Life." She has played Eva in "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and as a member of the old Lyceum theater stock company in New York played all the children's parts in its repertory.

Of Miss Taliaferro the late James A. Herne once said, "She is the greatest child actress in the world," and other high estimates of her ability in the past as well as the present are numerous.

Three years ago Miss Taliaferro left the stage temporarily through the advice of her manager, George Tyler, to go to school in Massachusetts. Mr. Tyler believed that "infant prodigies grow up to be mediocre if their talents are continually forced," and it is the belief of those who have watched Miss Taliaferro's development that her short cessation from stage work has been of decided benefit to her in many ways, and they confidently expect to see her make the "hit of her life" as Lovey Mary.

TALKING OF MEN'S GOOD CLOTHES.

Good Clothes moderately priced, we mean, do you know that the productions of Stein-Bloch & Co., and Garson Meyer & Co., and A. B. Kirschbaum & Co., surpass the merchant tailors' makes, though the merchant tailors' cost you double the price? There has been quite an evolution in the manufacturing of men's fine clothing in the past few years. The merchant tailor is relegated to the back ground—pays more for a single suit pattern than these clothing kings charge for an entire finished suit. We are just frank enough to acknowledge it. Our tailoring department would charge you—must charge you $25, $30 and $40. For no better suits than you can find in our ready-to-wear department

AT $15 AND UP.

A WORD MORE ON THIS SUBJECT—you try on a ready-to-wear suit and you see its finished effect—there is no disappointment—if there is a slight alteration necessary, we will make it without extra charge.

Business in Our Men's Furnishing Store Is On the Increase

The great efforts we have made of late in neckwear have met with just reawrds. We have paid 25c and 50c a dozen more for better trimmings—more liberal widths—or finer silks and satins—in other words we have curtailed our profits in the interest of business building and we find it pays.

OUR UNDERWEAR

is now bought direct from the mills and few stores in a city the size of East Liverpool can boast of this progressiveness. One must buy in quantities--To trade direct with the mills and selling must increase proportionately. The results with us have far exceeded our fondest expectations.

Columbus, October 16.—Laden with small fish by the thousand, the only piece of railway rolling stock owned by the state of Ohio is now out on its annual mission. There is but a brief season in each year when the car is called into service, but its work is important. Baby bass, cat fish and cropples are the passengers who ride at the state's expense, destined to be placed in the various streams that the finny tribes may not become extinct.

Hurrying over the state goes the "Buckeye," for so is the fish car named. Haste is necessary, as the cargo is perishable, and there is a keen anxiety to get it properly disposed of. The results of the work are not immediate, but within a few years—from two to four—there will be many a fine catch from the fry that is just now being placed in favored nooks. Gamey fish are the kind propagated, those of value as food. The sportsman enters into the plan with enthusiasm, while he who uses a net secretly at night thinks of the good times coming.

The work of distribution is all planned from the office of the state commission at Columbus. Applications have been sent in by person who desire to stock certain streams, the kind of fish wanted being designated, together with the name of the waters in which it is proposed to plant them. The route for the car to traverse in making the distribution is then prepared. Explicit instructions are sent to applicants, telling just what must be done to receive the fish. The state keeps its part of the agreement and woe to the man who does not keep his.

All the applications received this year with two exceptions will be filled. In those instances the points are so remote from the route of the car that it would not be possible to successfully forward the fish. The commission endeavors to keep within the appropriation made by the state so that expenses must be kept to a minimum.

When a station is reached where a consignment is to be delivered Colonel Porterfield quickly locates the persons who are to place the fish. The transfer is quickly made, the fry being poured from the state cans into those brought by the recipient for the purpose. It takes but a moment to empty a can. Then as the car goes on its way the fish left behind are at once loaded into wagons and hauled to the stream. There in the spot chosen the cans are emptied and the little fish begin to shift for themselves. Deep holes are selected, so that winter may cause no bad results. There are other enemies than mankind to be avoided, but nature makes the fish wary and they care for themselves.

In rare instances the chief warden is able personally to supervise the planting. An occasional accommodating railway official is encountered who, when there is time, attaches an engine to the car and takes it to the stream, where the transfer to the water is made direct from the state tanks.

On part of the trips Colonel Porterfield has with him the superintendent of the state hatchery, George Morcher, whose experience in the care of fish makes him valuable on the car.

The car is an object of unending curiosity during its travels and rarely does it stop but that it is besieged with visitors. It is the dyed-in-the-wool fisherman who fully appreciates the work. He looks at the great schools in the tanks and grows enthusiastic. The seiners and netters are "toasted" and predictions made about the future of "Red creek" when the little fellows attain maturity. The sportsmen give way to a party of ladies, who look and admire, and ask innumerable questions. Then come the children, anxious to see what many of them cannot understand. One little fellow lingered long under the impression that the car was the abiding place of a theatrical troupe. His disgust was apparent when he was enlightened.

Many of the visitors come aboard with the evident idea that they are to see a display of whales. Frequent requests are made for a sight of the big fish. But they are disappointed, for the car carries only the small fry. A standing joke on the car is to point out the "land sturgeon" which find their way occasional into the tanks. Interest is quickly aroused in the uninitiated, but it is lost when the "sturgeon" is recognized as a common, though well-fed tad-pole.

The crew this year is composed of three persons, Col. J. C. Porterfield, the chief warden, who is in charge; William Buck, the attendant, and Seymour Gibbs, the chef. The latter has accompanied the car on all its tours for the past six or seven years. He is thoroughly familiar with the work and an invaluable aid to Col. Porterfield. With the limited force carried there is work for all, and frequently it is quick work.

The fish are scooped from the tanks with a small net and placed in cans just before a delivery is to be made, from one to three and four thousand being placed in each receptacle. When the train stops there is a great hurry to locate the men who are to receive the fish, to transfer the fry from the state cans, to reload and be ready to move with the train.

The care of the fish is an important duty. Constant attention must be given. The temperature of the water in the tanks is watched and if it goes up ice is resorted to. The air pump is also used to keep the water in good condition. At any long stops the tanks are thrown open and kept so until the train is ready to move. Despite the utmost caution a small per cent are lost.

In this connection a strange state of affairs is revealed. It is a well known fact that "the big fish eat up the little ones," but in the tanks where few are to be found more than an inch or two long it would be supposed that all would be safe. But numerous instances are found of little fellows trying to swallow others as large as themselves, or nearly so. The result in such cases is fatal to both, one being killed and the other choked by the one it tried to eat.

The state maintains the fish hatchery near London and there each year an increasing number of small fish are raised. It is the rule that a commonwealth does not appreciate the value of the fish in the streams until they are gone. That is not quite true in Ohio, but from the amount of illegal fishing in many sections it is certain that a considerable number of the population either do not appreciate the effects of their nefarious work, or do not care. Despite these discouraging conditions the work of stocking the streams goes on, and with it an effort to secure proper observation of the laws.

Only natural methods of propagation are followed. Carefully tended, the small fry grow until fall, when they are ready to be transported to the streams. It is impossible to count their number, but the most reliable estimate places this year's production at a half million. These are now being distributed. Half have already found homes in the clear waters of streams far and near, and before the week is ended the work will be completed for the year.

Experience demonstrated that only by having a car suitably equipped could the small fish be transported over the state. The need is supplied by the "Buckeye," purchased some eight years ago. It stands untenanted in a shed at London during 11 months of the year, but the work done the twelfth month fully pays for its keep. It is not a luxurious car, nor is there extravagance aboard it. It is arranged for work only. It has accommodations for the working force, but there is no inclination to prolong the work for the sake of living on the car. It is quickly deserted at the end of its trips.

The general lines of the car are those of an ordinary day coach, from which in fact it was remodeled. At one end is a snug little office where Colonel J. C. Porterfield, the chief fish and game warden, holds forth and directs the work of distribution. In the other end is a well equipped kitchen. The middle section is given up to the fish tanks below, above being the berths for the crew. There are accommodations for only five persons, so that the tours not only do not, but cannot assume the form of a junket. The meals served are plain and substantial without frills.

From place to place the car journeys, traveling over many railroads, with a fixed route and purpose, until the work mapped out is completed. Then the "Buckeye" is returned to its quarters and the chief warden takes up the work of protecting the streams, in the hope that they may again be filled with the finny tribe.

ROMANTIC COURTSHIP ENDS IN MARRIAGE

Wheeling, October 16.—Rev. George W. Way, the idol and medium of the local Spiritualists, was married yesterday to the girl whose face he saw in a prophetic vision before ever he had seen her in person or become acquainted with her. The young woman is Miss Mamie S. Helling, the daughter of a wealthy farmer residing near Martin's Ferry.

The marriage is the culmination of a romantic courtship beginning with the day Rev. Mr. Way first met Miss Helling, being a case of love at first sight, since the medium had previously seen the face whom God had destined to be his wife in a vision.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the groom on South Main street and was witnessed by only a few friends and relatives of the principals. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. J. M. Francis, of Washington, Pa., a Spiritualist minister. Mr. Francis was authorized by County Cerk Robertson some weeks ago to perform the marriage ceremony. Rev. Mr. Way is the only minister of the cult he professes in this city and it became necessary to have another authorized to perform the ceremony, inasmuch as he could not marry himself. Mr. Way is 30 years of age and his bride is 20.

HADN'T PAID FOR STOCK HELD

New York, Oct. 16.—The entire time at the hearing of the United States Shipbuilding company investigation before Referee Oliphant was given up to the taking of testimony covering the incorporation and organization of the company in New Jersey. Frederic Seward, Horace Gould and Kenneth McLaren, young men connected with the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, who acted either as incorporators or directors of the shipbuilding combination, were called to the stand and examined at length as to the circumstances under which they served the promotors of the enterprise.

Frederic Seward, who had served as a director, was questioned for three hours, the inquiry covering his connection with the company from the time Alexander & Green asked him to serve as a director until he resigned when the permanent officers were elected. His stay on the stand was prolonged because he would not admit that he was a mere "dummy," acting under the orders of the counsel of the company. He held that he had used his independent judgment in voting on the many important questions determined by the directorate when he, Louis Daily and Harold Newman, of the Corporation Trust company, were the three members of it.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the bondholders, questioned him at length with the object of showing that he had not paid for the share of stock that he held; that he knew nothing of the value of the properties acquired by the votes of himself and his associates, and that everything done by the directorate was at the instance of counsel and the mere formal carrying out of orders.

Seward admitted that he did not know the location of the plant nor the character of the business of the Harlan Hollingsworth company, Moore & Sons, and the Canda company, and said that he was under the impression that the Bethlehem plant was located at Homestead. Seward and the other temporary directors acted upon the increase in the capital stock of the company from $3,000 to $45,000,000, voted for the issuance of securities to the amount of $71,000,000, and decided other matters of importance, and the testimony indicates an intention to attack the validity of all those transactions.

It is claimed that the original directors were simply "dummies," and that while the forms of the law were closely followed at all of the meetings, none of the directors were properly a holder of stock and that none of their acts was of legal value.

The hearing went over until next Wednesday, Oct. 21, when Lewis Nixon will take the stand. He was sworn at the close of the hearing, but did not give any testimony.

THE "OPEN" SHOP QUESTION.

Chicago, Oct. 15.—Discussion of the question of the "open" shop by representatives of labor and capital took up the greater part of the first session of the National Civic Federation conference, which is endeavoring to establish more rightful relations between employers and employes, and to end strife.

Various phases of the matter of freedom of employment, which is now agitating the industrial world, were presented by interested persons. The discussion will be continued to-day, when it will become general.

During his talk on the "open" shop John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers, strongly denounced the non-unionist and the strike breaker, whom he likened to a criminal.

Henry C. Hunter, of New York, it is announced, will be among the speakers on the "open" shop at today's session, at which Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, is expected to preside. Senator Hanna it was said, would be in charge of Saturday's meeting.

The guests included Secretary and Mrs. Cortelyou, Admiral and Mrs. Dewey, Assistant Secretary and Mrs. Oliver, Lieutenant General Young, Major General and Mrs. Corbin, Mrs. Wood, Mrs. Hunt, Commissioner and Mrs. Garfield, General Lodge, Sir Kaye Muir, Dr. and Mrs. Thorndike, Mrs. Thackara and Miss Hitchcock.

SHERMAN STATUE UNVEILED.

Washington, Oct. 16.—With impressive ceremonies an equestrian statue of William Tecumseh Sherman was unveiled here in the presence of official Washington, the president at its head, and thousands of veterans, members of the societies of the armies of the Tennessee, Cumberland, Ohio and Potomac. As the two large flags enveloping the statue were drawn aside by William Tecumseh Sherman Thorndyke, the 9-year-old grandson of the dead chieftain, the cannon of the Fourth artillery boomed a salute and the Marine band struck up the "Star Spangled Banner." Sucess marked every detail of the ceremonies, which were in charge of Colonel T. W. Symons, superintendent of public buildings and grounds.

Before the unveiling of the statue the president and Lieutenant General Young, chief of the general staff of the army, reviewed the troops participating in the dedication parade from the stand opposite the statue. The president delivered the address of the day. A representative from each of the societies of the four armies followed in eulogies of General Sherman.

Indians Threaten Vengence.

Decatur, Neb., Oct. 16.—A series of depredations, alleged to have been committed by a gang of white men, on the Omaha reservation, has brought the Indians of the Skunk and Wolf lodges to a high state of excitement. United States Marshal Sloan has sent a number of deputies to quiet the Indians and arrest the guilty ones. The braves threaten disaster to the men if caught, and an effort is being made to capture them and take them to Omaha.

ECZEMA SETS THE SKIN ON FIRE

No disease causes so much bodily discomfort, or itches, and burns like Eczema. Beginning often with a slight redness of the skin it gradually spreads, followed by pustules or blisters from which a gummy, sticky fluid oozes which dries and scales off or forms bad looking sores and scabs. It appears on different parts of the body but oftenest upon the back, arms, hands, legs and face, and is a veritable torment at times, especially at night or when overheated.

The cause of Eczema is a too acid and general unhealthy condition of the blood. The terrifying itching and burning is produced by the overflow through the glands and pores of the skin of the fiery poisons with which the blood-current is overloaded. While external applications, such as washes, soaps, salves and powders aresoot hing and cooling they do not enter into the blood itself or touch the real cause of the disease, but S. S. S. does, and purifies, enriches, and strengthens the thin acid blood and cleanses and builds up the general system, when the skin clears off and Eczema with all its terrifying symptoms disappears.

In 1896 I experienced at times patches on the inside of my hands that itched and burned, causing much discomfort. As time went by it grew worse, and I was convinced that I was afflicted with Eczema. I consulted several physicians and a number of specialists, and used several external applications, receiving but slight temporary relief. In February I decided to try S. S. S., and in less than a month I experienced a change for the better, and by May all symptoms had disappeared, and I found myself entirely cured, and have had no return of the disease since. W. P. JAPAN AND THE EAST

CHINESE STUDENTS IN TOKIO

Philadelphia, Oct. 16.—The Eastern Missionary convention of the Methodist Episcopal church came to an end when a monster meeting was held in the Academy of Music. The convention, which began Tuesday, was a success in point of numbers attending its session and in the interest aroused for the Christianizing of the heathen world. Delegates were prominent clergymen and laymen from all parts of the country. Missionaries from Africa, Siberia, Japan, Korea, China, Malay peninsula, India, Liberia, Chile, Argentine Republic and Porto Rico also took part in the proceedings.

Because of the present course of events in the far east the address of Dr. Spencer on Japan was particularly interesting to the delegates. He has spent 20 years in Japan and told of the progress of mission work in that country. Dr. Spencer, among other things, said:

"In saving Japan you save the orient. Japan is already in practical control of Korea. She owns strategic railroads, telegraphs, banks, large commercial interests. Japan is sending hundreds of her picked men into China. They are reorganizing her army; are advisers to her government; are police organizers and teachers; are putting her schools into shape; are heads of business enterprises; are drafting her new code of civil law; are managing her imperial university. Little Japan leading old China!

"Why, 2,000 Chinese students are in the schools of Tokio, and among them are the sons of Chinese nobles; and of these students more than 100 are Chinese girls. Over 100 Chinese noncommissioned military officers are in Japanese barracks getting their training for war. And if these Chinese students and these Japanese can be Christianized what does this mean to the orient? Remember the trumpet call of Bishop Moore, 'as Japan goes, so goes the orient.'

"I would help Japan save China. I would hepl her build a wall so high and strong that the Russian bear could neither scale it nor crawl through it, for be it known unto you that wherever that bear places his paw there is an end to Protestant missions and ultimately to American commerce."

Pittsburg, Oct. 16.—The automobile endurance run to Pittsburg from New York came to a close with 21 machines in at the finish. The cars of Thomas, Garther and Whitman were the last to arrive. The machines began to arrive at Allegheny City about noon, and the first five were taken in charge by the reception committee of the Pittsburg Automobile club in machines. They were driven past the Hotel Schenley, which is the headquarters of the visitors, and thence to the garage. During the afternoon the cars kept coming in at frequent intervals. They were photographed as they pulled up at the door of the hotel.

The visitors attended a theater in the evening as the guests of the Pittsburg Automobile club, and afterwards there was a smoker. A telegram of congratulation was received from President Shattuck, of the Automobile Club of America, and there were numerous other telegrams of a like character from prominent automobilists. Mrs. A. L. Riker, the only woman who made the run, was presented with a massive bouquet by the survivors.

Decision of Alaskan Boundary Tribunal Concedes Case.

London, Oct. 16.—The Morning Advertiser announces that it regrets to learn from a source which it regards as beyond question that the decision of the Alaskan boundary tribunal virtually concedes the American case.

The Advertiser, which appears to be thoroughly satisfied with the reliability of its statement, says the news will be received in Canada with consternation. It gives a map and a detailed explanation showing how the decision will affect Canada and adds that those who have followed the arguments have been thoroughly satisfied with Hon. Clifford Sifton's preparation and presentation of the case.

Lima, O., Oct. 16.—H. H. Adkins, a prominent oil producer and promoter, was indicted on the charge of having embezzled $10,000 from stockholders of the Union Oil and Gas company. SHOT BY FORMER LOVER.

Lady Student Killed on Street—Murderer Then Suicides.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—Josephine Meade, a student of the University of California, was shot and killed by Paul Schmidt, aged 25 years, who afterward committed suicide.

Miss Meade was formerly a resident of Los Angeles, where she was employed as a teacher in the public schools. Schmidt was also a resident of Los Angeles, where he is said to have been prominently connected.

The tragedy occured at 1819 Luguna street, where Miss Meade lodged. On leaving the house Miss Meade was met by Schmidt, who had been waiting in the neighborhood for some time.

At that moment Schmidt began shooting. He sent four bullets into the girl's body. When she fell dead he calmly looked at her for a few moments, and walked down the street, removing the empty shells from his revolver. He then reloaded the pistol, and after firing in the air to test the cartridge, placed the pistol against his forehead and fired. He died instantly.

Schmidt and Miss Meade have been acquainted several years and were engaged to be married. His attentions became distasteful to her, however, and she, becoming alarmed at his threats against her life, gave up her position in Los Angeles and went to Boston to escape him, afterward returning to this city, where Schmidt followed.

MANDAMUS SUIT DECIDED.

Clarksburg, W. Va., Oct. 16.—In the circuit court of the United States here Judge Nathan Goff decided the mandamus suit of the Kingwood Coal company against the West Virginia Northern Railroad company and others in favor of the plaintiff company, and an order was entered directing the railroad company to cease its practice of discrimination of the distribution of coal cars among the collieries along its line. The decision was based on the working capacities of mines and not on rating given them by railroad companies, and upon the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

The decision is far-reaching, as it effects the relations between railroad companies and coal operators and especially accords to independent operators rights not heretofore observed by railroad companies. The Kingwood company was getting only 13 per cent of the cars and the decree directs that it be given 31 per cent.

Boy Tries to Exterminate Family.

NO MONEY FOR FLAGS

"I Don't Take Any Stock In That Kind of Business."

What motive inspired Mayor Johnson's evident ill-will against the American soldiers? Some suppose that it is because his father was a Confederate soldier and he was brought up in a secession atmosphere, but the real fighting Confederates have shown no sympathy with such spiteful acts as are credited to Johnson. It is unjust to them to blame them for his pettiness.

The most significant illustration of Johnson's conduct along this line has been his systematic snub of the soldiers on Memorial day, three times repeated. In 1901, just after he was elected mayor, he made it convenient to be in New York on Memorial day instead of reviewing the soldiers' parade, as should have been his pleasant duty as mayor of Cleveland. In 1902 he declined to have anything to do with the parade, and in 1903 he declined again, and then added to the insult of his refusal to appear in the reviewing stand at the city hall by sitting in his automobile in a street a short distance away. Not even in his public place as mayor was he able to shed his spite against the Union soldiers for a single occasion.

Whatever moved Johnson in this matter no one can know, but they may surmise from his treatment of the Grand Army of the Republic on two occasions. Although mayor of Cleveland at the time, and one of its wealthiest citizens, he was about the only prominent man in the city who refused to contribute toward the expenses of entertaining the national encampment of the Grand Army in Cleveland, and the rally of the surviving Union veterans of the Civil War in 1901. Some time after this he expressed his sentiment on this subject with his accustomed vigor. Commander W. W. Allen of Brooklyn Post No. 368, G. A. R., while raising funds for a new flag for the post from Cleveland friends, was advised to ask Mayor Johnson for a contribution. When he saw Johnson and handed him the subscription paper the latter threw it down contemptuously on the table and it fell upon the floor as he said: "I don't take any stock in that kind of business. I have more important things on hand than the G. A. R. and I have no money to give for flags."

Somewhat similar was his speech, "I have no use for soldiers, anyhow," made when he refused to make the welcoming address as mayor of Cleveland at the reception and banquet given to the returning Cleveland soldiers of the Philippine service, when 289 of them were given medals in recognition of their brave fight for their country in the Orient. Mr. Johnson said that he was going to be out of town, but it was stated when the matter became public that he stayed at his house that evening and no correction has ever been offered.

With this kind of a record, the soldiers of Ohio, more numerous than those of any other state, should see to it that their comrades and their friends should take care of Mr. Johnson at the polls. He has slighted and insulted the Union soldiers of the Civil war and the younger soldiers of the Spanish-American war without reason or excuse. It is their turn now.

STRAY SHOTS.

What use have the people of Ohio for a man who gets on a platform he has opposed and supports principles he has denounced, in return for a nomination for office? Clarke is that kind of a candidate, and now no one knows whether he is sincere about anything.

Every Ohio Democrat of whatever past or present shade of opinion has at stake in this campaign the one question nearest to him of all, whether Tom Johnson's orders must be obeyed at all hazards under penalty of expulsion from the party. They must smash Johnson or he will rule them with an iron hand.

Every Democrat in the Ohio legislature in 1902, in both senate and house, voted against the bills introduced and passed by Republicans that have relieved the general taxpayers of the state of over $3,000,000 this year by drawing that much more from the corporations. The Democrats did this under Tom Johnson's personal leadership, and he declared vehemently that the Republican laws would cause a smash in state affairs. He predicted failure for them, but instead they are working smoothly and successfully.

Turnipseed's attempt to dictate to the Democratic editors of Ohio would be comical except that it had the direct personal endorsement of Tom Johnson. The editors present were told by Johnson that he would approve what Turnipseed would do. And then Turnipseed told them that they must put out of the party even the oldest Ohio Democratic editors who might speak or even think otherwise than as Johnson permitted them to do. It was Turnipseed and Johnson that the Columbus Citizen, Dem., had in mind when it said: "Some people cannot understand why the Democratic editors of Ohio believe that they belong to themselves."

STRAY SHOTS.

Sunday stump speeches are the kind with Toledo Jones. Should he boost Johnson in making them, Tom's tender conscience would not squirm over it.

"Like master, like man." Mayor Johnson's city and county officials are tax dodgers like himself, and are dodging their duties just as he does, but every last man of them draws full pay every time.

Hanna is hated because he overthrew Bryanism and led the McKinley hosts. That is the very reason he ought to have the sterling support of every believer in prosperity.

In spite of every challenge to name a single Ohio industry employing a single man in any labor that benefits the community at large that is supported by Johnson's capital, not a case of the kind has been brought to light. Herrick and Hanna keep their money busy in concerns that give good employment at satisfactory wages to many thousands of men right here in Ohio. But not so Johnson.

From every part of Ohio comes the report of the strongest and best and most conscientious Democrats refusing to have anything to do with Johnson and Clarke and their crusade against the public peace and prosperity. Both for the general welfare and for the genuine good of their own party in the long run, these Democrats are determined to defeat Johnsonism. But all of their votes should only swell the overwhelming tide of defeat for the single taxer.

Some one has said, by way of excuse for Johnson's tax dodging, that he has immense industries and enterprises outside of Ohio. Where they are and what they are has been kept carefully concealed. For him to confess the existence of such investments would be to put their stocks and bonds that he owns upon the tax duplicate at its "selling value" or openly disobey the laws of Ohio. As mayor of Cleveland he has taken an oath to enforce those laws. As governor of Ohio it would be his duty above all others to enforce the laws of this state, but as a tax-dodger he is a law-breaker.

BASED ON RESULTS.

Rural Free Mail Delivery and Road Improvement Are Both Republican Achievements, and the People Appreciate the Great Good Done.

Practice compared with pretense, the real results rather than empty promises, is the record of the Republican party as compared with the opposition over and over again, year after year. Two marked illustrations of this are afforded by the sharp contrast between the platforms of the two parties in the present campaign and their achievements are two great matters of universal concern.

The Democratic platform is silent as the grave upon both of these great subjects and yet they come close home to scores of thousands of homes all over the state of Ohio. The Republican resolutions include this comprehensive declaration: "Better roads save Ohio's citizens millions of dollars yearly and should be systematically established by the state and federal governments. They are especially needed on account of the rural free mail delivery, for which the demand is now well nigh universal. INAUGURATED BY REPUBLICANS, A DEMOCRATIC ADMINISTRATION REFUSED IT A TRIAL, AND REPUBLICANS HAVE NOW PROVED ITS VALUE. We favor the extension of the system as rapidly as possible wherever desired."

The value of these declarations is that they are founded upon results actually accomplished. Laws enacted by the Republican legislature have recently stimulated a movement for better roads all over the state, because they have provided ways for securing such roads. An Ohio man who was largely influential as a member of the state senate in securing such laws, was put by President McKinley at the head of a national bureau of good roads and is accomplishing results of positive benefit in many parts of the country as well as in Ohio. Wherever these better roads have been built, they have proved money-makers to the farmers and a benefit to the towns. The Republicans rightly claim credit for what has been accomplished.

As to the rural free delivery, the resolution rightly claims all the credit for the Republican party. The original experiments in this line were made in President Harrison's term, but when Cleveland came in, his officials refused to have anything to do with rural free delivery and killed it off until McKinley became president. All the vast results already accomplished, with their incalculable benefits in making country life more attractive and desirable, are directly due, therefore, to Republican legislation and administration. No feature ever introduced in the government service has grown so rapidly and in such manifest response to the popular demand. The Republican platform, therefore, rightly stands by both of these great improvements so full of benefit to the farmer, and pledges itself for their further extension, while Democracy says nothing and does nothing.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I cannot tell you with pen and ink what good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound did for me, suffering from the ills peculiar to the sex, extreme lassitude and that all gone feeling. I would rise from my bed in the morning feeling more tired than when I went to bed, but before I had used two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began to feel the buoyancy of my younger days returning, became regular, could do more work and not feel tired than I had ever been able to do before, so I continued to use it until I was restored to perfect health. It is indeed a boon to sick women and I heartily recommend it. Yours very truly, MRS. ROSA ADAMS, 819 12th St., Louisville, Ky."

Any women who are troubled with irregular or painful menstruation, weakness, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, that bearing-down feeling, inflammation of the ovaries, backache, general debility, and nervous prostration, should know there is one tried and true remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. No other medicine for women has received such wide-spread and unqualified indorsement. No other medicine has such a record of female cures.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I am very pleased to recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for womb and ovarian difficulties from which I have been a sufferer for years. It was the only medicine which was at all beneficial, and within a week after I started to use it, there was a great change in my feelings and looks. I used it for a little over three months, and at the end of that time I suffered no pain at the menstrual period, nor was I troubled with those distressing pains which compelled me to go to bed, and I have not had a headache since. This is nearly a year ago. I always keep a bottle on hand, and take a few doses every week, for I find that it tones up the system and keeps me feeling strong, and I never have that tired out feeling any more.

"I certainly think that every woman ought to try this grand medicine, for it would prove its worth. Yours very truly, MISS ELSIE DANFORTH, 203 De Soto St., Memphis, Tenn."

The rustic choir's greatest show was always made in the anthem, in which some dumpkin had generally a solo to exhibit his "dusty voice." It was a splendid musical display—of its kind. People came from a long distance to hear it and felt so satiated that they left without the sermon. No wonder Shakespeare made Sir John Falstaff lose his voice with "hallooing and singing of anthems." To be sure, he was guilty of an anachronism, for there were no anthems in the fat knight's time, but it may reasonably be supposed that he had become so impressed with this part of the service in his own day that he dropped into the nod which even Homer is privileged occasionally to enjoy.

The Jack Tar who explained a "hanthem" to his mate on the simple principles of verbal elongation was not so far out after all. "If I was to say to you," he began, "'Ere, Bill, give me that handspike,' that wouldn't be a hanthem, but if I was to say to you, 'Bill, Bill, Bill, give, give, give me, give me that, that, that handspike, spike, spike, spike,' why, that would be a hanthem." Just after this fashion did the old village choirs tear and toss their anthem texts.

What You Ought To Know About Ohio Tax Laws

FARMER PERKINS—You promised me you would inform me as to the return of moneys and credits for taxation, and I am now ready to hear about it.

Lawyer Thorndike—The taxbearer is required to return, for taxation, all the money he has in possession, or subject to draft, or check, on grand levy day each year. This duty the state imposes upon him and requires him to make oath that he has done it. I have taken all the money on deposit in the national banks in Ohio, at their report nearest April 8, in each year; all the moneys on deposit in the building associations each year, back to and including 1892; all the moneys on deposit in the state banks, trust companies, private and savings banks each year, back to and including 1883, and give you the results of my investigation.

These figures are made up from the state auditor's reports, the reports of the comptrollers of the currency of the United States and the "Ohio Statistics," made up each year by the secretary of state, and I have grouped the years from 1902 back to 1883, in a decade. The moneys of the state in 1902, as gathered from these sources, not returned for taxation, were $344,-963,571. The sum of $55,089,511 was returned for taxation and the two sums represent the total moneys in the state that year.

The per cent of moneys returned in 1902 was 16. If any taxbearer in Ohio returned over 16 per cent of his money for taxation in 1902, he returned more than his proportion.

In 1901 the money in the state in banks not returned for taxation was $75,156,146.19. The sum of $50,950,012 went on the tax duplicate, or 20 per cent, and the two sums represent the whole moneys in the state that year. In 1900 and 1899 only 20 per cent of the moneys shown to be in the banks was returned for taxation, and in 1898 the amount went down to 16 per cent. In 1897 it rose to 25 per cent. In 1896 and 1895 it was 20 per cent, and in 1894 it was 33 per cent. In 1893 it was 31 per cent. In the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, the total moneys in the state, by the printed reports of the banks, not returned for taxation, was $2,056,012,231.69, and the total returned for taxation was $413,-655,944. In the last decade of the 56 years of the Kelley law only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state went on to the tax duplicate, and this with the Morganthaler tax-torturing machine in full force. From 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, only 40 per cent of the moneys in the state were returned for taxation. The whole amount in the state for this decade not returned for taxation was $791,500,224. The sum of $366,527,926 was returned for taxation in the same decade.

In the third decade, going back from 1882 to 1873, both years inclusive, the total money returned was $368,058,754, and that not returned was $370,380,116, a difference of only two-thirds of 1 per cent, or the amount returned was 49 1-3 per cent. But these figures remain to be explained. In 1875 and 1874 there was no report of deposits in the private banks in Ohio, and in 1873 there was no report from any private banks in Ohio.

The more fully statistics have been preserved, the greater the disparity between moneys in the banks and the moneys returned for taxation.

In 1846 the bank deposits in the state were $3,038,747 and moneys and credits returned were $27,265,210. In 1902 the bank deposits were $400,353,-102,73 and the moneys and credits returned $135,117,922. The owners of moneys want that class of property as favorably treated as personal chattels, and hence return their moneys at 20 per cent. In Iowa all property is returned for taxation at 25 per cent of the full value.

Farmer Perkins—If only 20 per cent of the moneys in the state are returned for taxation, how is it with the credits?

Lawyer Thorndike—In my study as to credits I have taken the list of mortgages recorded each year, from 1902 back as far as 1883, from the annual report of the secretary of state, and assumed this to represent one-third of the credits in that year, as I am justified in doing, from the statistics of 1888, of all the mortgages in the state. The mortgages recorded each year for the 10 years from 1902 to 1893, both years inclusive, amounted to $895,656,713.20.

Three times this sum is $2,685,170,-139.60, which represents all the mortgages in the state from 1893 to 1902, both years inclusive. The credits returned in the same 10 years were $964,-656,000, leaving the credits not returned in the same decade $1,721,073,336, or 35 per cent of the total credits in the same year.

In the decade from 1892 to 1883, both years inclusive, the mortgages recorded were $775,153,249.81. Three times this sum is $2,325,459,749.43, which represents the credits in the same decade. The credits returned in the same decade were $1,103,968,684, or about 50 per centum of the total credits.

From 1893 to 1902 there was a steady decrease of credits, which I will express in millions, though I could give the exact figures: 1893, one hundred and eleven; 1894, one hundred and ten; 1895, one hundred and six; 1896, one hundred and two; 1897, ninety-nine; 1898, ninety-three; 1899, ninety; 1900, eighty-six; 1901, eighty-two; 1902, eighty.

Now let some believer in the Alfred Kelley system explain this. From 1893 to 1902 Ohio has been growing richer each year, and yet in the same period its returns of credits have regularly and steadily diminished from one hundred and eleven millions to eighty millions. No doubt the thirty-one millions of a decrease has been driven out of the state by tax inquisitors. From 1883 to 1892 the increase in credits was only slightly over six millions, and in 1885, 1886, 1890 and 1892, four years out of the six, the returns dropped back.

Lawyer Thorndike—In 1866 the credits returned in the state were $79,860,-944. In 1902, 36 years later, they were $80,028,411, only an increase of $167,467 in 36 years, or an increase of $4,651.-86 per year. The year 1902 witnessed the largest return of moneys ever made in Ohio by about five millions. The return was $55,089,511 in a year, when there was on deposit in the banks and monetary institutions in the state $400,353,102.73.

I leave these matters to these gentlemen who are so busy writing letters to the newspapers defending the Kelley system of taxation. To a man who reasons, the statement of these facts carries its own conclusions. A system which does and will produce such results is, and can only be, a failure.

In 1890 the real estate in Ohio was valued for taxation at 40 per cent of what it was returned to the census officers, while the general average in the United States was 41 per cent. In the same year the personal property on the tax duplicate was 38 2-10 per cent of the same property returned to the census enumerators, while in the whole country personal property assessed for taxation was 22 5-10 per cent of its real value. Our careful Ohio people got 15 per cent above the general average in the whole country, which is a very serious reflection upon them.

Farmer Perkins—In looking over your statistics of moneys and credits returned in Ohio, I noticed that in 1855 moneys and credits returned were $104,014,619, and in 1902 the aggregate of the same two items returned in Ohio was $135,117,922 or a gain of $31,013,-303 in 47 years, or $647,093.68 per year, and that $1,659,357 was gained in 1902 from the year 1901. I had thought the people of the state were more thrifty than these figures would indicate. How do you account for this slow growth of wealth in the state?

Lawyer Thorndike—In 47 years the sentiments of the people were in favor of ad valorem taxation because the theory was noble and because they had not tried it. Now intelligent public sentiment everywhere is opposed to the taxation of moneys and credits, and the taxbearer returns some of them, for form's sake, and enough to keep the tax officers quiet.

Lawyer Thorndike—There is only one way, and that is for a majority of all the voters in the state to vote in favor of the taxation amendment to the constitution, now before the people. If that becomes the organic law the taxation of moneys and credits can be done away with.

Farmer Perkins—I have a case I wish to submit to you. William McGlone had a farm worth $10,000, valued for taxation at $5,000. He borrowed $5,000 of Abel Jones on a mortgage. Jones sold $5,000 in United States bonds to give him the money, which was delivered the day before grand tax levy day. The rate of taxation was 2 per cent. Jones lived in the same taxing district with McGlone, and the latter held the money on deposit over tax levy day. McGlone paid $100 taxes on his land and $100 taxes on the money he borrowed of Jones, and the latter paid $100 taxes on his mortgage. The state got $300 taxes where, if the transaction had not been made when it was, it would have had but $100. What do you think of that transaction?

Lawyer Thorndike—It is a fine on McGlone for going in debt, a penalty assessed on him for living in the state, and he and Jones could have easily avoided the payment of the extra $200 taxes had they been so disposed and agreed to do so. The return and payment of the $200 tax on their part was purely voluntary.

Kidney Disease Kills.

Kidney diseases should be attended to at once, for almost 90 per cent. of our unexpected deaths of to-day are from that cause. Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy is the only sure cure known for diseases of the kidneys, liver, bladder and blood, rheumatism, dyspepsia and chronic constipation. It is marvelous how it stops that pain in the back, relieves the necessity of urinating so often at night, drives away that scalding pain in passing water, corrects the bad effects of whiskey and beer and shows its beneficial effects on the system in an incredibly short time.

"I have used Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy with the most beneficial results. I was troubled with gravel and kidney complaint very severely, it bothered me a great deal, and have found great relief from its use, and cheerfully recommend it."

"Favorite Remedy" is the most successful medicine ever discovered for kidney, bladder, liver and blood diseases. Its record of cures has made it famous in medical circles everywhere. It is recognized as a specific. It purifies the blood and dissolves the excess of uric acid in it, clears up the urine, restores the kidneys and bladder to their normal condition, and gently moves the bowels.

It is for sale by all druggists in the New 50 Cent Size and the regular $1.00 size bottles—less than a cent a dose.

HOW BANKS INCREASE BUSINESS

Des Moines bankers are learning to advertise. This is the great reason that Des Moines banks are growing so rapidly. Advertising in the banking business is a new departure, but it is accomplishing wonderful results. A local banker who has been using page after page of display advertising in the local newspapers recently said:

"Through our advertising I believe we have increased our number of depositors one-third in the past few months."

Pittsburg banks are spending about a million dollars every year in display advertising. The big newspapers of that city contain more advertising from the banks in town than from the department stores. The success that has followed their efforts has led Des Moines men to follow in their wake. The enterprising bankers of the city are quick to see the possibilities of advertising in educating the people to save. The others will soon be forced to follow in their footsteps or suspend. — Des Moines (Ia.) Capital.

STATE TAKES ALL LAND

Secret Work Going on Over the State By Hired Agents Preaching the Single Land Tax, Though Johnson Dodges It In Platform and Campaign—Its Advocates Define the Idea.

"Vote the straight Republican ticket, and brand the brazen dragon of single tax with everlasting defeat." This emphatic language of the Caldwell Journal is the growing sentiment of the people of Ohio as fast as they find out just the taxation that Johnson's false cry of "just taxation" actually means for them. Its real purpose has been enveloped in a cloud of words, but there has been a most conspicuous lack of any precise statement of the Johnson program. This of itself is enough to condemn it to every judicious mind. Mere fine words will not answer, where all of the most precious property rights of every home owner in town and country alike, are imperiled.

That this peril is imminent and unmistakable, is made plain by the statement of the Johnson program from those best qualified to speak on the subject. While Johnson's platform says nothing this year about the single land tax, although written by the editor of the single land tax organ at Chicago, brought to Ohio by Johnson to help his campaign, yet it is only cowardice that keeps out of the platform actual mention of the subject that underlies the document, and is its vital spirit. With equal cowardice Johnson himself has never dared to say single tax in this campaign thus far, although last year he repeatedly referred to it as his most precious principle, as the sovereign remedy for all political ills. Why should so great a thing, in fact the greatest thing in political affairs one short year ago, according to Johnson, be shoved into the background by Johnson?

And yet all is not silence on the subject. Johnson's political preacher at Cincinnati had a sermon about it, that was really a stump speech, the other Sunday, showing what he called the success of the scheme. Other men hired by Johnson, or someone for him, have been operating all over the state, like soap sellers and street fakers, peddling single tax doctrine, and trying to manufacture votes for Johnson. There has been some campaigning, too, of the kind that was used against McKinley when he was given the defeat for congress that nominated him for governor and president. Holmes county in that campaign was over-run with glib talkers with a pack of lies about McKinley, that cost him enough votes to cause his defeat. These men had various pretenses of occupation, but their real business was to defeat McKinley.

Thus this year Johnson emissaries are reported as surreptitiously scattering over the state with false stories about the single tax. One misstatement that has been worked because of its plausibility, while untrue, is that the single tax means only that the double tax of both land and the mortgage upon it required by the Ohio constitution would be taken off by Tom Johnson. Every one agreed to this long before Johnson was heard of in Ohio, but the puzzle has been how to do it with the constitution as it is, or how to change the constitution safely. This, though, is not the single tax that Johnson has talked about. The nature of that is clearly shown in the adopted official statement of the single tax principle by its advocates, as accredited to Henry George himself as follows:

"We assure that no tax should be levied on the products of labor. We are in favor of raising all public revenues for National, State, County and Municipal purposes by a single tax upon land values, irrespective of improvements, and all the obligations of all forms of direct and indirect taxation. The single tax can be instituted by the single and easy way of abolishing, one after another, all other taxes now levied, and commensurately increasing the tax on land values until we draw upon that one source for all expenses of government, the revenue being divided between local governments, state government and the general government. In assessment under the single tax all valuaes created by individual use or improvement would be excluded, and the only value taken into consideration would be the value attaching to the bare land."

Every property owner can see for himself how he likes such a program, but even this is not all of it. This official declaration makes perfectly plain that land alone, and nothing but land, is to pay every penny of expense in the cost of government from the entire United States down to the road districts, and that every dollar of the immense investments in stocks and bonds, and so on, such as make up all of Tom Johnson's millions on which he dodges taxes, is to be absolutely exempt from any kind of tax. This makes plain, too, that every improvement upon the land is to escape taxation.

One point that it does not state is Henry George's repeated declaration that all these taxes upon land are to be made so heavy as to take away the land entirely from its owners, because all private ownership is nothing but robbery, as he calls it. This is to be done so that the state shall own all the land forever, and use all its revenue for society.

This is pure socialism, and no Johnson denial can make it anything but socialism. To vote for Johnson is to vote for it. He declares he don't want your vote if you don't believe with him. Don't give it to him, then, but bury him and his schemes in the same grave.

A Painful Page of Past Experience Recalled.

Lower Wages, Fewer Days and Shorter Hours Were the Result of the Tom Johnson Legislation, Which He and Clarke Would Bring If They Could.

It has come to my notice through the columns of your paper that on Sept. 12, 1903, Hon. T. L. Johnson spoke to a large audience in Youngstown. After exhausting his vocabulary of vituperation and slander on Senator M. A. Hanna, he, knowing Youngstown to be the hotbed of unionism, turned his attention to the subject, winding up with the remark that never would the evils of which the unions complained be wiped out until they aim deeper than they do and strike at the root by voting the Democratic party into power. Oh, folls and slow of heart, to believe all the reformers have told you! I am of the opinion that T. L. J. struck the wrong town. The union men of the A. A. of I. & S. W. in Youngstown remember that T. L. Johnson, W. J. Bryan and W. L. Wilson were members of congress and drafted a bill which became a law that did more to cripple unionism than anything that has occurred since the landing of the Pilgrim Fathers in 1620.

Union men know that in 1892 jobs were plenty and there was work for all. The base of wages was $5.50 per ton. The bill above mentioned when put into execution by T. L. J., W. J. B., and W. L. W. reduced the opportunity to work over one-half and reduced wages of labor 50 per cent. The unionist of Youngstown well remembers the all-night session in 1896, from 4:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon until 7:30 o'clock Sunday morning, when they were glad to settle for $4 per ton. Perhaps Tom L. Johnson thinks that was a good way to settle complaints against the Democracy in every branch of the government. We had free trade, "free soup," and shorter hours from six days a week to one, two, and never more than three, at a reduction in pay of $1.50 per ton. Cataract Lodge No. 2, A. A., was not in a thriving condition. The writer, with a few others, got up an entertainment. We concluded to send four tickets to each local under the jurisdiction of the A. A. On Feb. 16, 1897, I sent out 145. Seventy-five came back, 14 contained $1.

"Yours of 16th received. I presented to our lodge your tickets, and after due consideration, owing to the deplorable condition we are in, it would be impossible for us to help you. Times are hard and work scarce, with little prospect for the future.

"J. C. JONES,

"Pittsburg, Pa., Feb. 20, 1897—Hall of Iron City Lodge, No. 1:

"Your communication received with four tickets. Sorry to say, our lodge instructed me to return them to you from the fact that our mill has not averaged more than one day and a half or two a week for the last five months. I can assure you that it has been the greatest effort on my part to keep our lodge together.

"JAMES L. MARKS,

McKinley was inaugurated March 4, 1897, and since that time we have been climbing up, with plenty of work for everybody, and a raise of wages from $4 to $6. Union men should look at this question fairly, without partiality or prejudice, and be governed by good common sense. Now you hear nothing of a "soup house." All we have to do is to look at the years—1893, 1894, 1895 and 1896, and from July, 1897 to the present time.

And as the advocates of the free, unlimited coinage of silver, at the ratio of 16 to 1, means union men to be paid in money worth 40 cents on the dollar. Again we heard that this was a state campaign. National issues should not be discussed. They never mentioned Hon. M. T. Herrick, but the tirade upon Senator Hanna knew no bounds, charging him with everything but the disaster at crib No. 3. Let it be known Senator Hanna never voted for a measure or introduced one that would reduce the wages of labor one cent. Tom L. Johnson did. While he, as a national official, votes to take from union laboring men their jobs, the Democratic way of remedying the evils union labor complains of.

MESSENGER MISSING

New York, Oct. 16. — Haskins & Sells, certified public accountants, asked the local police to send out a general alarm for Clarence H. Leonard, 18 years old, of East Orange, N. J., a messenger employed by the firm. It is alleged that Leonard forged two checks, one for $7,500, and the other for $2,576, using the firm name, on two local banks, presented them at the banks and collected the money. He is said to have secured the money last Tuesday at noon, and to have disappeared immediately afterward. It is also said that a young woman living in East Orange disappeared at the same time. Leonard had been attentive to her and the supposition of the bank officials and the police is that they have eloped. Leonard comes from a prominent family of East Orange and had the full confidence of his employers.

It was part of Leonard's duties as messenger to make deposits and to draw money for current uses of the firm from the banks. He was well known at the banks and there was no question when the checks were presented for payment.

The forgery is considered to be clever work and the bank officials say was undoubtedly traced. The discovery was made, however, in one of the banks almost immediately after the check had been cashed there. The suspicion of the cashier was aroused because Leonard, he said, seemed nervous, and because the check called for $7,500—a larger amount than he had ever presented a check for before. Haskins & Sells were communicated with and a member of the firm hurried to the bank, examined the check and pronounced it a forgery. Inquiry at another bank where the firm had an account disclosed the fact that Leonard had cashed a check for $2,576 there.

The police were informed and detectives hurried to East Orange, but found no trace of Leonard. When the young man left home Tuesday morning he told his parents he intended to stay in New York that night.

A description of Leonard has been telegraphed to all the principal cities of the country and all steamship lines and railroads have been watched. A detective agency has also sent out a description of the young woman in the case.

PLATT ON HONEYMOON.

Marriage Took Place Sunday—Ceremony Was Private.

New York, Oct. 16.—Announcement was made that the marriage of United States Senator Thomas C. Platt and Mrs. Lillian T. Janeway took place at the Holland house on Sunday last. The Rev. Dr. Barrell performed the ceremony in the presence of the intimate members of Mr. Platt's and Mrs. Janeway's families. The senator said that he chose a private ceremony to avoid the crush and annoyance of a public wedding. Senator and Mrs. Platt left the city for a short trip.

After Being Out Twenty Hours Jury Acquit Him of Murder.

Lexington, S. C., Oct. 16.—The trial of James H. Tillman, charged with the murder of N. G. Gonzales, editor of the State, in Columbia, on Jan. 15 last, ended in an acquittal. The jury before which Tillman has been on trial since Sep. 28 brought in a verdict of not guilty, thus ending a judicial hearing which has engrossed the attention of the public of South Carolina as none other has in the last quarter of a century. The jury was out for 20 hours before arriving at a verdict.

Never was a case in South Carolina courts more vigorously contested than this. The solicitor was assisted in the prosecution by four other lawyers, while the accused was defended by seven lawyers, an exceptional array of counsel. More than a hundred witnesses gave testimony, about as many on one side as the other, and nine lawyers argued before the jury.

St. Louis, Oct. 16.—A strike was declared by the Pacific express messengers in St. Louis. Last Tuesday the members of the local Brotherhood of Railway Expressmen submitted a demand for an increase of 10 per cent in wages. They stopped work, and only returned upon the assurance that their demands would be considered. Notification was sent to the express messengers that the increase could not be granted, and the walkout resulted.

Kansas City, Oct. 16. — Addressing the convention of Roadmasters and Maintenance of Way association here A. Morrison, of Pittsburg, Pa., advised his hearers to treat their men with consideration. "Give your men one day in seven to rest," said Mr. Morrison, "and let that day be Sunday. The company loses money on every man who does not rest one day in seven. Let the men spend Sundays with their families at home and you will have better men. It is economy for the company and a kindness to the men. I have proved that it is possible, and you can devise means to accomplish it if you will only try it." The convention adjourned to meet at St. Louis next September.

Motions for Nonsuit Overruled.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16.—In the trial of Miller and Johns for alleged conspiracy and bribery under the recent postal indictments the government rested and the defense introduced evidence for three hours. One of the defendants was still on the stand when court adjourned, and it is thought that most of the time will be taken up today with these two defendants as witnesses, so that the arguments will not be made until Saturday. After the government rested council for both Johns and Miller filed motions for a nonsuit. Both motions were promptly overruled by Judge Thompson.

Dynamite Failed to Explode.

Helena, Mont., Oct. 16.—Six sticks of dynamite were found on the Northern Pacific track near Birdseye, eight miles west of Helena. An extra freight, eastbound, passed over the powder during the night without exploding it. The dynamite was discovered by section men. It had been placed under the rail, the fish plates of which had been removed. Chief of Detectives McEldridge, of St. Paul, in charge of the Northern Pacific train and officers, left with a pack of bloodhounds soon after the finding of the powder was reported.

Fellow Convict Murderously Assaulted.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 16.—M. A. Crocraft, convict, sentenced from Rock Island a year ago, made a murderous attack on George McCormick, a convict sent from Chicago last spring. The assault took place in the shoe shop at the state penitentiary. Crocraft used a knife, plunging it into McCormick's head and drawing it down across the cheek and neck. Other convicts became greatly excited, but the guards checked the threatened outbreak and disarmed Crocroft. He was sent to the dungeon. McCormick probably will recover.

Notable Assemblage.

London, Oct. 16.—The dinner given by the Pilgrims society to the Alaskan boundary commission at Claridge's hotel proved the most notable assemblage of Englishmen, Americans and Canadians ever brought together in London. In addition to the members of the commission the British cabinet ministers, the American ambassadors and most prominent representatives of English public life were present.

Appointed Bishop in Philippines.

Cincinnati, Oct. 16. — Information was received that Father M. P. McSorley, of the convent of the Good Shepherd, in this city, has been appointed a bishop in the Philippine Islands. Father McSorley has been a missionary for many years and lately has been priest at the convent. He was born at Phillipsburg, N. J., 39 years ago.

The origin of the turban must be looked for not, as commonly believed, among Moslems, but as a sign of authority and honor dating back to the earliest periods of Jewish history. The term used in the Hebrew Bible for putting on the bonnet of the high priest is from a root meaning "to bind round." The words miter, hood, diadem, as used in the Old Testament, are only variations of the word turban.

Jerome tells us that the turban has a place in the most ancient records of history. The variations as adopted by Mohammedans are many. Their own authorities hint at a thousand methods of arranging the turban, which shows not only the tribe and religious distinction, but even the personal peculiarities of the wearer.

The Gopher Snake.

It has long been a question in our minds as to how the gopher snake caught the gophers on which he lives, but H. C. Heitzer tells how it was done, having witnessed a catch. Mr. Snake coiled his tail over the gopher hole, setting a snare for him. When the gopher had crawled out of the hole sufficiently to permit the snake's tail to be drawn about the body of the gopher the coil was fastened about Mr. Gopher as quick as a flash.

It was gradually drawn tighter and tighter until the gopher fell over dead, the life having been completely squeezed out of him. After the gopher is dead the snake swallows him whole, and it is not an unusual thing to find one of these snakes with a number of gophers in him. The gopher is a great fighter, and if he was not caught in a snare as the one mentioned he would doubtless make a hard fight for life even with a snake.—Tulare Advance.

While we never trouble trouble till trouble troubles us, still we are not kept waiting long between times, are we?—Atlanta Journal.

There is a peculiar bird common known as the "kiwi." Its scien name being Apteryx mantelli. It is the lowest form of bird which exists, is so scarce that scientists are hap to get a specimen in any condition. It is absolutely without wings or tail. Its legs are short, stubby, but very strong and are used by this bird for digging. The body covering is a cross between hair and feathers, a material which is very coarse. They can develop great speed and make a desperate fight when attacked. Breeding them in captivity has utterly failed, and only a few museums can boast of a specimen. They are now very rarely found in the forests and swamps in the north of New Zealand.
